OAK LOG SEVEN FEET BENEATH GROUND SURFACE

PECULIAR FIND MADE AT COTTAGE GROVE—DOG SUICIDES BY HANGING ITSELF—STAMP MILL ON DICK WHITE MINE IN BOHEMIA DISTRICT.

Last Friday, while excavating for the long sewer on the West Side, H. C. Hart and his men came onto an oak log buried seven feet below the surface of the ground. Naturally, they were curious as to how it came to be in such a place, and with the aid of a team of horses, after much work, brought it to the surface.

The log is ten feet long and at its thickest place is probably two feet through. It is very heavy, being water soaked, and is jet black in color. Mr. Hart will have a part of the log sawed up as soon as it is dry, as he thinks it will undoubtedly make a beautiful piece of furniture if polished. The oldest known settler, who was talked to on the subject, says he has no recollection of ever hearing that the river formerly had its bed in that place, although the sand and shells found in excavating denote that at some time either a lake or river bed had been there. The log has probably been in the ground for a great many years, and notwithstanding the time it has been there, is hard and sound as it ever was.

The log was probably a white oak, and might have been washed ashore in the river or lake, where it was gradually covered and remained until this time. It has been hauled to the side of the street back of the old Wall property, where it is a sight for the curious. We have a splinter, which was removed with a pick axe, which is as black as ebony and almost as hard.

The ditch which Mr. Hart is digging will be finished in about three weeks. There remain yet close to 3,000 feet to be dug and sewer to be laid.

The Dick White Mine.

R. H. White, proprietor of the Dick White mine, one of a group of his properties at Bohemia, expects to produce several bricks of the yellow metal through the office of an improvised mill, soon. He has erected a stamp mill, and has excellent water power. The Dick White mine has been developed for several years by Mr. White, and he said this week he was going to determine how his property would pan out. He is an old timer in the Bohemia district and has faith in this property. He says it has a fine showing and has no doubts of the ultimate outcome. In case his experiment proves a success, it will be a revelation to those who hold properties in that district who are forced to have their properties remain undeveloped owing to Kansas Family Arrives.

Thos. Schild and family, of Goodland, Kansas, arrived at this place Thursday with a large carload of personal effects, including five horses, two colts, two cows, pigs, chickens, ducks, farm implements, wagons and household goods. Mr. Schild has purchased the DeLure Hemenway place six miles south of town and will move thereon at once. Mr. Schild appears to be a prosperous farmer and will no doubt succeed in favored old Oregon, where crops never fail.

Dog Suicides by Hanging.

Bryson Sears, who lives on a farm two and a half miles northeast of this city, lost a valuable young varmint hound Wednesday in a peculiar wa. The dog attempted to jump over a picket fence, while running and in falling back its neck slipped down between two pickets and it was choked to death before located by Mr. Sears. He regrets his loss very much.—Leader and Western Oregon.

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC

Please take notice that the Albany Flour advertised by "Ax Billy" Company is not "Johnson's Best" (Pheasant Brand) flour, manufactured by the Albany Mill and Elevator Company. We have but one grade of flour, "Johnson's Best," and sell only to reputable dealers.

ALBANY MILL AND ELEVATOR COMPANY.

The above notice appears in today's Guard and Register.

The public is lead to believe that "Johnson's Best" Pheasant Brand Flour is a higher price flour than the one we are offering.

Some weeks ago we contracted with Mr. Knox, of the Albany Mill and Elevator Co., for a car of "Johnson's Best" Flour at $1.06¼ per sack delivered in our warehouse. The following day Mr. Knox notified us that unless we maintained a selling price of $1.25 per sack he would be compelled to cancel the order. We informed Mr. Knox that we considered 19c a sack more profit than a dealer should realize on 1 sack of flour, it being the most staple article he handles, and unless we could fix our own selling price could not use his flour. Since then we have made numcrous inquiries throughout the valley and have been unable to find any mill that will sell us flour for less than price quoted us by Mr. Knox.

"Reputable" dealers are paying $1.06¼ for "Johnson's Best" and selling it for $1.25, meanwhile AX BILLY continues to sell
