BOND BUYERS SAY ELECTION WAS NOT LEGAL

rogate them and in you upon them separately. Section 117 in the original charter permits the city council to issue bonds in the sum of $50,000 for sewers, $100,000 for water works, $100,000 for electric lights and $75,000 for gas. The amendment strikes out the authority to issue $100,000 bonds for electric lights and $75,000 for gas and increases the water bonds to $300,000. Section 112 relates to the manner of levying a special tax each year to raise money to pay the interest on all these bonds and to provide a sinking fund for their redemption. This section was amended to levy a special tax to pay interest on the sewer bonds and changing the plan of payment of interest on the water bonds by paying it out of the revenues of the plant and not by taxation. It also provides for a sinking fund out of the revenues of the plant to pay the bonds at their maturity.

Now, the attorney for the bond buyers holds that the bonds are invalid because the two amendments were voted upon separately. They both relate to the same subject matter, and according to City Attorney Bean's interpretation of the law was legal because the law provides that in such a case it was proper to vote upon both at once. Had the two amendments been submitted separately one might have been defeated and the other carried and in that case it is readily seen what a mixup there would have been. The city attorney stated this morning that as far as he could see now, he does not believe the bond buyers' reason for declaring the bonds invalid is a good one. He will look further into the matter, however.
