OLD TIMESOLD DREAMS.

The red sparks up the chimney fly— Old times, old dreams in sight: We've told the cloudy day goodbye— Rest, and a winter's night. Old times, old dreams we knew; Red lips, whose smiles—they come again: Bright eyes, like sunlight through the rain, Are beaming now on you Sweet dreams, that never fade away. Sweet stories to repeat: Winter, with memories of May, Wears roses dewey sweet! —Atlanta Constitution.

The editor of the Visalia (Cal.) Times says: "To a man up a tree it appears that Biggy is not dead, but has just dropped out of sight, and that it will appear that way until his dead body is found." And this is the opinion of a great many people, although it is not shared by the friends of the missing chief of police, says the Berkeley (Cal.) Reporter. One of two things is certain—Biggy fell off the boat when in a drunken stupor, or else he has fled the country as some suspect. In either case Engineer Murphy, who was in charge of that police launch, can explain the mystery, if he will.

The Albany Democrat says: "This week the Eugene city council passed three more paving ordinances. It proposes to be the paving city of the coast. Already a wonderful result has followed. Prices are soaring in the city. Residence lots well out are said to be $2000 to $3500, business lots in the air, rents away up, board higher than ever and everything in proportion. The final result will be watched with general interest. Can the city, one of its size, stand the pressure?"

President E. J. Ross, of the Washington State Dairyman's Association, and numerous other members of that organization will participate in the convention of the Oregon State Dairy Association in Salem Thursday and Friday of this week. Electric power has been installed in the exhibit hall for working exhibits, and handsome cups are to be given as prizes, appropriately engraved, and assurance of dairy and creamery exhibits are coming in to the secretary daily. Salem people have arranged a splendid reception for their guests. Oregon dairymen will be well represented at the Washington meeting in Chehalis next week.

The women of the Pacific Northwest are taking an increasingly active part in its development and advertisement, and the Portland Woman's Club will go out on an unique excursion next week, when they will gather the beautifully tinted branches of Oregon grape in quantity sufficient to decorate the famous Plymouth church of Brooklyn, New York, of which Rev. Newell D. Hillis is pastor. The Portland Commercial Club will send this East by express in ample time to reach Brooklyn by Christmas.

There seems to be some doubt as to whether Andy Carnegie has outgrown the steel business or the steel business has outgrown Andy, but there is none about the $300,000,000 in steel trust bonds that Andy has salted down.

Many suggestions have been made as to what should be done for our ex-presidents, but nobody seems to care a continental about doing anything for the ex-candidates. This doesn't seem to be exactly a square deal, somehow.

Unless the Jap character has been greatly slandered, the agreement between the United States and Japan, which is said to be only "morally binding" upon the two nations, would better not be subjected to too hard a strain.

A widow, with $8,000,000 in her own right, complains that she is persecuted by offers of marriage. Well, she can easily get rid of the persecutors by offering to loan them money—most of them will take it and skidoo.

Only one man can relieve that hankering for cabinet or ambassadorial honors which is wearing to a frazzle the nerves of so many contributors to the campaign fund, and the number he can treat is limited.

The beef trust has not yet announced its advocacy of the proposition to put hides on the free list, but as it is the only real beneficiary of the tariff on hides that should not count.

Win and the world praises so gleefully it stammers; lose and the world jeers and brings out the hammers. Same old world, same old game.

We suspect the Texan who predicts a world smash-up a few weeks hence is merely a tight-wad trying to side-step the call for Christmas presents.

When Roosevelt, Bryan and Ke. all get to be United States senators there will be little chance for the other fellows to get a word in edgeways. All that can be done to relieve the congestion of language that will glut the classic halls will be to read the speeches by title only, which is about as good a plan as any, for nobody listens to them anyway.

No congressman ever becomes so economical that a club has to be used to force him to vote for an appropriation to be expended in his district.

GOOD C. W. B. M. PROGRAM AT CHRISTIAN CHURCH

Held in Place of the Regular Preaching Service Last Evening

An exceptionally good program was given before a large and appreciative audience at the Christian church last evening. It was under the auspices of the C. W. B. M. auxiliary and took the place of the regular preaching service. The basis for the program was a chart representing the ground floor of a large 10 room house and it showed that the work of the C. W. B. M. was not alone for women but included the entire household. Each speaker represented a room and though they were limited as to time, they managed in the few minutes allotted to them to bring out in a clear, forcible manner, the needs and requirements of their room. Such high class entertainments having for their object the enlightenment and betterment of humanity can result only in good, and Mrs. Wigmore, the President of the auxiliary, and her efficient workers, deserve a great deal of praise for last night's success. Special music by the choir and others added not a little to this literary treat. Following is the program as rendered.

Scripture reading, Mrs. Wigmore. Invocation, Mrs. Hull, (Senior). Introduction, Mrs. Thos. Bailey. Reception Room, Mrs. Hobbs, Mrs. Homery, Mrs. Sutton. Sitting room, Mrs. Hardin. The hall, Miss Effie McCallum. Scripture quotation, young people. Parlor, Miss Belle Keeney. Solo, Mrs. Callison. Library, Mrs. Hull (Senior). Dining room, Mrs. Daniels. Upper room, Mrs. J. M. Wells. Guest room, Mrs. Wigmore. Veranda, Mrs. Humbert.

DIED

At Wendling Saturday evening at 7 o'clock, Dec. 5, 1908, John McCullough, a well-known resident of Fairmount. Death was sudden and occurred while Dr. Rehban was examining him in his office. He had not been feeling well and went to the doctor's office to ascertain what was the matter. He suddenly fell to the floor and was dead a few minutes afterwards. The doctor pronounced the cause of his death heart trouble. The decedent was a well-known laborer here. He had been working
