EXHIBITION OF MILKING BY MACHINERY

Under Auspices of Oregon Agricultural College—Train Furnished Free By Railroad

A large crowd of farmers and townspeople greeted the Oregon Agricultural College demonstration train at the Southern Pacific depot this forenoon when it pulled in at 11 o'clock. The train, which is in charge of Professor J. W. Withycombe, and is furnished by courtesy of the Southern Pacific railroad company, consists of seven cars. One car contains farm machinery and products, other dairy implements and products, another a stall of cows with a milking machine in operation, another is a day coach and the seventh is the business car. Superintendent Fields' private car, "California," was also attached to the train this morning.

Immediately after the arrival of the train the crowd gathered in front of the entrance to one of the cars and Professor Withycombe addressed the people, stating the object of the train and that this demonstration is made possible through courtesy of the railroad company, which furnished the train free of charge, though at great expense.

A. A. Morse was then introduced and explained the movement from the railroad's point of view. He congratulated the people upon having the handsomest and most progressive city in the state south of Portland. In speaking of fruit-growing, he stated that the people of the Willamette valley cannot grow too much fruit. Every box that cannot be sold here finds a ready sale in Canada and other parts of the East, he said, if only good fruit is packed.

Professor H. D. Skinner spoke on agriculture, speaking of the great need of drainage and diversified crops, stating that much of the land in the Willamette valley is wheated to death. He advised the planting of alfalfa, clover, vetch and kale on the land to enrich it, at the same time the product being excellent for dairy cows.

Professor C. I. Lewis spoke on horticulture, Professor A. B. Cordley on insect pests, and Professor F. L. Kent on scientific and practical dairying. While each speaker occupied only a minute's time, a number of practical pointers were given on the respective subjects handled.

The crowd was then invited to go through the train and inspect the exhibits. What attracted the most attention was the stable car in which were two cars, the property of the Agricultural College. One of them has a record of 544 pounds and the other 520 pounds of butter fat.

Another interesting exhibit is the electric light plant which lights the train and is operated by a gasoline engine. The plant will furnish light for 30 16-candle power lamps and is exactly suited for the farm, being inexpensive to operate and the original cost of the plant is not great.

Perhaps one thousand people were on the train to see the demonstration. At Cottage Grove this morning there were 1200 to greet the train as it pulled in from Eugene, it having spent Sunday here.

VAUGHN BOYS BEING EXAMINED FOR PERJURY

The preliminary examination of Lester and Lester and John Vaughn, charged with perjury, was held today before justice of the Peace Bryson. The examination lasting until late in the afternoon. The Vaughn boys were witnesses against Jos. Jacobs, in his trial before the justice of the peace, for selling liquor, and it is alleged that they swore falsely on the witness stand.

The rails of the car line, and the vehicle was overturned, throwing the occupant forcibly to the hard pavement. The horse then ran down the street demolishing the buggy.

A large audience attended the M. E. church last evening, the occasion being the first of a series of four sermons on "The Four Corners of the Home," which the pastor, Rev. D. H. Trimble is now delivering on Sunday evenings during November. Practical sermons on home life are generally popular, but the subject presented last evening, "The Father's Corner," was not only interesting and practical, but highly educational, and according to one prominent University professor was a sermon that every father in Eugene should have heard. The sermon for next Sunday evening will deal with "The Mother's Corner," and will no doubt be equally as practical and instructive. This series promises to be the most popular of any that the pastor has ever delivered yet in this city.

OREGON PROMISES WASHINGTON TEAM HARD BATTLE

Though Washington Beat Whitworth 24 to 4, Local Team Still Hopes to Win

Despite discouragement of the defeat by Whitworth last Saturday, the Oregon team promises to come back hard at Washington next Saturday. The University enthusiast figures that defeat of the Washington team will wipe out the humiliation dealt out by the strong Whitworth eleven. Washington beat the Whitworth eleven 24 to 4 early in the season, but as the Tacoma aggregation held the Washington eleven down the first half 4 to 0 in Whitworth's favor, Oregon men feel that they have a fighting chance.

With the knowledge of a hard game and the weaknesses of Oregon remedied, the fight next Saturday on Kincaid field is expected to be the hardest ever played in Eugene with the possible exception of the O. A. C. games last year and in 1905.

Washington has never won from the local collegians, but the comparison of scores is not favorable to Oregon. Whitman went down before Washington 6 to 0, and then turned around and whipped Idaho 11 to 0. These scores truly show that chances on paper are against the local Varsity. Scores, however, are very doubtful quantities.

Other causes may have had their place in the result. If Oregon beats Washington Saturday, it will have to be by getting together, the putting down of petty differences and rivalries on the part of the players, and playing as a unit, with but one purpose in view.

Before they left town, the Whitworth players expressed the opinion that the Oregon team would stand a good show against Washington.
