people are thoroughly aroused is a safe prediction, but some time there will be an upheaval that will amount to a genuine political and commercial revolution...

The war with the Standard Oil Company is not yet over by any means, according to the statement of Attorney-General Bonaparte. He declares that the government will pursue the iniquitous corporation until it is made to pay dearly for its shady methods of doing business...

That there will be a genuine house famine in Eugene next fall is apparent now. Even at the present time, with many people out of town and all the schools closed, it is next to impossible to rent a house or house-keeping rooms...

The annual catalogue of the Oregon Agricultural College has been received, and a hasty review shows it to be a comprehensive work of 250 pages. It contains a fund of information concerning this rapidly growing institution...

It might at first glance be supposed that the London doctor who said 'I hold to the maxim, 'Die and let die,' was defending suicide, but he wasn't. He was knocking the pinheads who insist upon regulating the living of everybody by their diseases...

Perhaps the steam shovelers' union didn't know when they elected Taft to membership that his future was already provided for in case of defeat, with a supreme court job. Still, he'd make a helty steam shovel...

Don't get excited over the report that troops of Honduras fired on the United States flag. Even if true, Honduras can be depended on to get an apology in before Uncle Sam unpacks his spanking apparatus...

Edward Fake, said to be held to $5,000,000, who has been arrested in Chicago for doing the Raffles stunt in the residences of the rich, must have been trying to live up, or down, to his name...

"Religious frenzy" was the excuse given by a number of negroes for burning a Louisiana cotton gin. Result, a triple lynching, one of the victims being the preacher who roused the frenzy...

Naturally, as a railroad man, H. E. Ingalls is an anti-wrecker, and he hit the bull's-eye when he said: "It is nonsense to say that the election of any man will wreck the country..."

If the number of ladies who claim to be married to men who dispute it continues to increase, it may become necessary to use a branding iron as a part of the marriage ceremony...

When one of the big guns of the railway world openly advocates squeezing the water out of stocks, it's high time for the rest of us to begin to sit up and take notice...

If the Pittsburg authorities are really anxious to stop the suicide epidemic in that town, why not offer free transportation out of it to the desperate and despondent?

The steel trust is making a bid for something—we are not quite sure whether it's votes or American sympathy—in refusing to employ aliens...

THIS DATE IN HISTORY

August 1, 1604—John Elliot, missionary to the Indians, born. Died May 21, 1699. 1759—Allies defeated the French at battle of Minden. 1815—Richard Henry Dana, Jr., author of "Two Years Before the Mast," born in Cambridge, Mass. Died in Rome, Jan. 7, 1882.

"This is My 65th Birthday." Robert T. Lincoln, President of the Pullman Palace Car Company, was born in Springfield, Ill., August 1, 1843, the eldest son of President Abraham Lincoln and Mary Todd Lincoln. He received his early education in his home city and then studied at Harvard College, from which he graduated in 1863, as A. B. He took up the study of law at Harvard Law School, but entered the army when the war broke out and served as captain on the staff of Gen. U. S. Grant. After the war he completed his law studies and engaged in practice in Chicago. He became Secretary of War under President Garfield in 1881 and remained in that position under President Arthur. He was strongly mentioned for the presidential nomination in 1884, but refused to oppose Gen. Arthur in the Convention. Under President Harrison Mr. Lincoln was envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary of the United States to Great Britain. After his retirement in 1893 he became general counsel of the Pullman Company and after the death of George M. Pullman he was elected President of the company.

A JOLLY SWIM. There was a man three feet around. Went swimming in a rink. He hired a slim man's bathing suit. Of course he did not sink. It took an hour to get it on; it did fit rather tight. Then he strolled the sandy bank. Was he not a sight? A friend of his stepped up behind, and whispered in his ear: "Your suit is split clean up the back." The rest he did not hear.

A dive—down, down he went; He hit the bottom hard; His mouth was filled with water; The cement floor was marred. A fellow quickly pulled him out. A hero brave was he. The fat guy squealed: "Don't pull me out; Don't let the ladies see." He wrote at once to Carnegie. For a medal of pure tin. —Tess Marshall.

Heart to Heart Talks. BY EDWIN A. NYE. Copyright, 1908, by Edwin A. Nye.

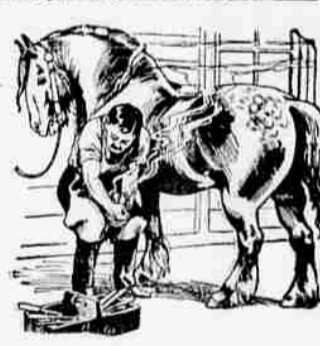

WHY? WHY? WHY? Why does a baseball pitcher receive $10,000 a year for his work and a settlement worker only $600 a year? Why is the president of a life insurance company paid $100,000 in salary and perquisites, while the hard worked head of a school draws a meager wage?

Why do we pay the highest price to the man who saves our dollars and the lowest price to the man who saves our souls? Why does the world offer fortunes to the man who shows us how to make money and starvation wages to the man who shows us how to make beautiful lives? Why do we accord highest place to money mongers and lowest place to teachers of ideals?

Why do men fuse body and soul, brain and conscience, into a frenzied money madness? Simply because the fullness of time has not yet come for a people to discard false standards of civilization, because our people have not held the right estimates of human life. We have stumbled over the definition of the supreme good. Here and there noble men have pointed us to higher ideals, but we have not heeded.

But—Thank goodness, a change is coming over the spirit of America's dreams. We are beginning to raise right standards. It is this way: Heretofore only the material things have concerned us. We must master a continent. We must grapple the globe with our commerce. In this accomplishment we have grasped the occult forces of nature and solved, as no other people have solved, the problem of the production of wealth. Now we must stop! We are up against a greater problem—the EQUITABLE DISTRIBUTION of wealth.

Ah, that is different! When you start to study THAT problem you run against all sorts of moral laws—humanitarianism, justice, righteousness. You begin to see how false is the standard that pays the MOST to him who ministers to the LOWEST and the LEAST to him who ministers to the HIGHEST.

HERE'S AN EXAMPLE OF GOOD HORSE SENSE. See how quietly he stands while being shod. He knows he is having a good job done. We do all kinds of horse shoeing and our charges are reasonable always. How can a horse do a good day's work poorly shod? Let us fix yours up now.
