MAN WHO HELD WASHINGTON'S HORSE STILL LIVES

New York, Aug. 24.—In a sermon delivered yesterday at the Zion African Methodist Episcopal church in Somerville, N. J., Rev. Mason Brooks, a negro clergyman, said he was 118 years old; that he remembers having held General George Washington's horse on the road to Raritan. He said he was born in Cuba in 1790, and was brought to Somerset county, New Jersey, as a child; that he held Washington's horse. He illustrated this part of his sermon by walking along the road to Raritan and locating the exact spot at which he held the horse. He said he had preached for the last seventy years, and spent five years in Egypt, where he did missionary work.

SPRINKLE STREETS ON SEPT. 5 WITH TOBACCO SAUCE

After the coming big time by the Shriners in Eugene on September 5th Mayor Matlock has received the following letter, which is self-explanatory:

Eugene, Or., Aug. 21.
Hon. J. D. Matlock,
Mayor of Eugene,
City.

Sir:—The Shriners will make their pilgrimage September 5th. The local nobles, having promised the visitors a "hot time," would like the privilege of sprinkling the streets with Tobacco sauce. Before taking this liberty I desire your permission to sprinkle our business streets on that day.

Respectfully,
D. A. PAINE,
Chairman.
