MAY ROBSON.

AUTOS USE ELEVENTH

STREET AS SPEEDWAY

During the last ten days, automobiles, mostly out of town machines, having been using East Eleventh street as a speedway. In one or two cases experienced drivers, who have been riding stating that they were going nearly forty miles an hour. There is a city ordinance limiting the speed of autos to six miles an hour on the streets, but we venture the assertion that there is not a single driver that observes it. While a six-mile limit is too low, there should be some restrictions placed on those who are inclined to go as fast as twenty miles an hour and faster.

There is now a practical certainty that the Oregon prune crop will be a short one, particularly as regards Italian prunes. The frosts did the work. Sometimes a shortage is made up by another state, but not this time. Reports from California lead to the inevitable conclusion that the Santa Clara valley will send out a lighter prune yield than usual.
