responsible for the following timely comment: "Idaho's Republican row promises to almost equal the Democratic row in the state for violence of thought. Old line Republican papers are plainly stating that they should hamper any party at the polls. And isn't it strange how politics have changed during the past ten years? Most people can remember when newspapers of a party whitewashed all party weaknesses and fought the common enemy? Not so these days for the hardest blows delivered come from within the party ranks."

Salt Lake City, Utah, is expecting a large attendance at the national convention of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, which will open in that city next Tuesday.

Under the new labor law, employers are permitted to engage in building operations, outside work of any kind in mines or quarries, for in any such case the establishment.

The condition of the working class families in some manufacturing towns of Holland is deplorable. The wages are extremely low and the standard of life cannot be maintained unless mother and children take their places in the factory, side by side with the head of the household. In most cases, as soon as the Dutch law allows the child to leave school, which is at the age of 12 years, he must enter the factory or workshop.

The most recent child labor legislation in Canada is the act passed in the last session of the British Columbia legislature. Under this new law no boy under 14 or girl under 15 may be employed in a factory except in the canning of fruit or fish. The exception in the fish and fruit industries applies only during the "run" of the various classes of fish or during the fruit season. On the other hand there is no limitation of hours in these industries. Conditions do not seem to be favorable to the movement for reducing hours of work.

The Rev. Francis Edward Clark, the founder and president of the United Society of Christian Endeavor, was born in Axminster, Quebec, on September 12, 1851. His father, who came from a New England family, was a civil engineer and died of cholera in 1853. Advertisements, Like Clocks, Should Keep Running. A store's advertisements tell the people what is "doing" at that store—what is new, what is inviting, why today is a good time to visit the store. People look for the ads to tell them these things just as naturally as they would look at a clock to tell the time. Sometimes a clock does not run—sometimes a store's ad does not run. A "run-down" clock or ad are about equally unsatisfactory, unserviceable, misleading. Curious thing about it is that a merchant who would think it absurd to have a run-down or out-of-repair clock will, sometimes, deliberately let his ad stop running. It's not wise, nor good business, nor defensible on any known grounds—but it is sometimes done. WANTED—(Continued)
