THE PRESS.

I am a king, a paradox, a fiend; The world's great pulse, the life-blood of its trade;

Ah, mine the power no mortal can suppress! I am your slave—command me if you care—

ATTRACTIONS OF ROYALTY

It would be interesting to ascertain the motives which prompted so many persons in New York to apply for splinters of the "King's Oak" in Central Park, which was chopped down the other day.

The extraordinary demand for such fragments can scarcely be attributed entirely to the fact that souvenir-hunting is an extremely popular fad.

STILL HAVE RIGHTS LEFT

The New York Court of Appeals rendered an important decision recently which has caused considerable comment throughout the country.

"We are now cutting timber from the forests of the United States at the rate of 500 feet board measure a year for every man, woman and child.

The National apple show, which is to be held at Spokane, December 7-12, is gaining so much in size and importance that the promoters are beginning to get wrinkles in their foreheads for fear it will get beyond them.

In testifying to the temperate habits of Mrs. Howard could a Mr. Sells, who is her cousin, said he had never seen her drink more than one cocktail before dinner, a pint of champagne during the meal and two cordials after it;

That Jack London doesn't forget that he has books on sale in the home market was proved by the so-called adventure he and Mrs. London had with Pacific cannibals, recently cabled from Australia, at the expense of American papers.

We assume that the Anderson (Ind.) lady who asks for a divorce because her husband only gave her 25 cents between April and November is actuated by the laudable desire to prove that all American women are not extravagant.

It does not necessarily follow that war is expected because the naval authorities have decided to change the color of our warships from white to drab—they may be only trying to cut down the paint bills.

Now that scientists are photographing microbes, it should not be long before you can get half scared to death for price of admission to a moving picture show, instead of having to dig up a physician's fee.

Says the Albany Democrat: "Coming down off Eugene's sleek paved streets upon Albany's gravel beds may be a comedown, but we are going to get there, and forbearance is asked for a while.

Whatever else she may be right or wrong about, Mrs. Hains, wife of Captain Peter C., made abull's eye when she said that publications relating to the case "have already disgusted the public."

The dispatches say the mills are already starting up in the East. We all hope the report is true and that the sawmills of the coast will soon be running again.

Now is the glorious time when every cloud can afford to have a silver lining, as bar silver is cheaper than it has been since the spring of 1893.

Last Tuesday Eugene polled 700 more votes than Pendleton, supposed to be the largest town in Eastern Oregon.

Remember the Southern Pacific farmers' demonstration train will be here Monday forenoon.
