HARRIMAN ABOUT TO COME FOR HIS HUNT

C. T. Day, the chief electrician for the Southern Pacific, arrived at Klamath Falls last night to look after the telegraph line between Prickan Bay and the main line of the railroad, says the Herald. Mr. Day is spending the day going over the line and will leave for his home in San Francisco as soon as he completes his work. He, however, states that he will be back here next Tuesday, which may be taken as a sure indication that the Harriman party will be here by that time.

Mr. Day states that he has no positive information as to when Mr. Harriman will arrive here, but it is generally understood that when Mr. Day shows up at a certain place it is a strong indication that the railroad magnate will soon be along.

Another thing that is conclusive evidence that the party will soon be here is that at Port Klamath and at the Harriman resort all arrangements are being made for hunting trips and excursions. Horses are on the ground and bear dogs are in readiness for the chase.

The large touring car is being held for the party and will go to the terminus of the railroad to meet the distinguished visitors. It is not known how large the party will be, but it is reported that Mr. Harriman will be accompanied by quite a number of Eastern friends.
