New Theatre Will Open to Public With Good Vaudeville Show

Eugene's new playhouse, "The Bell," will open its doors to the public on Monday next with a first class vaudeville show.

Manager E. C. Swinney has spared no expense in fitting up the theatre commensurate with the needs of a growing city such as we have here and proposes to present none but headliners in the vaudeville business.

The theatre itself is one of the finest on the coast. A brief description will give to Guard readers somewhat of an idea of how the house is arranged. The stage is 19 1-2 feet deep and extends to the side entrance a distance of forty feet. The proscenium opening has a width of 14 1-2 feet and a height of 15 feet. On the stage at the side are arranged three dressing rooms with room left for a fourth should it become necessary. Around the arch are 23 electric lights and on the stage are 14 switches, all controlled from one main switch. The small switches are intended to operate lights in various parts of the house. In all 500 lights will be used. All the wires in the house are conducted therein through conduits and are perfectly fireproof.

The auditorium will seat 250 people at one time without crowding. The room will be fitted with folding opera chairs, which will be arranged in two aisles—three on each side and four in the centre and running back in 25 rows.

The orchestra pit is large enough to hold six musicians and a piano at one time. The floor of the main room has a drop to the stage which enables those seated in the rear to see the stage over the heads of those sitting in front.

The ceiling will be fitted with bulb lamps in chandeliers and arranged in star-like formation. The ceiling is painted a dark green and the side walls will be covered with cork rubber matting, also of a dark green color.

The lamp house is constructed as nearly fireproof as is possible to make it. It is lined throughout with asbestos a quarter of an inch in thickness and the room will contain four lamps of the very latest pattern and arranged to give all the effects in lighting.

The front will be decorated around the ventilation holes with terra cotta ornaments. The front doors will be double and will contain oval mirrors and will be painted a pure white.

The opening will take place Monday night, and the bill for that time follows:

Overture—"Rainbow," by Mrs.

Lillian Luckey, pianist.
Opening act—The Blessings in the mysterious comedy, "The Surprise Dinner."
Illustrated song—"Day by Day," Gene Wilson, of Pantage's theatre, Portland.
The Traviolas, expert hoop rollers and modern jugglers.
Animated pictures shown on an extra long film.
Manager Swinney has placed the admission at 10 and 20 cents and

Mr. and Mrs. Blessing, presenting their original mysterious comedy, "The Surprise Dinner," will appear at the Bell Theatre commencing week of December 14.

matinees at 10 cents. He promises the best performances possible, and judging from the way he has fixed up his new play house will receive his share of the patronage of the people of Eugene.

Gentlemen—Some six years ago I bought your Nervita Tablets in Richmond, Ind., and at that time they certainly did all you claimed they would. I tried to get them here, but no druggist has them. Let me know if you still make them. If so I want to get six boxes for a friend of mine.

Yours truly,
