GERMAN EMPRESS IS FIFTY YEARS OLD

Berlin, Oct. 22.—There was a generous display of flags today, not only in Berlin but throughout the empire in recognition of the fiftieth birthday of the Empress Augusta Victoria. There were many other outward and visible signs of the extraordinary popularity enjoyed by the consort of Emperor William. During the day the empress received the foreign diplomats, who called to present congratulations on behalf of their respective sovereigns and governments.

A correspondent writing some years ago said that a book explaining "How to be Happy Though a Queen," will undoubtedly find large sales in all European courts except that of the empress of Germany. The same might be said with equal truth today. Augusta Victoria is one of the few feminine crowned heads who might truthfully be described as finding as much solid homely contentment in the imperial palaces as any honest workman's wife in her vine-clad cottage.

There has never been the slightest effort on the part of the empress to lead in the social world. Ever since her marriage her whole object in life has seemed to be the perfect achievement of her domestic duties. In whatever palace she may be stopping, her days are as carefully laid out as are those of the emperor, and from her own waiting maids to the scullions, she keeps an eye on every servant. Unless confined to her bed by illness, the empress is invariably up by 4 every morning, and at 8 o'clock finds her pouring the emperor's coffee quite alone. In former years the needs of her children required the greater part of her majesty's time during the forenoon. Now, with the youngest, Princess Victoria Louise, in her seventeenth year, the empress has been relieved of the cares of the nursery. Her mornings are now devoted to household duties. At 10 o'clock the royal housekeepers are received, lists of dishes for the luncheon and dinner are handed the empress, and at her discretion, always with an eye to her husband's preferences, the menus are chosen. After the menus are chosen, she considers household bills and then writes her own letters.

Between 11 and 12 the empress usually goes for a drive or a walk with one of her stalwart sons, and at the entire family meet at luncheon. After luncheon, in a quiet reception room, the empress is at home in her dressing room to callers. No great display of telegrams. Women come to pay their respects upon philanthropic schemes and every one who seems respectable and anxious to see her majesty is permitted to enter.

At 6 o'clock dinner is announced. This is the grand meal of the day. The empress then appears in full state to eat and many jewels. The state toilet and many jewels. The company nearly always is large and brilliant. After dinner there is music and sometimes a quiet game of cards. The empress as a rule gives little attention to public affairs. Recently she created some surprise by using her influence to prevent a government decree in Prussia favoring cremation, giving her support to the ultra-Protestant denominations who oppose the incineration of human bodies.

NOTICE TO TAXPAYERS

Notice is hereby given that the road poll tax, amounting to $3, is now due from each male inhabitant of the city of Eugene between the ages of 21 and 59 years, except as exempt by law, and will become delinquent unless paid before the first day of December, 1908.

Please call at the office of L. E. Bean, city attorney, No. 14 McClung building, where proper receipts will be issued. Receipts will be promptly forwarded to those making payment through the mail.

It will save trouble and expense, both to the city and taxpayer, if prompt payment is made.

By order of the common council,
L. E. BEAN,
City Attorney.

SPRINGFIELD NEGRO TO BE HANGED

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 22.—The gallows has been erected and other arrangements made for the execution of Joe James, which will take place in the Sangamon county jail tomorrow morning unless the courts or the state board of pardon interfere. The crime for which James, who is a negro, was convicted was the murder of Clergy A. Ballard early on the morning of July 5 last. James had entered the bed chamber of Ballard's sixteen-year-old daughter. When discovered by the young woman the negro fled, pursued by the father. The two engaged in a scuffle in the yard, and Ballard was stabbed to death. The crime occurred shortly after the race war in this city last summer, and was largely responsible for the public indignation aroused at that time against the negroes.

It was while James was a prisoner in the county jail that Mrs. Mabel Hallam was assaulted by a negro. A mob swept over the city seeking vengeance against the colored race, and James and George Richardson, who were arrested charged with the later assault, were hurriedly taken to Bloomington. Richardson was subsequently exonerated, James remained at Bloomington several weeks and was then returned to this city for trial.

The selling of the stock in the mining companies for funds to secure smelter is going on in a very satisfactory manner. Looks like the Southern district will get the smelter, and the wealth begins next year to pour from the hills. And the men pouring up the money will get big returns. It is a good investment from both the community and the individual point of view.—Salem Statesman.
