SOME PLAYERS

Maude Adams is to have a new play by James M. Barrie, which will be ready for her in October.

John Drew will open his season in New York on September 14 in "Jack Straw," a comedy by a new English playwright, whose name is J. Somerset Maugham.

Ethel Barrymore is rehearsing "Lady Frederick," the play in which J. Somerset Maugham first won his reputation in England.

The two Frohman brothers intend to bring out jointly this season "The Thunderbolt," Arthur Wing Pinero's latest dramatic production.

William Gillette will be the star in "Samson," a new play by Henri Bernstein, the author of "The Thief," which Charles Frohman is going to bring out.

Some time in February next Charles Frohman will introduce to the American public "Chanteclair," Rostand's daring and original satire of human weaknesses.

Edward H. Sothorn will appear this season in "Gil Blas," a new play by Justin Huntley McCarthy and will also revive "Lord Dundreary."

Julia Marlowe will appear in John Fagan's comedy "Gloria" and, to relieve the monotony, she will give a repertoire of her favorite Shakespearean plays.

Alla Nazimova remains to her predilection for "haut gout" problem plays of the Ibsen and Suderman type and will this season appear in a new play of that kind.

Maxine Elliott will pose and look charming in Rachel Crother's comedy, "Myself Bettina" this season, beginning with January 1, and in a new play written by Clyde Fitch.

David Belasco, for many seasons the producer of gorgeously mounted plays, will try simplicity this season, by bringing out "The Fighting Hope," a new play by William J. Hurlbut, with only five characters and but one modest setting.

Blanche Bates will sail under Belasco's flag this season and will star in "The Fighting Hope," beginning her season some time in December.

David Warfield will tour the West during the first half of the season and then return to New York, playing "The Music Master" and "The Grand Army Man."

Belasco and Harrison Gray Fiske will jointly produce during the coming season "The Devil," a much discussed play by Franz Molnar, a Hungarian playwright.

Greco George will produce "Give and Take," a new comedy by Mme. de Gresac, on November 2, and will play "Divorcees" up to that time.

Mrs. Fiske will return to New York toward the end of September to begin rehearsals in a new comedy by Edward D. Sheldon, which has not yet been named.

George Arliss, who came to this country some years ago with Mrs. Patrick Campbell, will play the leading part in "The Devil" during this season.

"Little Nemo in Slumberland," with music by Victor Herbert and libretto by Harry B. Smith, will be the offering of Klaw & Erlanger this season.

Elsie Janis will star in a new musical comedy, which George Ade and Gustav Luders are manufacturing for her and which is still awaiting its baptism.

JUNCTION CITY NOTES

Born—September 7, to Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bamford, a daughter.

The little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Mays had the misfortune to break her arm while engaged in play Saturday. It was quickly adjusted and is now doing fine.

Forrest Miller met with an accident at the skating rink Monday evening that will confine him to his home for some time yet. While a good skater, he fell and for a time it was feared that his hip was broken, but as it was the tendons were badly wrenched and he suffers a good deal of pain. His many friends hope to see him out soon.

The skating rink opened this week with a large attendance. They have one hundred pairs of skates and every pair was in use, besides a number from Harrisburg who had skates of their own. The floor is first class and the falling capacity of the skaters is above the average. Some have already become quite proficient, and in a short time there will be a number of experts.—Times.

HARRISBURG NOTES

Senator R. A. Smith, of Eugene, and his brother, J. H. Booth, of Roseburg, accompanied by their families, were in the city on a tour overland to visit friends at Brownsville and Albany.

Theo Miller, of Eugene, has closed a deal for the possession of 54 acres of land on Ingram's Island. Thirty acres of it was the property of J. C. Ingram, which sold at $40 per acre, and the balance that of William Einfeldt, and brought $50 per acre.

J. T. Stevens finished the season's run of threshing last Saturday afternoon, being out just 23 days. He doesn't report any exceptional yield of grain on the trip, unless it would be that of Austin Alford, who received 126 bushels of wheat from four acres. This is an average of 31½ bushels per acre.—Bulletin.

Kennedy's Laxative Cough Syrup does not constipate like most of the old-fashioned cough cures, but on the other hand it gently moves the bowels and at the same time heals the irritation and allays inflammation of the throat. Sold by all druggists.
