"STUBBLE FIELDS" OF THE NORTHWEST

A problem of considerable importance in Western Washington and Oregon has to do with what is called "the lumbermen's stubble field"—tracts from which timber has been cut and which, though desirable for agriculture, can be cleared of stumps only at a cost greater than the value of the land for agricultural purposes.

It has been suggested that a saving can be made in the cost of pulling the stumps if the stumps of Douglas fir are used by distillation for the production of turpentine, tar, charcoal and other products.

It looks as if the lumberman's stubble field can be brought economically under the plow only by the contrivance of some improved method for handling the stumps, which are too large for the regulation stump puller and are now removed by dynamite and the donkey engine.

An annual musical festival like that of last spring, when the Chicago Symphony Orchestra appeared here in several concerts, would be a splendid thing for Eugene. It would give the town a distinctive character and standing in the music world.

An exchange severely arraigns a Tennessee jury for kneeling in prayer to determine whether or not the members had rendered a just verdict. Although it is not stated just in what manner the minds of the jury could be enlightened by their supplication to the divine power, still the supreme court of the state held when the matter was taken before that august body—that the jury could pray if the members wanted to, and it would in no wise invalidate the verdict.

We all know that Eugene is growing, but few of us realize the magnitude of building operations going on. One gentleman, a new arrival here, tells The Guard that he counted sixty-seven dwellings in the course of construction during a walk last Sunday in that section of the city west of Willamette street—and he is quite sure he did not see them all.

The movement started by several young people's societies to secure for Eugene this winter the Buccell entertainment course is one well worthy of the support of our people.

It seems that the Democratic candidates for governor and attorney-general of Delaware have not heard of the law against offering prizes for votes, as each of them have offered to marry a girl from the county giving them the most votes, if elected.

In these days of partisan political conferences, it is refreshing to read that Booker Washington conferred with Secretary Root on the condition of negroes in Liberia, even if there is a suspicion that they talked a little home politics on the side.

To whom it may concern:—The closed season for passing the lie will end November 3, after which date those who do it may expect a blow, instead of being told "you're another."

Now that the kaiser has invented a car brake, it's up to Teddy to invent some sort of a quick starter. His trouble-starter is a world-beater all right, but it is old.

If precedent be followed, no man who is not an experienced traveler will have a look-in for the presidential nomination in the future.

GREAT VANDERBILT CUP RACE IS ON TOMORROW

It is believed that in the event tomorrow the winner will have to maintain a speed of better than a mile a minute. This means that the cars will shoot along straight and level stretches of road at ninety miles an hour, for at the turns of the course, of which there are eight, a speed of sixty miles an hour cannot be maintained.

The racing circuit this year is a little more isolated than those which have been used in previous races. It is in the form of an irregular triangle surrounding the village of Hicksville, with the Jericho turnpike on the north and the new motor parkway on the south. The start and finish will be on the motor parkway several east of Mineola and Garden City, the latter place being the headquarters of the Vanderbilt Cup Commission.

"FINGER" CONNERS MAKES SOME CHARGES

New York, Oct. 22.—Charges were made today by Chairman Connors of the Democratic state committee, that a Republican organization in the upper counties had padded the registration rolls with anywhere from 10,000 to 20,000 names, and to prevent the casting of fraudulent votes, the executive committee had appointed a state law committee with Judge Alton B. Parker as chairman.
