ROBBER IS SOON TO BE TRIED

Minneapolis, Nov. 30.—The Hennepin county jail close watch on Frank Shercliff, noted desperado, who is to be tried on the charge of robbing the Northern Pacific train at Stillwater, Minn., a short time ago. Shercliff, who is a long time in all parts of the state, was arrested in Hennepin county, Minn., a short time ago. He is charged with the robbery of the Northern Pacific train at Stillwater, Minn., a short time ago. He is charged with the robbery of the Northern Pacific train at Stillwater, Minn., a short time ago.

Tenn. The Colorado authorities are awaiting the outcome of the impending trial with great deal of interest, as it is understood that Shercliff will be immediately extradited to the Colorado authorities, in case he should be acquitted of the charge in connection with the Northern Pacific train robbery.

Shercliff, alias Cummings, alias Reynolds, etc., began his criminal career at the age of seventeen, by robbing a safe in Aurora, Ill. He was shot at the officers, pursuing him, but was captured. He was convicted at Geneva, Ill., August 17, 1886, and sentenced to two years' imprisonment in the Joliet penitentiary under the name of John Cummings. He was discharged August 4, 1888.

According to the statement of the police authorities Shercliff was arrested at Gallatin, Mo., under the name of Charles Reynolds, charged with robbery, but he escaped from the sheriff by holding him up with a revolver.

The next sentence was one year in the Utah penitentiary, December 3, 1890, for a burglary committed at Ogden. He later escaped, but was recaptured and served his term, being discharged March 11, 1892.

Shercliff will also be remembered in connection with the diamond robbery on a Sioux City & Pacific train, on November 4, 1892. He boarded the train at Omaha, and as it neared California Junction, Ia., entered one of the coaches and attacked William G. Pollock, who resisted and was shot down by Shercliff and robbed of unmounted diamonds valued at $20,000. After the robbery Shercliff signalled the train to stop and made his escape.

It is believed that Shercliff was concerned in the Wachorsch diamond robbery in San Francisco, on January 1, 1893, when $5,000 worth of unmounted stones and jewelry were forcibly taken from a show window. Shercliff was arrested at Gilman, Col., on July 23, 1893, and burglars' tools were found in his possession. He was later taken to Logan, Ia., tried and convicted of the Pollock robbery and on September 22, 1893, was sentenced to serve seventeen years in the Fort Madison penitentiary. He was paroled from that institution on November 29, 1909, but was arrested in December of the following year on the charge of having violated his parole. He tried to escape, but was shot in the heel and was taken back to Fort Madison, to serve the rest of his term. He was discharged the latter part of September, 1904.

After the Northern Pacific train robbery in April, Shercliff was traced through several states of the Middle West, but he managed to elude the police authorities, until he was located in Knoxville, Tenn. When the officers tried to arrest him, Shercliff drew a revolver and shot at them. He was finally overpowered and great care was taken to prevent his escape. At first he fought his extradition, but submitted when he found that he was to be extradited to Minnesota and not to Colorado.

SACRED CONCERT AT METHODIST CHURCH

The special musical program at the M. E. Church last evening, as announced by the church last evening, was rendered in a very pleasing manner to the delight of the large audience present. Practically every available seat in the church was occupied. This was the first service under the auspices of the Men's Sunday Evening club and the efforts of this club promise to be a very attractive feature of the church work during this winter.

The choir under the leadership of Mrs. Middleton, supported by the pipe organ and Prof. Read's orchestra, furnished music that would be a credit to any large metropolitan church. Of special note was a pleasing selection by the brass quartet, the arrangement having been written by Prof. Read, especially for that occasion. Those composing the quartet were Prof. Read, S. E. Stevens, P. M. McAlister and Alf Dillard.

The third of the series of sermons on the "Four Corners of the Home" was delivered by the pastor, Rev. D. H. Trimble, the subject last night being "The Son's Corner," and was in every respect equal to the two preceding sermons of the series. No young man could have listened to that sermon without being more deeply impressed with the reverential position occupied by parents and of the child's indebtedness to them. As a son treats his father, so will he treat his God. The sermon for the next Sunday evening on "The Daughter's Corner," will be the last of the series.

It is the intention of the Men's Club to make every Sunday evening service during this winter just as entertaining and profitable as possible and the public can bear this fact in mind when planning to attend church.

PIONEER WOMAN PASSES AWAY SUDDENLY

Mrs. A. C. McGee, an early pioneer of Oregon, died suddenly at her home near Donna station, on the Mohawk, some time last night. She had been suffering from paralysis for the past two years and a half and was bedfast all the time, but the day before she died she was in good health as usual. She was 70 years of age. Her death occurred when the family arose this morning when the family arose. Mrs. McGee was born in Missouri about 72 years ago and came to Oregon across the plains in the early fifties. She first settled in Marion county, then came to Lane county, settling near Springfield. She has lived in the Mohawk for the past 35 years. She leaves three children, J. R. McGee, at home, Mrs. L. W. Walker of Philomath and Mrs. Luella Yarnell of Salem.

The funeral will be held at the family home on the Mohawk Wednesday at ten a. m., and the remains will be interred in the Gager cemetery near Natron.
