The pavement in front of that building cost $150, and it will take but a little over two months for the additional rent to pay for it. Did paving pay that property owner? Has it paid the property owners generally when realty in the paved district has increased 50 per cent in value in the past two years?

The decline of the campaign button is noted by some of the newspapers, all of which is conclusive ground to believe that the world is growing wiser after all. If there ever was an unmitigated nuisance it was the campaign button, and we rejoice in the decline of the fad.

Strange that more would-be suicides do not shift the responsibility to a bunch of doctors, by volunteering for experimental purposes. Some of the treatments advocated before the Tuberculosis Congress would do the job quickly for the average person.

Theodore Bell says Mr. Hearst has his papers mortgaged for the sum of $4,000,000. Well, what of it? Some of us do not possess property upon which we can realize such a princely sum of money, and that, perhaps, is the reason why some of us are jealous.

A news item from the East declares that a Philadelphia woman has just paid $1000 for a dog that weighs only twenty-five ounces. Now you watch for the intelligent paragrapher with his prediction of a raise in the price of sausage.

Science has unquestionably made wonderful progress during recent years, but humbuggery is always right at its elbow, and it is frequently mighty difficult to tell "tother from which."

Just now the searchers for the most wicked men are not trying to find them in prisons, but if only a small protion of what's printed may be believed, they are finding them all the same.

The politician who does not shiver every time Hearst says something about "other letters in my possession" may be identified by the smile that won't rub off.

The Democrat heads an editorial, "Albany Full." We didn't read it through, but will bet thirty cents that it was a mighty quiet drunk.

"Uncle Joe" Cannon must be convinced by this time that some of his nephews do not love him as much as he thought they did.

MY OLD MISSOURI HILLS.

In fancy I hear the cooing
 Of the ring dove, soft and low;
And the herds so lonely lowing,
 As in sweet, long, long ago.
The woodcocks too are drumming
 On the logs along the rills,
And the banjo still is strumming,
 In my old Missouri hills.

Oh, the perfume of the wildwood
 And the foxhound's mellow bay;
Take me back to care-free childhood,
 In the gladsome month of May.
I can see the bluebells blowing,
 Nodding to the daffodils;
I can hear the mower mowing
 In my old Missouri hills.

In the stubbles by the straw stack
 Bobwhite whistles for his mate.
And o'er field and through the sumac,
 His wild notes reverberate.
Sassafras and foxfire grow
 Where the golden oriole builds,
And nature sighs as zephyrs blow
 In my old Missouri hills.

O'er these scenes I long to ponder
 And forget the things to be;
'Neath the old trees let me wander
 With humming bird and honey bee.
I can hear my playmates calling,
 Mingling with the whoop-poor-wills,
When the twilight's shades are falling
 In my old Missouri hills.

James P. Whitesides.

TORN STAMPS WILL NOT GO THROUGH POSTOFFICE

A new order of the postoffice department went into effect recently. By its terms defaced stamps hereafter are worthless. Should a corner be torn off, no matter how small, or the stamp be mutilated in any way it cannot longer be used. All letters bearing such stamps will be held at the postoffice two weeks for recovery, and at the end of that time, if not claimed, will be sent to the dead letter office.

Another phase of the order is also interesting. Permission is now given individuals to perforate the stamp with a reasonably small instrument for identification purposes. Such a step is intended to prevent the sending of anonymous letters, or the theft or mutilation of private mail of any nature.

Rheumatism

Is one of the constitutional diseases. It manifests itself in local aches and pains,—inflamed joints and stiff muscles,—but it cannot be cured by local applications.

It requires constitutional treatment, and the best is a course of the great blood purifying and tonic medicine which neutralizes the acidity of the blood and builds up the whole system.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

In usual liquid form or in chocolated tablets known as Sarsatabs. 100 doses $1.

Junction City, Oct. 7.—The Junction City high school football team defeated a picked team from town by the score of 2 to 0. The high school boys have a light team but are very fast and simply ran away from their much heavier opponents.

Would Mortgage the Farm

A farmer on Rural Route 2, Empire, Ga., W. A. Floyd by name, says: "Bucklen's Arnica Salve cured the two worst sores I ever saw, one on my hand and ones on my leg. It is worth more than a gold mine. I would not be without it if I had to mortgage the farm to get it." Only 25 cents at W. A. Kuykendall's drug store.

The Marquis of Donegall, bearer of one of the most distinguished names in the Irish peerage, was born October 7th, 1903. In 1904, when he was but one year old, he succeeded his father, the fifth Marquis, to the title. Prior to that time the infant heir bore the title of Earl of Belfast. His birth was one of the most curious incidents in the history of the peerage, for his father was over 80 years of age, and was twice married without issue before his wedding in 1902 to Miss Violet Twining of Halifax, N. S. The family rose high in the service of his sovereign in the sixteenth century. Not only was he Governor of Carrickfergus but also Lord Deputy and Governor-General of Ireland.
