

Something New in Clothes for

Young Men

and Men Who Know

It is with pleasure that we announce the arrival of

L. System Clothes

Heretofore there has been an unsupplied demand for something different and exclusive in clothes. This demand will be met by L. Systems, for their clothes are made so tasty and nobby, and for the fellow who appreciates the extreme in style insofar as is consistent with good taste and refinement.

"OUR GUARANTEE"

That every consumer of "L. Clothes" is at liberty, personally, to return to the "L. System Clothes Shop" or established agency any garment which, for any reason whatsoever fails to give the satisfaction expected or desired, and we will make good without question.

YALE

U.G.W.

We Show 37 Different Styles

Four of which are shown in this ad. Each style is distinctly different, yet all have that snappy dip and bang that characterizes them from ordinary "so-called" "College Clothes," and that distinguishes the fellow who wears "L. System" from the one who does not.

These clothes are shown in

Beautiful Colorings

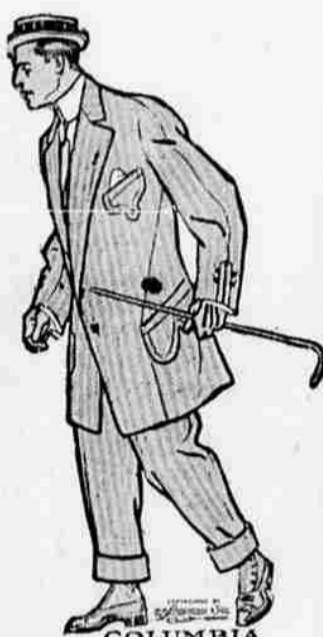

Browns, olive, tan, elephant and moose, and fox and fawn shades. Priced—

RECORD TRIP FROM CRESCENT LAKE TO PORTLAND

Last Tuesday forenoon word reached Eugene that the wife of J. W. Fricke was seriously ill at Portland with appendicitis, with request that a dispatch for his return be couriered immediately by special courier to Lake Crescent, where Mr. Fricke and party were camped for a fishing and hunting expedition. Through telephone communication a courier was started from Joe Blakeley's ranch at 2:30 p. m., reaching Rigdon's ranch at 8:30 p. m. A new courier and horse left Rigdon's ranch at 9 a. m., arriving at the lake at 2 o'clock Wednesday morning. Camp was immediately broken and horses brought in from a pasture a mile away. By 6 a. m. the run was started for Eugene with Mr. Fricke, his son Leon and Raymond Babb in the rig. By 11 a. m. the Rigdon ranch was reached. The next drive, from Rigdon's to Billy Hill's, was made in six hours, arriving there at 5 p. m. A relay of horses was procured at Warner's and the drive continued at top speed until near midnight. Whenever reaching a steep hill all but the driver would jump out and hasten to the top and jump in again without stopping the rig, as every moment was precious. A few minutes after midnight a new team and rig, the best in Lane county, was met. This had been procured by Dr. Selover and held for eighteen hours at Lowell until word was received that the party was fast advancing. A few moments and the spirited animals were making a dash for the 2:55 overland. Past Rigdon's a forest fire was raging in full force. Several burning trees had fallen across the road. These had to be removed. Then again the mad dash went on. When within a mile of Eugene the overland swept by, but hopes were not abandoned and the team swept on at a furious pace. When nearing the depot the train pulled out but the mad ride of 120 miles was not to go unrewarded, and four minutes later Mr. Fricke in his fishing clothes was speeding toward Portland on the second section of the train, arriving at the bedside of his wife at 8 a. m. Thursday morning at St. Vincent's Hospital, where the operation was performed by Dr. McKenzie and the patient is now convalescing.

CITY NEWS

The street cars did a great business all day long, all the cars being full on every trip during the entire day. A circus follower who had the appearance of being a bad character was jailed by Chief of Police Farrington today. It was generally remarked that the crowd in town was the largest ever seen here. During the parade Willamette street was literally a mass of humanity. Over from Springfield today to see the circus. A great many walked as far as Judkins' Point, where they took the street cars. They all wished the line was completed into Springfield. Of the three incandescent lights in the big bridge across the Willamette river at the foot of Ferry street only one is burning. The two at the north end have burned out. This matter should be attended to at once. A heavy shower fell during the circus parade this forenoon. The horse-back riders and the drivers of the wagons braved the elements, however, and the parade was pulled off according to program, although it was a little late in starting. Eighty-four were carried the wrong way which arrived early this morning from Albany. Most of the cases were taken to Springfield for storage during the day after they were unloaded. The trucks here were needed for the heavy regular traffic of the main line. The 2:15 train this afternoon was held around the bend ten or fifteen minutes in account of the street cars being on the way on the main track. The 10:30 switch engine had about all it could do to move the big string of passenger cars off the main track, where they were being crowded with water. In the case with low of Eugene's or any other city, the street cars are the backbone of the city. They are about the largest ever seen here and are beautiful. There are nineteen peaches to the layer, and there is room in the crate, which is of regulation size, for only two layers. M. F. Wyatt today filed with the county clerk notice of location of the "Plymouth Rock" mining claim in the Bohemia district. Mrs. Wyatt locates the "Cape Horn" claim in the same district. A slight thunderstorm this afternoon caused a commotion among some of Barnum & Bailey's circus elephants, although none of them broke away or did any damage. Elephants are reputed to be the most sensitive of animals, and at times become possessed of almost insane fear or fury. Only last spring one became frightened at the flames of a nearby burning oil tank in a Northern California town and killed a woman.

HOLT LEAVES FOR UTAH NEXT WEEK

Theodore Holt, a Eugene boy whose parents live in this city, leaves during the coming week for the University of Utah, where he has won a scholarship of over one hundred dollars for research work in mining. Utah has one of the leading mining departments in the United States. The fellowship was the gift of Colonel E. A. Wall, of Salt Lake, and Holt won it from a number of competitors in various parts of the West. He graduated from the University in 1907. Last year he took graduate work in the University mining department.

THOUSANDS IN CIRCUS TENT THIS AFTERNOON

Despite the showery weather there was a great crowd in Barnum & Bailey's circus tent this afternoon. Their press representative says it was over 10,000 and might reach 11,000, although there did not seem to be a very large crowd for a circus day in the streets. They report having done a big business at Salem, but were as disappointed at Albany as they are pleased with Eugene. Two of the five Ringling Brothers, who own the show, John and Otto, are here today, the latter traveling with it all the while, and the former having his private car attached to the train temporarily. There will be another performance tonight.
