CONVICTED MAN MAY BE FREED BY SUPREME COURT

Portland, Dec. 16.—While a jury in the federal court in this city was deliberating on the case of Albert L. Cusick, the real estate dealer of Medford, charged with perjury, the United States supreme court gave a decision on appeal from the United States district court of Colorado which must necessarily give the accused man his freedom.

By the irony of fate, the jury brought in a verdict of guilty against Cusick at 10 o'clock after being out eighteen hours. A motion in arrest of judgment was immediately made by Attorney James Cole, representing the defendant, and a motion to quash the verdict and dismiss the case will undoubtedly prevail, as the government realizes that on appeal it would certainly meet with defeat.

Decision Is Sweeping.
In all probability the decision of the United States supreme court will also free James H. Parker, the Baker City banker, who was recently convicted of perjury on complaint of Fred Wunder, an old prospector, who alleged that Parker had sworn falsely in an application for timber lands, inasmuch as he knowingly declared the land to be valueless for mining purposes though Wunder had been working several claims on it for a lengthy period.

Many men have been convicted under the section which the highest tribunal in the land has decided did not lawfully apply to their cases and have served time in federal penitentiaries for their various offenses. It is deemed likely that a number are now serving time for the offense of perjury in government penal institutions. In such case all may now be taken before a judicial court on writs of habeas corpus and given their liberty.
