ALBANY MAY SECURE BIG PACKING PLANT

The largest independent meat packing plant on the Pacific coast, one that will cost a quarter of a million dollars, will be built in Albany, and work will commence within the next 90 days, says the Herald. O'Shea Brothers, formerly owners of the Union Meat Company in Portland, are the two men who have decided to make this city the "Kansas City of the West."

Recognizing in Albany the natural railroad and commercial centre of the Willamette valley and seeing in this city the future metropolis of the upper Willamette valley, O'Shea Brothers, after looking over the ground in Salem, Eugene and Albany, have announced that they will build their mammoth packing plant here. John O'Shea was in Albany last week and inspected the situation thoroughly, and before leaving announced that they would build their big plant here. O'Shea Bros. recently sold out their large packing plant in Portland to the trust, and, according to John O'Shea, their sale included in it a provision that they would not engage in the business again in Portland for a specified number of years. For this reason they have been desirous of starting an independent packing plant somewhere in the Willamette valley, and careful investigation has convinced them that Albany is the only natural location for such a plant.

In conversation with one of Albany's leading business men before his departure for Portland Mr. O'Shea said:

"We will build a large independent meat packing plant in Albany and it will cost at least $250,000. I have looked over the situation here thoroughly and am convinced that this city is the ideal point for establishing our plant. I have several sites here under contemplation which will be suitable for our plant. As a shipping point Albany is perfectly situated for our purposes."

John O'Shea is already preparing to move to Albany to reside, so as to be on the ground personally during the work of construction of the plant, which will also include extensive yards and will cover approximately twenty-five acres.

to be had as aforesaid, in the levying and collection of the same, are null and void and of no effect whatsoever. But notwithstanding the nullity of said proceedings, and the unlawfulness of the acts of the defendants as above set forth, the defendants will, unless they are enjoined by the court, sue out for an execution for the collection of said pretended tax and will levy upon and sell the personal property of the plaintiff situated in Lane county, for the collection of the same.

The plaintiff prays the court for a decree cancelling and annulling the pretended tax on said pretended transportation rights and privileges, and perpetually enjoining the defendants from the collection of the same and from any levying upon the property of the plaintiff for such purpose, and the plaintiff prays that pending this suit the defendants may be enjoined from taking any measures whatsoever to collect said pretended tax, and particularly from levying upon any of the property of the plaintiff for such purpose and from issuing any injunction therefor.

THE JEWELRY SALE AT MURPHEY'S RACKET STORE

Next Saturday will be one of the best bargain sales ever offered to the people of Eugene. This jewelry is not of the cheap jewelry usually carried in dry goods and racket stores, but is high grade, the kind you will find in the best jewelry stores of the country. The prices are so ridiculously low that this seems almost impossible. Nevertheless it is the truth, and the people who buy of this jewelry next Saturday will obtain better bargains than they know. a26

RITCHEY CREEK RUNS OVER THREE MILLION GALLONS

All aboard for Ritchey creek. A party consisting of R. Daniel, the Ninth street groceryman, A. A. Simmons, photographer, Rev. H. A. Champie, F. S. Tingley and W. S. Moon, of Moon & Tingley, with their respective wives, a party of ten, with Earl McNutt, of the Bangs Livery Company as driver, left the city at 5 a. m. Tuesday morning. Stopping with Mrs. Ross Matthews at Thurston to partake of a splendid breakfast, and reaching the river at Mr. Lemley's place at 10:30 a. m., Mr. McNamara was prevailed upon to set the party wagon and four-horse team over the river, when the short drive to Ritchey creek was completed. The party camped and lunched in the dense cool shade of alder and vine maple on the bank of the creek, and drowned a bountiful basket dinner in the sweet cold water of Ritchey creek. Leaving the ladies to rest after their long ride, the men of the party started on a quest for information to the headwaters of the creek, where James Kennerly was encountered, who in company with two other men were hunting for a sawlog, reported to have been seen some place in the Ritchey creek watershed. An examination of the new weir for accurately measuring the daily flow of water disclosed the fact that 3,200,000 gallons was the flow at this time. The entire party were not only well pleased with the unquestionable quality of the water there, but are thoroughly of the opinion that there is an ample supply for the city of Eugene for years to come. Leaving the creek at 3 o'clock the party returned to the bridge across the McKenzie and again halted for refreshments as the driver, Mr. McNutt, seemed almost famished for provender. By the way, this gentleman is not only an excellent, courteous and accommodating chaffeur, but in addition is an excellent and wonderful feeder, and we heartilly recommend him to like excursionists. After supper the party again set faces homeward, arriving in Eugene at 9:30 p. m., tired and dusty, but well pleased and satisfied with the trip.

STILL MORE BOOSTING SAYS LOS ANGELES MAN

CAPITALIST SAYS EUGENE MUST HAVE TERMINAL RATES—THE MEANS OF ATTAINMENT ADVERTISING AND BOOSTING

"Eugene needs about ten funerals," was the startling statement of F. E. Harris, president of the Columbia Paper Company, of Los Angeles, and head of the firm of F. E. Harris Importer of Rice, Coffee and Tea, with offices in Seattle, Portland, San Francisco and Los Angeles, while talking of Eugene's future today. He said that Eugene needed something to happen to clear the way for further progress, so that the city would become still prettier and more enticing to the newly arrived Easterner.

"The first thing Eugene needs to make her a great city is terminal rates," he said. "Then this whole country will buy from wholesale houses which will be established here. To get terminal rates more railroads must be brought in, which may be accomplished by greater growth in population and continued boosting. Do you know we ship sugar from San Francisco to Portland for 32 cents a hundred, and the merchants here pay 14 cents a hundred between Eugene and Portland? Either Eugene or Medford will be the city to get the rates, and from the present outlook Eugene has a shade the best of the Southern Oregon city."

In commenting upon the new depot Mr. Harris said that the one here is better than the S. P. station at Los Angeles, his home city. The general local improvement, in his opinion, has put Eugene ahead of any city in Oregon, except Portland, and all that is needed to become a large city is to keep on boosting and keeping the town and locality before the people. Most Easterners do not want to stop in a place as big as Portland, and when asking for smaller cities Eugene should be so in the public mind that she is always first mentioned," said the Los Angeles man. "This is the way we did in Southern California. Wherever a Los Angeles man goes he talks his city and the advertising we get in that manner is the very best kind of publicity."

Mr. Harris is a brother-in-law of S. H. Friendly, and first visited Eugene three years ago, when the streets were muddy and many business buildings empty. He likes the place, and believes it has a future and all that is needed to continue its rapid extension and growth is more boosting and enterprise and "get-together" spirit.

SURVEY FOR WATERWORKS COMPLETED

Engineer F. C. Kelsey, who has the contract for the construction of Eugene's gravity system of waterworks, returned to Portland last evening after having been here a day or so looking after the work of surveying for the proposed pipe line. To a Guard reporter at the train he stated that the survey is now practically completed and the plans and specifications will be ready about September 10. He stated that the flow of water in Ritchey creek yesterday was 2,900,000 gallons. He thought the water would get still lower before the autumn rains set in, but was certain that the flow would never get so low as to be insufficient to supply Eugene's demands.

SPORTING NEWS

Tommy Murphy and young Loughrey have been matched to box at Rochester, Sept. 23.

What would prove one of the best bouts of the yar is slated for Labor Day, when Abe Attell and Owen Moran are to meet at Colma.

The Northern League closed its season with Brandon .617, Winnipeg .588, Duluth .500 and Fargo .291.

Nearly 6000 persons attended a recent Lawrence-Worcester game at Lawrence, Mass. Both teams are fighting hard for New England League honors.

Big league scouts are watching the work of Larry Pape, Milwaukee's new pitcher. Pape has done remarkable work considering the strength of the team behind him.

Bert Conn, the old Providence first baseman and now with the Johnstown Tri-State league team, is a soloist during the winter in a Philadelphia church choir.

No doubt about Bill Papke being an A 1 fighter, but the fast clip of Stanley Ketchel has dimmed somewhat the fistic display of the "Illinois Thunderbolt."

Seldom have two brothers been so successful as pitchers as the Silton boys. Vadder is doing great work with Nashville and Phil is just a shade behind with Augusta.

The Eastern league pennant race is becoming hotter every day. Providence, Buffalo, Newark and Baltimore are all in the fight for keeps.

According to the latest rumors afloat in Texas League circles, Curly Maloney, who has made a big success as manager of the Dallas team, will pilot the Austin team next season.

Bob Fitzsimmons has returned to his farm at Dunellen, N. J. (Fitz says he expects to forge nearly a thousand horseshoes which he will send to his friends on the Pacific Coast.

A good many stories are going the rounds in regard to the condition of Joe Gans. The next fight of the former lightweight champion, if he fights, should show how far from home is Sir Joseph.

Secretary Farrell says that the National Association of Baseball Leagues will fight the Atlantic (outlaw) League to a finish now that the Atlantic has invaded the New York State League's territory at Wilkes-Barre.

Robert Chambers, president of the Montgomery baseball club, is being talked of for president of the Southern League to succeed Judge Kavenaugh in case the judge resigns at the close of the present season.

The New Haven and Springfield teams of the Connecticut League played a double-header recently which consisted of 27 inings of great baseball. Springfield won the first game 2 to 1 in sixteen innings and tied the second 1 to 1 in eleven innings.

MARRIED.

At the residence of E. Broders on Charnelton street, Eugene, today at 12:30 o'clock, Ernest C. Bisby, of Cottage Grove and Miss Hazel Mansur, formerly of Cottage Grove, but recently employed in the local telephone office. Dean F. C. Sanderson, of the Bible University, officiated. After the wedding a luncheon was served to Mr. and Mrs. Bisby and a few friends. The couple will make their home in Cottage Grove.

Frank G. Ashhart and Miss Gussie Jennings were married in North Yakima, Wash., August 23, 1908. The bride is a well-known Eugene girl, and the groom also has many friends here. Mr. and Mrs. Ashhart will make their home in Toppenish, Wash.

At the home of the officiating justice of the peace, J. J. Totten, at Thurston, August 25, 1908, Charles S. Lupton and Miss Adaline Bangs, both of Eugene.
