DECORATION
OF STREETS A
FEATURE OF TODAY

Eugene has her best dress on today. Although the day was pretty cloudy, Willamette street fairly shone with ribbons, flags and pennants. Down the middle of the street are two rows of U. S. flags hung about fifty feet apart, and each light pole bears a shield with the emblems and colors of the Mystic Order of Shriners. Bunting hangs from nearly every store entrance. In every store window are pennants or other emblems of welcome to the travelers who have stopped at this green oasis.

Some of the store windows had special displays. Polders had a big electric sign of the order, which is especially pretty when lighted up at night. In one of Dunn's new display windows is a desert of sand with pyramids and oases, and crossing this is a single camel and rider.

Otto had a unique window with Shriners' fezzes made of candy. In Schwarzschild's window is an original drawing by Morris Schwarzschild. The Gilbert art store displays a large painting of a solitary camel and rider on a desert, the relief of which is unbroken except by one pyramid. It is the work of Mr. Gilbert. He made all the shields, fifty-eight in number.

In Luckey's window is a framed picture of a camel and rider. Eaton has an original get-up, consisting of the signs of the order and several pyramids made with ink bottles. Hull's confectionery store has a window display made entirely of candy. There are numerous others, all of which are good. It would be hard to pick out the best.

The street will look especially pretty tonight when lighted by the many arches of incandescent lights which when lighted will throw the colors of the Shriners over all the other decorations.
