Sixth and Seventh districts of the state of New York. The Nineteenth district of the state of Ohio. The Thirty-second district of the state of Pennsylvania. The District of Columbia. In the matter of the contest from the First, Second, Fourth, Fifth and Sixth districts of the state of Pennsylvania we recommend that the contestants shall be seated and recognized by this convention as the only accredited delegates and alternates from said districts in the state of Pennsylvania, to-wit: First district, Second district, Fourth district, Fifth district, Sixth district. In the matter of the contest from the Ninth district of the state of

FRANK S. KATZENBACH, JR. Democratic candidate for governor at the last election, and a possible nominee for vice president.

Ohio, your committee recommends that the following be seated in this convention as the accredited delegates from said district: E. A. Powers, Dr. William Walls. When Callahan read the decision against Guffey there were a few hisses and some applause. In the matter of the two lists of the committee on appointments from Pennsylvania Callahan recommended that in view of the contested decisions the lists be referred back to the delegations for further action. The usual motion to adopt was followed by the recognition of L. L. Strauss, of Maryland, who read the minority report, which recommended that contestants in the Pennsylvania cases be seated. Strauss made the report of the Pennsylvania cases by no means to the country over. In the Middle Western states substantial decreases. There were 4, a total of 349,847 in this country and Canada reporting to the American Association, compared with 47 on June 10 and with a decrease in two months. The production of 100,491 idle production of mining in parts of the coal fields which for the most of the month of the first important factor toward a decrease in the number of idle cars, while the increased demand for much of it, seemingly with the crop-moving season has further decreased

J. C. DAHLMAN. Omaha's cowboy mayor, who is one of the staunch Bryan supporters at Denver.

After some preliminary sparring Callahan was recognized for an open debate for the majority. He declared that Guffey had formed an alliance with the Republican machine at Philadelphia to smother Democratic votes and "when we have considered all evidence it is impossible to shape any other conclusion but that the real democracy of Philadelphia has been kept at home by an alliance of one element of democracy with the dominant Republican machine of that city."

Majority Report Is Adopted. The first speaker for the minority report was Strauss. He asked that a substitution of the minority report for the majority report be made on the ground that the majority report was an attack upon the indefensible rights of Democrats of a sovereign state.

John D. Bellamy, one of the signers of the minority report, brought forth a storm of disapproval when he asserted that Republicans who went to the polls as Democrats had a right to have their votes counted as Democrats. Bellamy explained that the Democratic party was ready to open its doors to any one who desired to adopt its principles. There was some applause at this and the speaker soon brought his remarks to a close.

Governor Haskell, of Oklahoma, closed for the majority, and discussed sarcastically Bellamy's contention and asserted that Bellamy, under his own argument, might as well have been selected as a delegate to the Chicago convention. Governor Haskell charged Pennsylvania contestees with being tools of the Standard Oil Company. Roll call on the question resulted in a vote of 387 ayes and 615 nays. The announcement was received with great cheering. The majority report was then adopted by viva voce vote. In a few minutes the convention adjourned until tomorrow morning.
