COMMERCIAL MEN SAY ORIENT IS DULL.

Trade conditions in the Orient are in sad condition, according to reports from commercial travelers who have been making extended tours through that region of late, owing, it is said, to a scarcity of money and an overstocking of the market in all goods handled by American importers, such as flour and cotton goods and great many food stuffs. From all those acquainted with the situation pessimistic expression is given and on the present outlook conditions do not likely to be better for some time to come.

It is declared that American commerce in these countries, particularly China and Japan, is so fraught with danger to the shipper that it is extremely hazardous for anybody to engage extensively in the business at this time. One man, who has just returned from his annual trip to China and Japan says these countries are "just" and the warehouses there are filled with silk bales which six months ago were valued at 1400 yen per ton. Flour made by American mills is a drug on the market in China. Shanghai importers are suffering from a depreciation in the currency of the country amounting to more than 30 per cent.

The warlike spirit of Japan shown in preparation for a greater navy and massive governmental expenditures has had a marked economic effect on China. The Chinese boycott of Japanese shipping lines and manufacturers on account of the recent Tatan incident has also worked troubles for the entire trade in Japan.

Indeed, the present business depression noticed everywhere in this country is not confined to us alone, it prevails in other parts of the world. England and Germany are complaining of hard times and other nations are experiencing a condition closely bordering on a panic. Just by this should be so has not yet been explained by any of the financial authorities, but it seems to be all too true.

Our own John Hays Hammond has been $10,000 to found a chair of political science in an Eastern College. How like him! No doubt John recognizes his deficiency along this line from his experience in the National Republican convention at Chicago, recently, which prompts him to range for a place where he may "push up a bit, when the time comes for another trial for the honors of Vice-President of the United States.

The railroads of the country and other great corporations will today absorb nearly two hundred millions of dollars in dividends. That might be a long way toward relieving the financial stringency that is said to prevail in some parts of the East. At thousands of men are to be put back to work in the railroad shops, after a lay-off of several months.

The death of Grover Cleveland has brought to the mind of somebody in the country has never had two Presidents at one time. Another thing which is also brought out at this time is the fact that there are no ex-Presidents. When "Teddy" rises from the chair next March he will have the distinction of being the only one in existence, so far as the United States is concerned.

What the "S" was to the cartoonists of Mark Hanna's time, the "T" trademark is to the present school in handling Taft. But the man named gentleman is not likely to be known as the popularity of Sam Gompers is still all "hot up" though he hopes to get cooled off a little in Denver. If Sam doesn't watch out, he'll have to take to wearing his hat full of cracked ice all the time, instead of occasionally.

Explanations of what didn't happen at a political convention are every bit as interesting, and important as the fisherman's talk about "the big one that got away." Also, it may be added, equally as hard to shut off.

Tom Lawson merely increased the number of those who believe him to be a four-flusher when he offered to give the democratic party $1,000,000, if the convention will make the ticket Johnson and Bryan.

When a man has fizzled at everything he has tried, he begins to realize that his real calling is to hand out advice and he proceeds to do it for the remainder of his life.

We notice a headline in an exchange reading, "Something about Wall Street Morals." That's one on us. Never knew it has such an in-ombance.

If we may guess Mr. Bryan's intentions by his criticisms, the Roosevelt ideas turned down in Chicago, will be endorsed in Denver, if he has his way.

If you see a married woman publicly wearing one of those "sheath" gowns, with a slit open up to the hips, you know who's boss in that family.

Kansas has fifty counties in which paupers are so rare that they could be exhibited profitably; also a slick press agent, whose pay should be raised.

As the combined weight of Taft and Sherman exceeds 500 pounds, they will doubtless thank their friend Bryan, for pointing out the weak planks in the platform.

Perhaps Tom Watson is holding back his letter of acceptance to be sure of just where the other Presidential candidates stand before defining his position.

There seems to be a disposition to believe, on account of its unusually good English, that a Root was at the bottom of the Republican platform.

In all seriousness, the Chicago lady who is suing for her seventh divorce should be warned of the danger of overdoing the susceptible men.

Some men are so deeply interested in the doings of the Presidential "Bills" that they overlook the payment of some of their own little bills.

The Eagle will let out a mighty scream in Eugene next Saturday. Our celebration this year promises to be a hummer and no mistake.

Heart to Heart Talks.

THE GAMBLER.
"Yes, he is a gambler, but his word is perfectly good in business, and he is a good hearted fellow."
Such expressions are more or less current in many communities. And such expressions are misleading. What

Mr. Quilverful: "I wonder whether I am a perambulator or a somnambulator."

MRS. PAULINA H. LYON.
Mrs. Paulina H. Lyon of Chicago, who has become noted as a promoter of large enterprises, has been invited to form women's athletic clubs in several cities. Her success in establishing the Women's Athletic club in Chicago has carried her fame all over the country. Mrs. Lyon comes of a prominent Chicago family, being a cousin of John Burroughs, the famous naturalist.

is a gambler?
1. HE IS A LEECH.
He takes money over the green cloth and gives nothing in return. He saps society. He is a parasite. He produces nothing. He consumes the produce of others and does not pay for it. He lives on others, like the louse on the tapeworm. He absorbs, but does not give out. He is useless to the body politic. He is never pointed to with pride. He is always viewed with alarm. He is a human-leech.
2. HE IS A CRIMINAL.
He wins money dishonestly. He is therefore at heart a malefactor. He grows worse as his career grows. The drunkard may reform, but the rule is that "once a gambler always a gambler." The gambler cannot keep the money he wins. One day, grown desperate, he commits a crime.
There was Samson.
He was about the first gambler we know of. He wagered thirty suits of clothes with the Philistines. They were smooth people and outwitted him, whereupon he committed murder. Samson is a prototype of the gamblers. They usually end by becoming known criminals.

3. HE IS AN OUTLAW.
Every state has strict laws against gambling. In every city it is prohibited by ordinance. It is the gambler's daily business to violate these laws. He is absolutely and deliberately lawless. He is not a citizen. He is an outlaw. He is a professional lawbreaker. He is a bandit. His hand is against every man.
4. HE IS A MAN RUINER.
The gambler has no bowels of mercy. Compassion is not in him. Woe to the man who gets into his clutches! He will squeeze that man of money, reputation, soul, and throw away the rind. In a word, HELL IS NEXT DOOR TO WHERE THE GAMBLER STAYS.
How, then, can it be said of him that he is honest in business and a good fellow?

DELICIOUS BANANA CREAM.
This recipe is highly recommended by one of our correspondents; try it for dessert tomorrow.
Peel five large bananas, rub smooth with five teaspoonsful of sugar. Add one teaspoon sweet cream beaten to a stiff froth, then add one package of Lemon JELL-O dissolved in 1-2 teacups of boiling water. Pour into mold and when cold garnish with candied cherries. Serve with whipped cream, or a good padding sauce. JELL-O is sold by all grocers at 15¢ per package.
