MEMBER OF ASSOCIATED PRESS Entered at Eugene, Oregon, postoffice as second-class matter

MONDAY, NOVEMBER 9, 1908

If I knew you and you knew me — If both of us could clearly see, And with an inner sight divine The meaning of your heart and mine, I'm sure that we would differ less And clasp our hands in friendliness. Our thoughts would pleasantly agree If I knew you and you knew me. ANON.

JUDGE LOWELL IS RIGHT

The Guard did not support Governor Chamberlain for the United States senates for reasons that seemed sufficiently good from our own viewpoint. Now, however, that he was chosen by a majority of the voters, he should be elected and the Statement No. 1 members of the legislature should keep the pledges they made. We think the following letter, written by Judge Stephen A. Lowell to the Oregonian, has the ring of true manliness and should commend itself to every Republican politician in the state:

Pendleton, Or., Nov. 6.—(To the Editor.)—I notice in your issue of this morning in an article discussing the senatorship, mention of my name among several other Republicans who may possibly receive consideration at the coming session of the legislature.

I do not know that the matter requires attention, but I desire to go on record while the fight is young and to say that, while it is the ambition of my life to represent the state of Oregon in the Federal senate, I do not care to reach that high station over a pathway of broken pledges or disregarded laws, and I want neither silence nor word nor act of mine to influence any member of the legislative assembly to violate his conscience or his word.

I opposed Statement No. 1 in the primary campaign with such vigor and intelligence as I could command, believing it unwise, impolitic and foreign to the form of government under which we live, but it is now the law of the state, made such by a majority vote of the people, and every law should be obeyed.

I speak only for myself, and do not assume to be the conscience of the party or the mentor of the legislature. STEPHEN A. LOWELL.

We wonder what has become of the old-time cartoonist? The public has patiently waited during the last campaign just closed for a big hit in the line of cartoons, but nothing of the kind appeared. In the early Bryan campaigns Homer Davenport, now of the New York Evening Mail, never failed to give the public something of a brilliant nature, but he was scarcely heard from this year, so we may safely conclude that this once bright intellect has ceased to be or has grown stale with age. But the last campaign was a peculiar one in many ways, and it is scarcely to be wondered at that the funny picture man failed us. We were given the go-by in other directions my institutions which we had come to recognize as permanent by reason of long usage. There were no torch-light processions, nor any of the other red-hot methods of stirring up public enthusiasm. If there was any money spent by the campaign committees it was for literature to educate the people and not put out among the dealers in liquor and cigars. And the people went to the polls and voted just the same as in the days of red fire, drum corps and the marching of hundreds of thousands of ardent partisans. A great change has come over the nation and we believe it is for the better. At any rate it is a common sense change, which leads us to conclude that the people are becoming wiser in their latter-day civilization.

Burbank has set to work to turn out a cobless corn and promises success in the endeavor. Let us hope that it will be more popular than his spineless cactus, which it was claimed would furnish food in abundance for both man and beast. So confident was the great plant wizard that the cactus would meet all the requirements of food-devouring animals and put the meat and flour trusts out of existence for all time to come that he gave a banquet in one of the Southern California towns, the sole menu being composed of roasted, baked, toasted, fried and steamed cactus. Still, we have not heard of any of those who attended the feed going about the country advocating that humanity subsist wholly on that diet. But that has nothing to do with cobless corn. Everybody knows that corncobs are a useless appendage to the grain itself and would be glad if they were finally disposed of.

We presume the city of Eugene contributes more per capita for advertising purposes than any other city in Oregon, says the Pacific Outlook. Evidently they are satisfied with the results, too, for we note that this fall they have subscribed an aggregate of $15,000 for boosting purposes. This means an average of $1.50 for each man, woman and child in that city. If Eugene doesn't make the best town south of Portland it will not be the fault of the boosters.

The Oregonian of yesterday printed a splendid descriptive article on the Bohemia mining district illustrated with photographs taken by Mr. Hartog during his visit to the mining camp recently. The Oregonian is doing good work in writing up the varied resources of the state and this page devoted to the mines of Lane county will do much toward attracting public attention and perhaps capital in this direction.

Somebody mixed up the Democratic ammunition, and the party huntsmen had to be satisfied with governors for their game bag. The party elected governors in Minnesota, Ohio, Indiana, Nebraska, Colorado, North Dakota and Montana.

A league has been formed in China to force the merchants to continue the boycott of Japanese goods, and it pays a reward of $15 for the slitting of the ears of a merchant caught handling boycotted stuff. Sure; China's waking up.

The great and good railroads allowed a man to use the other day a ticket from Cincinnati to Washington that was bought in 1859. Not sure whether it was a case of absent-mindedness, or of advertising the honesty of railroads.

At last the hankering of the American heiress for a title is explained. A theosophical spellbinder, who of course knows all about it, says it's because she had royal affiliations in a previous incarnation. Can you beat it?

One of the game birds of Buganda, Africa, is the whale-headed stork. Can you guess the name of a sportsman to whom this bird will specially appeal?

John D. Rockefeller declares that he is naturally an optimist. It is the fellow without a son in the world who makes the best sort of a pessimist.

The Dutch are proverbially slow, but that need not encourage Castro to think that he will not get all that's coming to him in the end.

DAINTY SCHOOL FROCK.

FOR school wear during the coming season there is nothing prettier for a girl, whether she is six or sixteen, than a yoke dress of dark blue serge. The model illustrated is very attractive and can be carried out either in a wide wale diagonal or basket weave serge. Many of the basket weaves come in pretty combinations, such as gray and blue, brown and black and red and black. These are pretty with no other trimming than a piping of the darker shade and buttons covered with the same.

Chaille and French flannel waists made in perfectly plain mannish styles, without plaits or even tucks, are extremely stylish for girls of ten and twelve years of age. For tailored suits Panama is a splendid wearing material, and cashmere makes serviceable school dresses—that is, for entire gowns, as it does not make too heavy a bodice. A dark shade may be selected if it is made to be worn either with a net or some other white gimples.

The model illustrated is made with two broad tucks extending over the shoulders to the waist line, where by the use of a narrow used on children's frocks. This design carried out in white flannel, with trimming bands of a delicate shade of blue used to outline the yoke, sleeves, cuffs and collars, would be pretty for dress up occasions. The belt can be of the material or a blue ribbon knotted at the back. This dress comes at the back. The pattern is cut in four sizes—from six to twelve years of age. To copy it for a girl eight years of age 4 yards of material 27 inches wide or 3 1/2 yards 36 inches wide are required.

NEWS OF LOWER

SIUSLAW VALLEY

Ono Phelps was in Florence a short time last Wednesday. He left the Siuslaw about a year ago and says he is glad to be back again.

The pleasant home of Mr. and Mrs. Omar Wisdom of Glenada was made still more attractive by the arrival of a little daughter on Wednesday, November 4, 1908.

Mr. Peterson, of Point Terrace, brought his daughter Olga to Florence Thursday that she might be under the care of Dr. Edwards for a time. The little girl is at Marion Morris' at present.

Billie Dick and Newton Compton were arrested Tuesday for disorderly conduct and taken before Justice Severy and fined $5 each or four days in jail. They chose the latter, but after one night in the cooler they paid their fines and were released.

A business meeting of the Endeavor Society of the Presbyterian church was held at the manse Tuesday evening and the following officers were elected: Dena Schreuders, president; Marguerite Hurd, vice president; Ray David, secretary; Olive Behnke, treasurer; Hazel Weatherston, organist; Roscoe Hurd, assistant organist.

Archie Knowles and Chas. Beach, accompanied by their wives, arrived at Mapleton Thursday evening. They came in on their horses, which they will pasture here for the winter. They seem to be firmly convinced that, although forest ranging is not very good for the pocketbook, it relieves the necessity of employing a physician.—Florence West.

PEERLE OLD LADY

Has Strength Restored By Vinol

Mrs. Michael Bloom of Lewistown, Pa., who is 89 years of age, says: "For a long time I have been so feeble that I have had to be wheeled around in an invalid's chair. I had no strength and took cold at the slightest provocation, which invariably settled on my lungs, and a cough would result. My son learned of the cod liver preparation called Vinol, and procured a bottle for me. It built up my strength rapidly, and after taking three bottles I am able to do most of my work, and I can walk a quarter of a mile easily. Every aged or weak person who requires strength should try Vinol. I am delighted with what it has done for me."

As a body builder and strength creator for old people, delicate children, weak, run-down persons, and after sickness, Vinol is unexcelled. If it fails to give satisfaction we will return your money.

Vinol is sold in Eugene by the Red Cross Drug Company.
