DR. DAY BRINGS JAKE BERGER HOME

ONE OF VICTIMS OF ACCIDENT UP MIDDLE FORK ARRIVES HOME—RIG SENT AFTER REMAINDER OF PARTY

Jake Berger, who was badly injured by a wagon turning over and falling over a cliff about fifteen miles above Lowell yesterday, was brought to Eugene by Dr. F. M. Day, arriving about 9 o'clock this morning. Berger's right leg is broken above the knee, but his arm was not broken, as reported over the telephone yesterday. Andy Taylor, instead of "Stub" Anderson, as reported over the phone, was the other person injured in the mishap. One of his shoulders was dislocated instead of broken. The other members of the party, Anderson, Tom Linn and Eliza Pickard, escaped injury. Berger is now at his home on West Fifth street, and is resting easily. Dr. Day, who brought him home, states that the wagon wheels struck a rock in the road, and it being top-heavy turned over where the road is very close to the top of a cliff. The wagon was demolished and the party's camping and hunting outfit badly broken up. The horses rolled and slid down the declevity for nearly a hundred yards, but received no bad injuries.

A rig was started from here this morning to bring the remainder of the party home and they will forego the pleasure of the trip for awhile.

PORTLAND MARKET REPORT.

Portland, Or., Aug. 6.—The cabbage shortage this year has made the price for sauerkraut much higher than it has been for years, but the quality is much below the average. This is attributed to the lack of rain and to the heat.

The farmers all raised cabbage last year and the rainfall was abundant. As a consequence the dealers almost had to give away the product. This year, disheartened by the poor demand of last season, the gardeners did not put in very many plants and the dry weather was so unfavorable to the growing of what little was planted that the present shortage was caused. The price was not reduced from the 2-cent mark.

Peaches Still Scarce.

Peaches continue scarce and in great demand. The early Hale variety is going off the market and the Crawford peaches will not be in yet for two weeks, so there will be no possibility of the price dropping. The crop was short this season anyway, owing to cold weather and frost in the spring. Two carloads of the fruit are expected today from California.

More Apples and Potatoes.

Apples continue in good demand and are coming in more freely, as are potatoes, these two commodities, as is natural becoming more abundant with the advancing season. The price remains at the same figures as in yesterday's quotations. Loganberries and raspberries are practically out of the market.

Chicken Market Overstocked.

More chickens came in today and the result was that a market already in bad shape, was made weaker. Dealers report retailers generally well stocked up and for the present at least, unwilling to take on more. Hens today were quoted at 11 to 12 cents and Springs at 14 and one produce man expressed the belief that before the end of the week hens and Springs would sell at about the same price. The outlook is for a dull market for the rest of the week. Eggs were unchanged today.

Cherries for Three Weeks.

There will be cherries in the market for the next three weeks, and perhaps longer, but of course not the abundance of the past two weeks, and the chances are that prices will remain about as at present, 5 to 10 cents a pound. Lamberts are now the main dependence, and the best of these bring the top price indicated. Some late Dukes offered today sold at 5 to 6 cents.

Butter at High Price.

Creamery butter is more than ordinarily hard to supply the insistent demand with, and the price is steadily growing higher. The milk product is now selling for 27½ cents a pound straight.

Prunes Are Firmer.

The new crop Oregon prune market is quoted firm on a 3¼ cent bag basis. Some sales were made early in the season as low as 2¾ cent basis, but that was before the crop situation could be clearly foreseen. Business covering three carloads of 1908 Oregon Italians for October shipment was reported yesterday for account of a Boston buyer. The sales were made on the basis of 3½ cents for the four sizes f. o. b. in bags, and the business is said to have been done on terms of the California packers' contract. A similar bid on a further lot of two carloads was refused It is said that holders are asking a premium of a cent on 30s and in some instances a little premium is asked on 40s.

No business of importance between growers and packers is reported yet, as growers are holding off to see what the outcome will be. According to an authority on prunes, the crop of Clark county is a practical failure this year. "Early in the season" he said, "it looked like a third of a crop. Now they will not have 25 cars to ship, so heavy has been the drop. Last year the county had a fair crop and sent out about 225 cars. Oregon is faring better than Washington. Around Roseburg there will be a very good crop, though half of it is Petites. In the Salem district the drop is reported to be no greater than usual, and if that is the case there will be about half a crop in the Valley."

Wheat Goes Higher.

The local wheat [illegible] today maintained its busy aspect of yesterday and a number of shipments changed hands. Prices varied from 87 cents for December at the opening to 91 bid and 92 asked. The market closed strong at 85 cents bid for September No. 1 club. This was an advance of three cents over the opening figures. December closed at 91

THE BON MARCHE STORE

GOING OUT OF BUSINESS

THE greatest chance of your life commences Thursday morning to buy all of your merchandise at less price than you ever did before.

We are very sorry for the other fellow who has goods to sell. We suggest that all the other fellows lock their store doors and go a-fishing.

We give fair warning, we are going to do all the business for the next 30 days that is done in Eugene. We will prove positively to each one that comes to the Bon Marche Store that 50 cents will as a rule buy as much as $1.00 will in any other store in this town.

We are positively going out of business and this mammoth stock of Dry Goods, Clothing and Shoes is at your mercy, and for less money than the manufacturers made them for.

You can save enough on your fall purchases here now to pay your fuel and light bill for the entire winter.

Hundreds of Men's and Boys' Suits and hundreds of pairs of shoes for the entire family, for a less price than you can buy them any place on this earth.

We're going to sell this stock. Come and see how we do it.

W. L. SOUDERS, Proprietor Bon Marche Store

an increase of four cents over the opening.

The farmers of the grain belt seem to want to hold, many of them waiting for the 80-cent mark to be reached. Last year at this time they would have been glad to sell for 75 but now they want a dollar.

Portland Livestock Market.

Livestock receipts were light this week and the market was quiet. There was a good demand for hogs and cattle and full prices were quoted in the best offeringsh. Sheep and lambs, however, were slow because of the quality of the late arrivals. If lambs were trimmed, prices could be held up better.

Market Notes.

Shippers are now getting about a dollar a box for Bartletts f. o. b. in California.

The shipments of deciduous fruits from California up to July 22 this year amounted to 2416 cars, compared with 1840 up to the same date last year.

The price of cheese has advanced at Portland, Tacoma and Seattle and is reported finer at San Francisco and the present quotations at San Francisco for Oregon cheese are lower than in Portland.

The California Fruit Canners' Association quote Royal Ann cherries higher than any other fruit. The quotation is $2.85 for No. 3 extras; $2.25 for 6o. 2½ extras; $2.00 for No. 2½ extras standard; $1.75 for No. 2½ standard, and $1.50 for No. 2½ seconds.

Canners in California are offering less than half as much for pears this year as they paid last year. In the vicinity of Anderson the canneries offering $15 a ton and growers are holding off for $20. At San Francisco it is reported that canners have offered $25 for fancy Bartletts.

The last issue of the California Fruit Grower says prunes are undoubtedly much firmer under continually decreasing crop prospects. Prunes have been badly burned in some sections from the hot weather, and have dropped materially nearly everywhere. In 1908 crop 3¾ to 4¼ cents (for the four sizes) are the most quoted figures for outsides and Santa Claras respectively. It does not appear that there will be any great quantity of large prunes to be had out of this year's crop.
