The hop market was a rather weak appearance yesterday. The selling pressure was more pronounced than it has been for some time. Growers desiring to find buyers were numerous at all the offices. The hops offered for sale, however, were mainly the lower grades, for which there has been but little demand at any time this season. Choice grades of hops, at least those in the possession of growers, are not being pressed for sale, though it is said that some dealers, having this quality on hand, are trying to find buyers for their stocks. McNeff Bros. were heavy purchasers during the day, but so far as could be learned little business was transacted at the other offices. Among the McNeff purchases were 80 bales from Kelly, Western Washington, at 5 cents; 50 bales from Jordan & McKinney, of Hubbard, at 6 cents; 32 bales from Miller and 25 bales from Barber, both of Hubbard, at 6 cents; 55 bales from Biseneger, of Butteville, at 5 1/2 cents; 42 bales from Mescher, of Silverton, at 5 cents, and 100 bales from a dealer at 5 1/2 cents to 6 cents. Ironmonger, of London, cabled to Isaac Pincus & Sons, of Tacoma, yesterday: "Market dull, with only few buyers. No improvement anticipated in the near future. Conard James W. Ragdale reports from St. Petersburg that the extremely unsettled weather of the past summer, with its sudden and sharp changes, was most unfavorable for the growing of hops in Russia, and that the crop was one of the poorest, the results being as follows: The yield was 270,000 pounds (pood, 36,112 pounds), which is even poorer than in 1904, when the yield was 280,000 pounds. In 1905 the crop of hops amounted to 400,000 pounds, in 1906, 300,000 pounds, and in 1907, 350,000 pounds, consequently the present year falls behind the average by 120,000 pounds. Generally speaking the total crop does not exceed 6 per cent of the normal average and is 25 per cent less than the crop of the preceding year. Thus, although the area of hop plantations has largely increased, the crop of hops is the worst for the past ten years. In regard to quality, the hops turned out much better than could be expected in view of the unfavorable weather. In certain places, Volhynia for instance, it was excellent, which is attributed to the regular cultivation of hops during a number of years. The fruit obtained was fair, without any organic defects, the contents of lupuline normal, 9 to 12 per cent, the odor excellent, seed insignificant. Eastern Eggs Higher Here. Prices on eastern eggs in the local market are again showing an advance. Some of the front street handlers put up the quotation 1c a dozen this morning and even at the advance are 1c below the figures asked in some quarters. Eastern eggs are selling at all sorts of prices in the local market at this time with the top for storage stock at 34c and the low point for the same goods at 30c. Those selling at the low mark are showing every indication of shoving up their prices to meet those of the more distant ones. The scarcity of offerings in local ranch eggs is one of the causes of the renewed activity in eastern eggs and the advancing prices there. Along front street the arrivals of home goods have been very scant during the past few days and many have been unable to purchase fresh stock. While the price of our best eggs remains at 40c a dozen the indications are that the market will do better in this regard unless there should be a change in the volume of arrivals. Dressed Meats Are Very Firm. There is a very firm tone in the local market for dressed meats of all kinds. Even hogs are showing a firmer tone, with the cooler weather and the better demand therefrom, but as yet there has been no change in prices because of the temporary weakness in the live hog market. Dressed veal is showing excellent quality for most arrivals and the market is firmer at top prices. Chickens May Do Better. While prices are practically unchanged from last week, in the chicken market, the indications are that a better demand will be shown during the remainder of the week. The Chinese have been quite liberal buyers of hens during the past few days and although the market is fairly steady. There are no arrivals of turkeys to speak of and the tone of the market is quiet with prices nominally quoted. Onions and Potatoes Dull. There was nothing in the market today indicating any immediate improvement in the onion or potato trade, and current offerings in both lines are somewhat in excess of requirements for the outside demand for the time amounts to little. Dealers generally are averse to paying more than 85 cents for potatoes, and they say there are plenty of onions now available at 90 cents. All conditions improve in the South there will be no general movement of either product. Honey Prices Are Very Firm. Offerings of honey in combs are very light because of the very small output everywhere on the coast this season. Along front street the best quality is selling as high as 33 1/2c per crate for 24s, although some grades are selling as high as 33.50 per crate for 24s, although some grades are selling fractionally lower than this. Generally speaking the quality of this year's honey offerings are better than usual. It is noticeable that the local product is fuller than that imported from California. Just why this is so is not known, but it is a fact nevertheless. Hides Strong and Active. Local dealers in hides report the market on the whole strong and active at the quotations that have held for the past two weeks. Improvement in both the hide and leather trades in the east is the favorable factor in the market, and the outlook is for continued improvement. Portland Livestock Market. Local receipts of livestock were light again yesterday and the advanced prices of the previous day more numerous than anything else, and it is possible that there may be some recession in values, but this is not certain. As for cattle, the demand for prime stock exceeds the offerings, while the scarcity of sheep is very marked. Local prices current yesterday were as follows: CATTLE—Best steers, 14@14 1/2; medium, 12.75@13.40; common, 12.25@12.50; cows, 12.00@12.25; medium, 11.75@12.00; common, 11.25@11.50; calves, 11.50@12.00; sheep, 12.25@12.50; wethers, 12.25@12.50; lambs, best, 12.50@13.00; medium, 12.25@12.50; untrimmed, 11.75@12.00; HOGS—Best, 16.00@16.25; medium, 15.25@15.75; leaders not wanted.
