

...the banking firm of Rhodes, Butcher & Sinclair, of Philadelphia, and promoter Al Welch better than you do your families, and place their welfare above that of the city of Eugene, vote against the bonds that mean a gravity system of healthful water, owned by the people and operated in their interest.

WELLS FOR WATER SUPPLY.

One J. T. Ross, a recent arrival in Eugene, is out in a communication to the morning paper advocating deep wells instead of a gravity system. He came from the little town of Fort Morgan, out on the Colorado desert, where it was well water or nothing. They couldn't have put in a gravity system no matter how badly they wanted it. Greeley and other larger Colorado cities about in Eugene's class, have gravity water systems because they were situated where they can get it. No doubt, as Mr. Ross says, his town of 3000 or 4000 people gets along very nicely with wells—because they have to. The editor of The Guard came here from Boise, Idaho, which is a city of 25,000 people, supplied by water pumped from artesian wells, and every fall the hospitals are crowded with typhoid patients, and the cause of the scourge baffles the local health board. Three years ago the number of fever patients ran up into the hundreds, many of them fatal. Besides this the supply of water is limited, the company sinking well after well to meet the growth of population, and the price of water, especially for irrigation of lawns, is much higher than in Eugene. There is also a constant agitation for a ditch system from the Boise river, but lack of water in the river, owing to irrigation, has kept the city from carrying out this scheme. Boise, like Mr. Ross' old home town, has to be satisfied with well water, but the people who live there would like to supplant it with a gravity system if possible.

How does Mr. Ross or anybody else know whether money expended in sinking wells in Eugene would not prove a failure. Artesian wells have never proven a success in Western Oregon, and if they were the expense of pumping would be very great as the town grew into a city.

IT IS TO LAUGH.

In Sunday's Register, Mr. Calkins contributes a letter in which he says: "The tests made here this summer by the State Board of Health condemn the water as unfit for domestic purposes; and we all know it is nothing but a little insignificant stream formed by the seepage of the foothills; and moreover we all know that the great bulk of the typhoid cases that we get at the hospitals here are people who have been drinking from these little seepage streams like Richey creek."

In the same issue of the same paper we find the following editorial statement: "Nowhere in the wide, wide world is finer water to be found than percolates beneath the surface in Eugene and all about the head of the valley where the majestic Willamette and the dashing McKenzie debauch into the valley as two of the clearest, coldest and cleanest streams anywhere in the West."

Now the mystery to a person who is not blinded by corporation influence is how the McKenzie river can be as pure as the Register says it is when the streams which feed it, according to Mr. Calkins, are full of typhoid and other disease germs. Would it not be a good idea for those who are for varied reasons attempting to control Eugene in the interest of a private corporation to get together and compare notes before they make themselves still more ridiculous in the eyes of the community? The editor of the Register was a failure as a bookkeeper for the Willamette Valley company before they transferred him to the editorial chair, and so it is currently reported, made an awful mess of the company's accounts. Now it seems that he is making just as bad a mess of their publicity campaign.

MR. ANDERSON'S OPINION.

Today the Guard prints a statement from Mr. Anderson, a resident of Fairmount, who moved to Eugene two years ago and established his home here because of the advantages the university offered his children. He is a quiet, unassuming citizen, attracted here as hundreds of others have been by our educational facilities, and has only the good of his family and the community at heart. In order to find out for himself the actual conditions, he made a trip to Richey creek, examined the stream and drank of the water. His opinion is the same as that of every other unbiased person who has investigated for himself. It does not require a certificate from a board of health to convince such men that Eugene will have as good water as any city in the Northwest, if a gravity system from Richey creek is installed.

Politics and Politicians

The Independence party in South Dakota has selected a full state ticket, headed by Dr. R. C. Warner of Mitchell as candidate for governor.

When the Republican convention of Massachusetts assembled at the end of this week Lieutenant-Governor Eben S. Draper will be named for governor without opposition.

The recent Republican state convention in New Hampshire was controlled by the old "machine" and afforded but another evidence of the strong hold the Boston & Maine railroad has on the politics of that state.

James S. Sherman, Republican candidate for vice president, is devoting the present week to speaking in Illinois and Indiana. Next week he is expected to begin a tour of the states west of the Mississippi.

At the recent election in Arkansas, Peary county, one of the two Republican counties in the state, elected the entire Democratic ticket for the first time in over forty years.

John Q. Tilson, who has been nominated for congress in Connecticut, was born and raised in the mountain region of Tennessee and until he was a grown man he had never seen a railroad train. Several years ago he graduated from Yale with distinction, and began the practice of law in New Haven.

THIS IS MY 50TH BIRTHDAY

Edwin D. Mead
Edwin D. Mead, well known as an editor, author and lecturer, was born at Chesterfield, N. H., September 29, 1849. His boyhood was spent on a farm and his education was such as the district schools of his neighborhood afforded. In 1866 he went to Boston and obtained employment with a prominent firm of publishers. In 1875 he went abroad and spent the next four years in study at prominent German and English universities. Upon his return to the United States in 1879 he engaged in literary work and soon rose to prominence. Mr. Mead has written extensively and has at various times been an editor of leading magazines. He is especially prominent in the movement for the promotion of universal peace. He was delegate of the American Peace Society to the congresses at Glasgow and Rouen, and chairman of the executive committee of the Thirteenth International Peace Congress held in Boston in 1904.

HER FEET WERE SORE AND CRACKED

Soles Seemed as Though Covered with Knife Cuts—Could Not Bear Weight of Feet Even on Pillow—Was Long Unable to Walk—Many Remedies Failed—Now Cured.

WILL PRAISE CUTICURA AS LONG AS SHE LIVES

"Some four years ago I had the misfortune to have my feet get sore. The doctors could not tell me what it was. I tried everything I could hear of or think of but all to no avail. The feet were all cracked across the bottom as if you had taken a knife and cut them every which way. They would peel up and, oh, my! how they did hurt when I would try to walk—which I was not able to do for a long time. One day one of our neighbors came to our house and asked what was the matter. I showed him my feet and he said he had some Cuticura Ointment which would heal them up. There was only enough to apply once, but I found it helped me so much that I sent for a set of Cuticura Soap, Cuticura Ointment, and Cuticura Pills, costing one dollar, and to my great joy, my feet were cured and have never troubled me since. I shall praise Cuticura as long as I live for the great help it has been. Mrs. Margaret Primmer, Platteau, Mo., June 30 and July 21, 1907."

ECZEMAS

And Other Itching, Torturing Humors Cured by Cuticura.

Warm baths with Cuticura Soap and gentle anointings with Cuticura Ointment afford instant relief in the most distressing forms of itching, burning, scaly, crusted humors, eczemas, rashes, inflammations, irritations, and chaffings of infancy and childhood, permit rest and sleep and point to a speedy and permanent cure, in the majority of cases, when all other remedies fail.
