S. P. SAWMILLS MAY SOON RESUME CUTTING LUMBER

C. Arnel, a prominent citizen of Marcola, having lived there many years before anyone thought of building a town there, was in the city today on business. To a Guard reporter this morning he stated that the men in charge of the S. P. Co's sawmills at Marcola have received orders to clean off all the docks of lumber, which, Mr. Arnel thinks, signifies that the company intends to start up the mills again in the near future, ordering the docks cleared to make room for new lumber. Large shipments of railroad ties, which have been on hand since the mills closed last winter are being made every day. The only mill in the vicinity of Marcola that is running now is that of the Sunset Lumber Co., which is operating with a full crew, but the prospects are that a number of others will resume soon.

AMUSEMENTS

Kolb & Dill who appear in "Lonesome Town," at the Eugene theater tonight, are firm believers in engaging competent players to support them. Unlike most stars these clever German dialecticians don't care to keep in the glare of the calcium from the rise of the curtain on the first act until the finale. While they are the chief fun-makers in "Lonesome Town," which is to be produced with all the care and detail that it was during it slong run at the Circle Theater, New York City, at the theater tonight. They have engaged some of the best known and highest salaried players in the musical comedy world, including Maude Lambert, who for years was a Broadday and idol and later one of the big vaudeville stars, and Billy Clifford, the cleverest delineator of the American "gentleman" who prefers walking to work and dirt to soap and water—more commonly known as the tramp.

These language twisters also believe in costuming and staging a production in A. No. 1 style. Nothing is too good for them and their shapely and pretty chorus girls are arrayed in the finest and most becoming finery while the stage and electric effects are dazzling in the extreme.

This is one reason why they have reached the top of their chosen profession. But when it comes to distorting the dictionary, these dialecticians are also on the job and they can cause some genuine and hearty laughter by their inimitable method of talking than any pair of elongated and sawed-off-and-hammered-down exponents of comedy in the profession. So if you have a fit of the blues or are looking for a chance to smooth out the wrinkles on your brow, don't fail to pay a visit to the Eugene theater tonight and see how lively Kolk and Dill make "Lonesome Town" and how pretty and charming the sweet-voiced singers in the cast and chorus render the many high-class musical numbers with which the piece is so plentifully supplied. The novel electrical effects also have a tendency to illuminate "Lonesome Town," in a fitting manner. So all in all you'll not be lonesome if you'll call on Kolb & Dill, who are but two of the many claimants for the "Lonesome Town."—Watts.

A Touch of Human Nature.

The newest western play, "The Little Prospector," will be presented by Chic" Perkins and her clever company at the Eugene Theater on Thursday, September 24. Through the play runs a depth of humorous feeling that carries the interest of the audience to the final drop of the curtain. "Chic" Perkins, as "The Little Prospector" imbues the character with so much interest that she is at all times in evidence. The part calls for both comedy and pathos and is interpreted in a manner at once recognized by the most exacting critics as a perfect rendition of the character, swaying her audience with unmistakable magnetism. The scenic display is elaborate. "The Little Prospector," may be awaited for with every anticipation of great enjoyment.

A Paying Investment

Mr. John White, of 38 Highland avenue, Houlton, Me., says: "Have been troubled with a cough every winter and spring. Last winter I tried many advertised remedies, but the cough continued until I bought a 50-cent bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery. Before that was half gone the cough was all gone. This winter the same happy result has followed; a few doses once more banished the annual cough. I am now convinced that Dr. King's New Discovery is the best of all cough and lung remedies." Sold under guarantee at W. A. Kuykendall's drug store, 50c and $1. Trial bottle free.
