GREAT RAILROAD MAGNATE DELIGHTED WITH THIS CITY AND SURROUNDINGS

DRIVEN IN AN AUTOMOBILE TO UNIVERSITY AND TO TOP OF BUTTE—WILL BUILD OREGON EASTERN BY EASY STAGES—MEETS DELEGATION FROM ROSEBURG AND COOS BAY ON TRAIN

E. H. Harriman, the "Wizard of Wall Street," has come and gone. The special train bearing the great railroad magnate arrived in Eugene from the south at 9:35 o'clock. It consisted of three coaches, a diner and a baggage car and was drawn by one of the big Mogul engines. On board the train in conference with Mr. Harriman was a joint committee from Roseburg and Marshfield, who were interviewing him in regard to the construction of the Drain-Coos Bay line. The committee kept him in the car for 15 or 20 minutes after the arrival of the train here. The local reception committee, consisting of the officers of the Commercial club, the members of the board of governors and the trustees, waited for the magnate to get through with the Southern Oregon delegation and when he finally alighted from the train he was greeted with the usual handshakes. Mr. Harriman was at once escorted to an automobile, E. J. Frasier's big red Rambler, driven by W. O. Williams, of the Eugene Auto Co., and followed by several other autos, in which were the other officials of the railroad and prominent citizens of the city, he was driven through the business streets and up East Eleventh street to the University.

It was planned to take Mr. Harriman to the top of Skinner's Butte to allow him to get a better view of the city, but it was announced by Manager O'Brien that he would not have enough time to make the trip. However, he was so well pleased with the looks of that portion of the city which he had seen, that when the butte trip was mentioned he requested that it be made. Returning from the butte the party was taken to the depot and the train pulled out at 10:50 o'clock, after more than an hour's stay here. It was intended to remain in Eugene only about twenty minutes.

Delighted With Eugene.

EDWARD H. HARRIMAN.

The greatest railroad man of the world, who expressed surprised delight at the beauty and progressiveness of Eugene today. This is a good picture of the small, stooped man with a wonderful brain and marvelous capacity for work and organization.

as being delighted with Eugene and the country adjacent. He admitted (Continued on Page Seven.)
