to come—unless we put in a gravity system and bring in water from the mountains. How is the morning paper going to muzzle the university student so that he won't talk and "hurt the town?"

There is scarcely a resident of Eugene who does not possess a good well who is not drinking boiled water, and the morning paper cannot get a reputable physician of Eugene to advise the use of the city water in any other way. Such a condition so long continued, ought to arouse the most sluggish community to action to right it, regardless of the monetary cost.

The organ of the corporation crowd does not want the truth told about Eugene's water supply, but it does not hesitate to lie about the water of Richey creek. It has not brought one scintilla of proof that the water there is not all that could be desired. Mr. Richey, who has used it for 25 years, says, and every one who has investigated it bears the same testimony, and not a word to the contrary has appeared anywhere except the unsupported statement of the editor of the morning paper, who admits he never even saw the stream.

Succintly stated, the movement for a gravity system supplied from Richey creek is an honest attempt to better deplorable conditions, while the opposition is only the effort of a private corporation and its backers, stockholders and bondholders, to fasten upon the community the curse of a bad water supply for the sake of the money it will put into the corporation's treasury. No wonder they fear the truth and want the facts kept from the public; not that it will "hurt the town" but because it may defeat the accomplishment of their purposes.

If the Willamette Valley Company is to continue to control the water, light, power and gas supply of Eugene something liken decent service ought to be given by them. The gas pressure has become so poor that for weeks the Guard's linotype is "frozen up" a good part of the time, making it impossible for us to set type enough some days to get the paper to press in any creditable shape. For some months after the gas plant was installed, the quality of gas furnished could not have been better, but has steadily deteriorated until this summer it could scarcely be worse. Most of our people know what trouble they have with lights during the winter and some of them, like the Guard, know how uncertain the power is for half the year, although it is better during the summer months. It is largely to overcome this handicap of poor service that the Guard is forced to double its machinery facilities, so that a shut down of two or three hours a day from these causes will not cripple us so severely in issuing a paper. Why can't the Willamette Valley Co. do something right? Is it because they think our people must stand for it, and don't care for public sentiment, or because of incompetency? Or is it a mixture of both?

After all, it seems that the much-abused millionaire is not to be overlooked by the enterprising campaign manager. And this must be a great consolation to the millionaire, who has been led to believe all along that he was to be permitted to retain his hard-earned money this year. But not so. He will go down in his jeans and dig up with the same old reluctance as of years gone by, when the country was not engulfed in a wave of high morality. And all this, too, when he well knows that the right hand is to be made aware of the work of the left. In other words his contributions are to be made public—after election.

Somewhere down East the other day a man was stricken with the rabies as the result of a bite from a dog. That man did not believe in the hydrophobia theory, and when the doctors told him he was suffering with the deadly malady, he simply laughed at them and went along believing that all their talk was rankest nonsense. The man died. Now, how about this, yet who believe mind has full sway over the welfare of the body? Isn't there something wrong somewhere in this theory? Possibly, however, this man was abnormally constructed and his case was but one in a million.

Even the most loving woman's patience can be worn out. A California wife, suing for a divorce testified that her husband was been drunk every minute for seven years, and that she was tired of it. Should think she would be.

A liar should be put on newspaper lying, even in the silly season. This story of tramps scenting the stock of a soap factory will neither wash nor make lather. As well say that tramps broke into a bath house to take a bath.

This Mr. Simpson who has been nominated for governor by the Texas republicans, is not, we take it, doing any worrying about having to neglect his private business in order to perform the duties of governor.

Having a fondness for his home and a dad with millions of cash and good American securities, behind Ali Bey, "deeply depressed as Turkish minister to the United States" decided to remain "in our midst."

THIS IS MY 71ST BIRTHDAY

Benjamin F. Wright

Benjamin Franklin Wright, who is known as the father of the prohibitory amendment to the Iowa constitution, was born in Vernon, Ohio, August 20, 1837. In early life he settled in Charles City, Iowa, and for nearly forty years he has edited newspapers in that city. He served as postmaster of Charles City for thirteen years, receiving his commission from President Grant in 1869. But it is in the work of prohibition that Mr. Wright has achieved his greatest fame. In 1880, chiefly through his efforts, the Iowa legislature submitted the prohibitory amendment to the people in spite of the strong opposition of the liquor interests. It was carried by 30,000 majority. Mr. Wright was one of the fearless speakers during that struggle, and on several occasions he was threatened with mob violence. After the adoption of the amendment Mr. Wright returned to his newspaper work, which he has only recently given up on account of failing health.

Mr. Armstrong, of Oakland, and Miss D. O'neil of Portland, paid the place a flying visit Wednesday.

Advertisements, Like Clocks, Should Keep Running

A store's advertisements tell the people what is "doing" at that store—what is new, what is inviting, why today is a good time to visit the store. People look for the ads to tell them these things just as naturally as they would look at a clock to tell the time.

Sometimes a clock does not run—sometimes a store's ad does not run. A "run-down" clock or ad are about equally unsatisfactory, unserviceable, misleading.

Curious thing about it is that a merchant who would think it absurd to have a run-down" or out-of-repair clock will, sometimes, deliberately let his ad stop running. It's not wise, nor good business, nor defensible on any known grounds—but it is sometimes done.
