AN INDEPENDENT PAPER. Member of Associated Press.

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 17, 1908

CALIFORNIA VIEW OF OREGON ELECTION

The Berkeley Reporter, one of the ablest Republican newspapers of California, comments very intelligently upon the result of the recent senatorial election in Oregon. Its conclusions upon the growing independence among all parties and classes of voters is well timed, and conforms to the views enunciated by The Guard, when it adopted an independent political policy, believing it to be in line with the progressive tendencies of the times, which are the outgrowth of more pronounced individual action since the voter began to think and act for himself and to follow party leadership only so far as it agreed with his own inclinations and beliefs.

The days of blind party allegiance have passed, and the work and utterances of such men as Roosevelt, Bryan and LaFollette have had much to do with bringing about such a state of mind among the American people. The Reporter says: "As the people of Oregon feel, so feel the electors in all parts of the country, and machine politicians may take heed to it. There is no doubt whatever that nine-tenths of the Republicans would prefer free trade with the assurance of personal integrity and ability in high office, to protection secured by the election of untrustworthy candidates, and that nine-tenths of the Democrats would prefer high protection with honest government to any other kind of a tariff with untrustworthy men in office.

The Guard will give its readers the report of the work of the Chicago convention the day it happens. It will do the same thing when the Democrats meet at Denver, the evening paper being true to its motto, "today's news today."

Steel billets, sheet bars, plates, structural shapes, merchant pipes and wire nails have all been reduced in price. None of these things, however, figure on any family bill of fare that has come under our observation.

AGRICULTURAL PAPER ON GRANGE SUGGESTION

A movement has been started in Lane county to have the State University and the Oregon Agricultural College placed under the same board of regents, says the Oregon Agriculturist. There is much to be said in favor of such a plan, as well as a good deal which can well be said on the other side. We cannot help feeling that the incentive to the movement, however, is one of hostility to higher education by the state because the movement has been started by the same persons who followed the referendum on the University appropriation. It is astounding that so many persons in Oregon failed to appreciate the black eye which the defeat at the University appropriation would have given Oregon. We believe it would have been better if the Agricultural College had always been one of the colleges of the State University. That is the way it is in Wisconsin and Minnesota, both of which are doing splendid work in the line of agricultural education. There are great obstacles now in the way of such an arrangement in Oregon, and an attempt to bring it about may result in more harm than good. The alleged object of the movement of the plan is to put both institutions under one board to avoid duplication of work. This, in reality, is an aim which should be remedied.

"Good roads are avenues of progress."

gress, the best proof of intelligence; they aid the social and religious advancement of the people; they increase the value of products; they save time, labor and money; they are the initial process of commerce which swell in great streams and flow everywhere, distributing the products of our fields, forests and factories. The highways are the common property of the country, their benefits are shared by all, and they are needed by all; they benefit all and all should contribute to them." was the text selected recently by Hon. John H. Bankhead, of Alabama, upon which he delivered a powerful oration in the senate of the United States.

According to the Scientific American, the twelve locomotive manufacturers in the United States and Canada built 7362 locomotives in 1907, of which 6477 were for use at home and 885 were exported. This is an increase of six per cent as compared with 1906. These figures do not include locomotives built in shops of the railway companies. There were 329 electric locomotives and 240 compound locomotive built, as against 227 and 292 respectively in 1906.

The latest telephone report shows that January 1, 1908, there were in use in the systems of the various Bell companies 3,829,000 telephones, an increase of more than three-quarters of a million during the year. The company has 163,000 miles of poles and 1,664,000 miles of wire. Alexander Graham Bell has reason to look at these figures with a great deal of satisfaction.

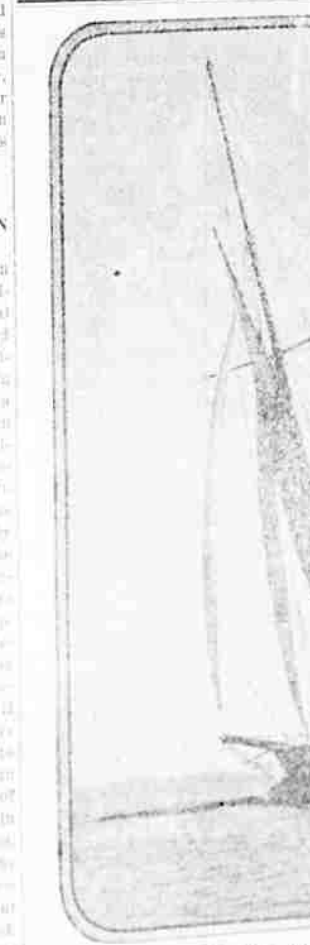

It is announced that plans have been perfected in Kansas City for a religious campaign that will "touch" every part of the world. We have known some "touching" revivalists ourselves in our time and we doubt if Kansas City can produce anything more adept along this line. But then, you can never tell; the world is improving all the time.

A Western paper mourns the loss of its editor who died recently and whose estate was appraised at $109,000. The paper states that the editor started in life with 50 cents, and that the balance of his fortune was won by thrift and industry and the kindness of an uncle who died, bequeathing him $59,998.50.

The Guard will give its readers the report of the work of the Chicago convention the day it happens. It will do the same thing when the Democrats meet at Denver, the evening paper being true to its motto, "today's news today."

Don't forget that tomorrow is the official clean-up day in Eugene. Get out and work, even if it should be a little damp. The curdle will do you good and improve the general appearance of the city very materially.

The man who wobbles every time

SIR THOMAS LIPTON'S NEW YACHT.

Sir Thomas Lipton's new yacht, Shamrock IV, has just completed her trial trip. She will sail from Eugene on the 17th of June. She is 100 feet long and 20 feet wide. She is the fastest yacht in the world.

TAKING PRECAUTIONS

"The trees will soon be leaving" But we are not believing that. 'Cause now we've got 'em tied.

he hears a plausible argument will save himself worry by remembering that it is plausibility which enables the professional spinster to coin hot air into real money.

Br'er Fairbanks may soon be in a position, if he is not already there, to fully appreciate the fable about the animal that had to go hungry because he hesitated too long between two chances to get a square meal.

If their opinions were obtainable, it would doubtless be found that the "allies" do not believe the adage about not putting all your eggs in one basket works when applied to politics.

It's quite certain that the administration has not done anything to the "allies" that the "allies" would not have done to the administration, had the conditions been reversed.

Least a wrong impression be created concerning the black-and-tan delegation from Liberia. We hasten to say that the delegation is not accredited to the Chicago convention.

It should not be forgotten, however, that the source from which he got his orders was the greatest factor in making the power of Frank Hitchcock.

The "unbearable dilutions" to the Chicago convention were handed complimentary tickets for a down trip on the bump-the-bumps shuttle as last Saturday showed us.

Of course the second place on the Tait ticket is "open" but that does not mean, we take it, that any man will get it who lacks the proper O.K.

These warm showers are appreciated by everybody, and will put the finishing touches on prospective bumper crops of all kinds.

Moreover, in the minds of many wise men, a senatorship in the hand is worth more than a vice presidency in the ballots.

Sure; June will go down in history as a month of political disappointments, but at that it will have nothing on July.

Speaking of big hearts, the president and Mrs. Roosevelt sent one five feet high as a wedding gift the other day. It was made of illness.
