

SHOOTING OF CARMACK. STILL EXCITING TOPIC

Nov. 11.—Excitement is still high over the shooting of Colonel Carmack. Colonel Cooper, who was with his son when he was shot, was remanded to jail with- out bond. His preliminary examination will be held tomorrow. He is expected to leave the hospital.

Senator Carmack claim the shooting was the result of a conspiracy in which men high in authority are concerned. Carmack was waylaid and assassinated while he was on his way to his boarding house, and that while he was there he was telephoned from a house near the office and that he was notified that the senator was on his way to the office. It now develops, according to the friends of Carmack, that there was a third party with the Coopers just before the shooting, an ex-county official and close personal friend of the Coopers and Governor Patterson. The Coopers say it was merely a street duel, that they tried to avoid a meeting with Carmack, that they went to the state capitol in response to a telegram from Governor Patterson when the tragedy oc-

P. O. CASHIER HELD FOR GRAND JURY

Charles A. Straus, ex-cashier of the Portland postoffice, was yesterday afternoon held to await the action of the federal grand jury, under a $5000 bond, which he immediately gave. United States Commissioner A. M. Cannon, after hearing testimony for several days, took the case under advisement and held Straus to the grand jury.

Straus, until April 17 of this year, had been cashier in the finance department for almost eight years. In April he was granted sick leave on account of falling eyesight, and it was after he had taken his vacation that a shortage of $4000 was discovered.

Last night Mr. Straus made a statement to the Oregonian, declaring that he was absolutely innocent of the charge of embezzlement, and he was confident that the investigation of the federal grand jury would result in his complete vindication.—Oregonian.

MANY LIVES LOST IN TWO FRIGHTFUL RAILROAD WRECKS

New Orleans, Nov. 11.—In a rear-end collision on the New Orleans & Northeastern railroad today at Littlewood's, twelve miles from this city, eleven are known to have been killed and twenty injured. The accident was caused by the New Orleans & Great Northern train running into a Northeastern incoming passenger train.

Later reports from the wreck state that the scene was horrible beyond description. The moans of the dying and injured were heartrending and the bodies of the dead formed an awful spectacle.

Exactly how the collision occurred is not yet known, but it appears that the Great Northern train was late, as it should have preceded the Northeastern into the city by about twenty minutes.

CORVALLIS PLANS TO PUT EUGENE IN BACK SEAT

Will Send Two Thousand Rooters to Football Game at Portland

The O. A. C. U. of O. football game at Portland Saturday, November 21, bids fair to be the greatest event in amateur athletics ever pulled off in the northwest, says the Corvallis Times. It is the topic of conversation among young and old men from Seattle to Grants Pass, and in Portland considerable money is being wagered on the result of the game. The students in every high school and college in the state, Idaho and Washington are anxiously reading all the dopes written about the prospects of the two teams, the alumni of the two state institutions, scattered throughout the west, are discussing the coming game daily, and in every place in every town and city where men congregate the O. A. C. U. of O. game is certain to receive more or less attention each day from now on.

Certain it is that every eye west of the Rockies and north of the south line of Oregon will read the report of the big game and, on the day of the battle, all Portland, and thousands from outside points, will be on the streets of the state's metropolis. For these reasons the occasion offers a great opportunity for successful advertising, and just now it appears that Corvallis is about to awake to that opportunity. With 700 cadets in uniform and the townspeople swelling the total number to 2,000, Corvallis ought to cut quite a swath in Portland, and it can attract attention in these people are put into line carrying the proper banners. A plan to carry out some definite arrangement is now under way, and to consider the matter the members of the Commercial Club will meet tomorrow evening. If you are one of the members, be present and get into the game with your suggestion. Corvallis wants to be the biggest thing on the map, but we'll have to hurry if we put Eugene in the shade.

Lots of Men, in Buying Clothes are, not half particular enough about quality; they'll buy almost anything that looks stylish and fits if the price is low. It's the wrong way to buy clothes. We hope you don't buy yours that way. The right way is to be sure first of the quality you are getting. Is it all wool? Is it well tailored? A price means nothing unless you know what you are getting for it. In this store we want you to know what you are getting for your money; we're not afraid to tell you, either. Ask if the goods are all wool; ask if they are tailored right; ask about style; wear; try the clothes on. But if you see the Hart, Shaffner & Marx label in the clothes, just consider it an answer to your question; all wool; clean, honest tailoring; correct style; wear; price will be right.
