WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 9, 1908

Fame is a food that dead men eat— I have no stomach for such meat, In little light and narrow room They eat it in the silent tomb; With no kind voice of comrade near, To bid the banquet be of cheer.

But friendship is a nobler thing— Of friendship it is good to sing, For truly when a man shall end, He lives in memory of his friend, Who doth his better part recall, And of his faults make funeral. Austin Dobson.

An exchange says the home should be made the jolliest place on earth for the children. Don't be afraid of a little fun at the family fireside. Don't let the boys think that all mirth and social enjoyment is barred from the home, if you wish to keep them away from places that lead to vice and degradation. Young people must have fun and relaxation somewhere, and if they do not find it in their homes, they will seek it at other and less desirable places. Parents should not repress the buoyant spirits of their children, but join in their merriment around the home fireside. The children will lose none of their respect for their father or mother if they occasionally lose their "dignity" and take part in the children's fun and sport. An evening's romp and play with the young folks will drive dull care away and dispel the memory of many an annoyance of the day. Have fun at home.

This is one of the current stories in the national capital: Representative Cushman, of Washington, came to Speaker Cannon with a letter written by the speaker himself. "Mr. Speaker," he said, "I got this letter from you yesterday and I couldn't read it. After I studied it quite a spell I showed it to 20 or 30 fellows in the house, and between us we have spelled out all the words except those last three. We can't make them out. I want to know if you won't translate those last three words?" Uncle Joe took the letter and studied it. "Those last three words that stuck you and everybody else," he said, "are 'personal and confidential.'"

The following from The Dalles Chronicle shows how Eugene's enterprise is stirring other Oregon cities to action: "What has helped make Eugene what it is today? Street paving. How can we prove it? Just take a trip to that city with a crowd of strangers and keep your ears open and they will soon tell you without asking any questions. Eugene has found out what paving has done for her and now she is making arrangements to put in fifteen blocks more, making seventy-five in all. The Dalles will have to hurry if she expects to give Eugene a run for the money."

The appointment of the former Populist state chairman, John C. Young, as postmaster at Portland, indicates that Senator Jonathan Bourne, Jr., is still in favor with the president, and that Senator Fulton is not considered a factor in the distribution of patronage. It also goes to show that a straight party record is not as valuable a political asset as it has been in the past.

Chairman Payne believes in making 'em sing, if they won't on invitation, and will ask the house for authority to compel business men to give the ways and means committee their views on the tariff. There would be at least one advantage in that—the statements would be made under oath.

It's about time to either cut out some of the social trimmings or to have the government pay for them, when a president-elect admits that he has to take into consideration whether this or that man is able financially to accept a cabinet portfolio.

Soap makers, representing a capital of $75,000,000, held a meeting in Washington the other day, to "get together" on how to increase profits via the tariff. Cleanliness comes high; also makes many millionaires, if not godliness.

This must be the writing, if not the literary age. A professional prize-fighter declined to talk fight because he was busy writing a book. Gee, and the time was when most of the pugs used a cross for a signature.

And when it comes to increasing his congregation, this St. Louis preacher who is defending the "love pirates" doesn't need any lessons. While it isn't our butt-in, his wife, if he has one, would better keep her eyes on him.

Mark Twain and Andy Carnegie are in the same boat though there may be a slight difference in their bank accounts—both are 73 years young, and are growing younger all the time, by their own accounts.

That "Fighting Bob" Evans knows his Bible also where good things are to be found, was demonstrated when he wrote to a friend: "May you live with the rich here and the poor hereafter."

The whole Taft family is getting into the presidential game. Brother Henry W. has been elected president of the Ohio Society, of New York, but he has no pie to hand out.

Mr. Bryan denies that he was attacked by a bear in Mexico, but has not yet been convinced that a tiger was not on his trail early last month.

Even a modest $75,000 hotel proposition should not be hastily condemned by a city that has just entered the 10,000 class.

GORRELL DESCRIBES CHINESE LIFE TO UNIVERSITY STUDENTS

Faculty Passes Resolutions on Oregon-O. A. C. Game

Portions of China and the Orient, the customs and the people, were described at the University assembly this morning by Oscar Gorrell, ex-'01. The address was well illustrated, and added to the interest of the lecture.

No comparison was made with American customs or traditions, and no opinions were stated as to the status of Chinese. The hour was almost altogether spent by the speaker in description of the Chinese, among whom he has lived for four or five years as a teacher and a business man.

Faculty Resolutions. The University faculty passed resolutions at its last meeting asking that the athletic council of the University refuse to schedule the Oregon-O. A. C. contest at Portland. The wording is reported to be strong and vigorous, and this action, coupled with the feeling among a majority of the students, makes the likelihood of the great annual game being played at either Corvallis or Eugene very much greater.

College News. Cards have been issued for the marriage of Samuel E. Elliot, instructor in psychology and public speaking at the University, to Miss Elsa Von Manderscheid, of San Francisco, on December 28. The name of the German club is now Germania.

A dramatic club at the University is now a possibility. Harold Dalzell has been elected treasurer of the Y. M. C. A., to succeed Earl Kilpatrick, who was compelled to resign on account of overwork.

Dr. Joseph Schaefer will address the Y. M. C. A. Friday evening in Denny hall on "Early Oregon Missions."

O. A. C. wants a debate with Oregon. As the field is already well filled, the debating men do not look kindly upon the proposition.

SIXTY HEAD OF STOCK BURNED

Woodburn, Or., Dec. 9.—Sixty head of fine stock and this year's grain crops were consumed in a fire that destroyed the large barn on the Burkhardt farm, east of this city, last night. The loss is $10,000, with $4000 insurance.

The farm was formerly the old Pope farm. The barn was considered one of the largest and best in this section. The cows lost were all high priced Jerseys. The origin of the fire is unknown. The origin of the fire is unknown.

Mr. Burkhardt purchased this 320 acre farm recently for $32,000.

That the voters of Grants Pass desire a conservative business administration in municipal government as well as a "closed" policy, is evident from Monday's election. The returns give H. C. Kinney a good majority, defeating J. C. Smith, who was a candidate for a third term. All candidates of the so-called "open town" element for councilmen

Fred Barnard, the barber, has just received by express from his old home in Virginia three opossums, which he will have for Christmas dinner. They are on exhibition in the show window of the Eugene Gun Co.'s store.

NO MORE CHEAP TIMBER CLAIMS UNDER LATEST RULING

Should the chief of Field Division deem the appraisal too low or too high, he will require the appraiser, within 20 days, to resubmit the estimate with such modifications or explanations as he may deem proper, when the schedule will be either approved, or forwarded to the local land office with a statement of his objection. If the local land officers approve the appraisal they will sign a certificate to that effect, but if they sustain the objection of the chief, they will return the papers, and another appraisal will be made by a different officer. This applies where the land has been approved by an employee of the General Land office. Whenever an appraisal by a forestry employee is disapproved, the papers must be sent to the Commissioner of the General Land Office at Washington for his action.

Final Proof Method Unchanged. Whenever a satisfactory price has been agreed upon, and the applicant has made full payment to the local officers, he must submit final proof in the manner now required by law, including publication of notice in a local paper for 60 days. If, after all requirements have been fulfilled, no protest or contest is pending, the applicant will complete his final entry and get patent. Of course protest may be filed at any time before patent issues.

According to the new regulations if an applicant swears falsely in his application or sworn statement, he will be liable for indictment and punishment for perjury, and if he is guilty of perjury or any minor false swearing or attempted fraud in connection with his efforts to perform any act or make any payment or proof as stipulated, his application will be disallowed, and all moneys paid to the Land office will be forfeited, as well as his rights under the timber and stone act.

MANY CANDIDATES ENTER VOTING CONTEST FOR EXPOSITION TRIP

The way the candidates are entering the race indicates that the Guard popular voting contest will be a splendid one. The prizes offered are well worth making an effort to secure, since the Guard never stops at expense in order to carry out its promises, as the winners in the contest of a year ago, well know. This time there is a likelihood that the contestants will receive even more in the way of inducements than the initial announcement would imply. Nine young ladies who are popular enough with their acquaintances and most active in enlisting their support, will be sent to the Seattle-Alaska-Yukon exposition next summer given a ten days' trip with every first class accommodation, including a stop-over in Portland and various excursions and trips about Seattle, as well as free admission to every feature of the exposition and entertainment at one of the best hotels in the metropolis of the Northwest, the far-famed boom city of Seattle.

To win the trip need not cost the candidate a cent—only a reasonable amount of systematic effort during the next few weeks. Such a trip is an educational course of great value as well as a pleasure vacation unsurpassed. Is it not worth making an effort for? If you win it will always be a matter of gratification to look back over the years to come; if you lose—well, an honest failure never injured anybody. But failure should not be figured in—go in with the determination to win, which is half the battle.

Remember the management of the Seattle-Alaska Fair has promised the nine young ladies representing Lane county a grand entertainment. This is a trip that you cannot afford to miss.

The conditions of this contest are as follows: Lane County is to be represented at the Seattle Fair by nine of the most popular young ladies, WHO SHALL GO?

GIVES THIS VERY SIMPLE HOME TEST

There are more cases of kidney trouble here than ever before, while recent reports show that more people succumb each year to some form of kidney disease than any other cause.

When there is sickness, examine the urine. Rheumatism is only a symptom of kidney trouble. It is nothing more or less than excessive uric acid in the blood, which the sluggish, inactive kidneys have failed to sift out, leaving it to decompose and settle about the joints and muscles, causing intense suffering; frequently resulting in deformity.

often reaching the heart when death ensues.

Pains across the back, frequent, painful and suppressed urination and other symptoms of weak bladder are not the only signs of kidney trouble; many cases of stomach disease, headache, pain in the heart, inactive liver, etc., are but symptoms; the cause of which can be traced to feeble, clogged kidneys.

A simple test of the urine is to void a small quantity in a bottle or glass and let it stand over night; next morning, if there is a reddish brick-dust sediment, or white fleecy substance present, either consult some reputable physician or take a good vegetable treatment. The following prescription is recommended highly in these cases and the sufferer can mix it at home; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Shake well and use in teaspoonful doses after each meal and at bedtime.

Where any of the symptoms enumerated above are present, good results are sure to follow the use of this medicine.
