Adjutant-General Finzer Recommends But One Change in His Report

Showing the Oregon National Guard to be in a high state of efficiency, and that but one change is necessary to bring the organization up to a regular army basis, the biennial report of the military department of the state was submitted Saturday to Governor Chamberlain by Adjutant-General W. E. Finzer, says the Telegram.

The report, which contains reports from subordinate officers and records every official action of the State National Guard during the year ending November 1, 1908, contains many important recommendations and states that with the addition of four companies of infantry to the Fourth Oregon, with headquarters at Eugene, which will be organized in the early future, the organization of the Oregon National Guard will be up to the army basis, the war department having allowed the reorganization until January 26, 1910.

In his report, General Finzer lays particular stress on the necessity of armories and suggests that all counties having guard organizations provide suitable armories, which could be used as public halls when not occupied by the militia.

The report also contains other recommendations, the principal of which are that paymasters be allowed to draw funds in advance of camps of instruction for pay and subsistence, which would save the annoyance occasioned by the present system. It recommends that troops be supplied with cots instead of the sleeping bags. Cots are used in the regular army and are found to add infinitely to the comfort and endurance of the men.

NEWS NOTES FROM THE LOWER SIUSLAW

The schooner Oakland was towed out to sea Wednesday morning loaded with lumber from the Oregon & California Co's mill.

George Flak of Mapleton is among the Siuslaw people who are courting in Eugene this week, he having started out last Sunday.

Several newcomers arrived here yesterday from the valley with a team and covered wagon.

The steamer Rosco left Wednesday morning for Coos Bay with a cargo of canned salmon.

E. A. Beach and F. M. Wilhelm left Saturday on a trip to Eugene, having been called to testify before the grand jury.

A. E. Cohoon, supervisor of the Siuslaw National Forest arrived here Saturday from Eugene and spent several days in Florence.

J. W. Peterson came in from Elmira the first of the week to engage in logging on the Siuslaw. He has purchased Fred N. Frederickson's timber below Point Terrace and will cut it off at once.

By some means of locomotion Frank Condon's boat was moved from the river up to the school grounds Tuesday night, and the next morning was found on the roof of the woodshed. Some of the boys carried the boat down to the river Wednesday after school and put it in the water again.—Florence West.

ART EXHIBITS

Tuesday Is Opening Day

The time between now and Christmas is too short to hold separately a number of exhibits that we have been planning, and we shall therefore make one big exhibit to open Tuesday, December 8th, and close Saturday evening, showing our books, stationery and art goods.
Moshier Books, Paul Elder Publications, Alfred Bartlett's printing, children's books, Rockwood, Grueby, Van Briggie, Teco Pottery, American water colors, Curtis photographs, Copley and Hollyer prints, Kiser's Northwest views, Klamath Indian baskets, Eugene and Oregon scenes, Jarvie metal work, Navajo blankets, Oriental rugs, Wilro leather work, copper, silver and enamels by Miss Watkins, Japanese towels, Japanese color prints and many other things of quality at reasonable prices.

FOR THE KILLING OF SENATOR CARMACK

Nashville, Tenn., Dec. 8.—The cases of Col. Duncan B. Cooper, Robin Cooper and John D. Sharp, who are charged with the murder of ex-United States Senator Edward W.
Carmack, were on the docket of the criminal court for trial today. The defense desires a continuance until the January term to give them more time to prepare for trial. The district attorney, on the other hand, is pressing for an immediate trial.
Many visitors of prominence came to Nashville in anticipation of the hearing. The trial itself promises to be one of the notable in the latter history of the South, owing to the fact that the feud between Carmack and the Coopers, which culminated in the tragedy of November 9, involved many men prominent in Tennessee politics.

The plan of the defense has not been made public, though the prevailing opinion is that a plea of self-defense will be made. This is in line with the claim made by the friends of Cooper that the affair was merely a street duel, in which both sides met and began firing; that the Coopers had tried to avoid a meeting with Mr. Carmack, and that they were on their way to the state capitol in response to a telephone message from Governor Patterson when the tragedy occurred.

The prosecution on the other hand, will contend that it was a case of premeditated murder, the result of conspiracy, pure and simple; that Mr. Carmack was waylaid and assisnated while he was on his way to his boarding house; that when he left his office the fact was telephoned from a house nearby, and that thus the Coopers were notified that the editor was on his way and to be on the alert.

ARE LOOKING FORWARD TO 1912

Washington, D. C., Dec. 8.—Disappointed but not disheartened by the results of the November election, leading democrats from various parts of the country are gathering in Washington to take part in a two-days' conference called by Chairman William C. Lillier of the National League of Democratic Clubs.
Prominent men among the visitors deny that there is any truth in the rumor circulated to the effect that the conference is intended to discuss measures for the elimination of Mr.
Bryan and Bryanism from national politics. The sole purpose of the conference, according to Chairman Lillier and others, is to make the necessary arrangements to keep the Democratic clubs and leagues throughout the country alive and in good running order during the next four years.

JUNCTION CITY WOMAN LOSES HER REASON

Miss Eureka Willits Becomes Afflicted With Dementia
At Marshfield

Miss Eureka Willits, whose parents reside at Junction City, Or., arrived in Marshfield this week over the Drain stage line, says the Times. She suddenly became demented while at the Blanco hotel and had to be taken to the state hospital for the insane at Salem today. She left in the care of a nurse on the Breakwater.

Miss Willits is about thirty years old and apparently well educated.
She came here, as near as could be learned, upon the advice of a friend named Smith. The latter met her at the hotel. He was not known to the management of the hotel. When it was discovered that she was deranged the hotel manager insisted that he look after her, which he did. Finally her parents were communicated with and they ordered her cared for at their expense, and it is stated they will meet her in Portland. Whether the strenuous stage trip here caused a nervous breakdown or not the physicians were unable to determine.

She did not grow violent, but suffered from strange hallucinations.

THE JOHN MILTON TERCENTENARY OBSERVED

London, Dec. 8.—A notable celebration of the three hundredth anniversary of the birth of John Milton, who is regarded as England's greatest epic poet and, next to Shakespe-peare, the greatest of all poets in the English language, was ushered in with a meeting held this evening in the theatre of Burlington House under the auspices of the British Academy. The meeting was attended by the greatest gathering of literary and other celebrities that has been seen in London in a long time.
The celebration opened with the reading of some lines on "Milton," which George Meredith wrote in honor of the occasion. Dr. A. W.
Ward, fellow of the academy, delivered a brief oration on Milton's life and work and was followed by a discourse on "Milton's Comus and Its Incidental Music," by Sir Frederick Bridge, illustrated by the choristers of Westminster Abbey.

Tomorrow afternoon a special commemoration service will be held at the Church of St. Mary-le-Bow, Cheapside, at which the sermon will be given by the Bishop of Ripon.
The service will be attended by the Lord Mayor of London and the sheriffs, in state, the officers and fellows of the British Academy, and other invited guests. Tomorrow evening the Lord Mayor will entertain a representative company at the Mansion House at a banquet, in celebration of the tercentenary.

Thursday afternoon a general meeting of the British Academy will be held, at which will be read a number of papers on Milton's life and work. In addition to this elaborate program to be carried out in London, there will be special exercises commemorating the tercentenary at Oxford and at Christ College, Cambridge, which was Milton's college.
