MONDAY, DECEMBER 21, 1908

Mr. George Hall, of this city, tells The Guard that his old home paper, published in a New York town, speaks of the beautiful painting of a Eugene scene—the mill race—which is now on exhibition in the city of Rochester. The picture is greatly admired and is attracting much attention there. It seems to us thing this is evidence that it will be a good thing to circulate the album of views, about to be issued by the Commercial Club, throughout the East. The Guard's year book, printed in handy mailing form, and profusely illustrated, will also be a good thing to send out, since the photographs seem to make a better impression among Easterners than prosy descriptive articles. Along with the finest climate in the world, we have the most beautiful scenery in the country, and that fact should be widely advertised.

There are 2428 children of school age in the city of Eugene, according to the census just completed. Using the multiple of five, as is commonly done as a basis for estimating population, this city has 12,140 population, exclusive of seven or eight hundred outside students attending the State University, Bible University and Business College. The increase in the school census over last year was 253, indicating a growth in population for the past year of 1265, which is probably about right.

A brakeman on a Montana railroad was fined $800 the other day for obtaining a pass over the road in the name of his wife and then giving it to another woman. The amount of the fine probably did not bother him nearly as much as the remarks made by his wife when she heard about the incident.

Turkey is moving right along—not Christmas turkey, but the sleepy old country over which the sultan rules. The first real law-making body that ever assembled in Constantinople met last week and got down to business as quickly as if it was not a most unusual proceeding.

A CHRISTMAS SUGGESTION

The best gift is not always the one that costs the most money. It's the thing that strikes a need, that's appropriate and appeals to good taste that makes the biggest hit. For a woman of domestic taste here's a happy thought.

A new book of exceptional recipes by Mrs. Janet McKinzie Hill, of the Boston Cooking School, has just appeared under the title of "The Cook's Book." It is a selection of 80 of the choicest creations of this eminent authority. The idea is to present in compact form a number of delicious dishes, cakes and pastries fit for those special occasions when the house wife is anxious to make her best impression. Every recipe is a gem and the
