WORK BEGINS ON EUGENE'S NEW POSTOFFICE

Welch Bros., Up From Salem—Excavating Will Probably Begin Tomorrow

W. M. and C. R. Welch, of the firm of Welch Bros., who have the contract for the erection of Eugene's new federal building, arrived up from Salem last night preparatory to beginning actual construction work on the building immediately. They set the stakes for the excavation this morning and announced to a reporter that they expect that the work of excavation will begin tomorrow.

It was stated by them today that they will rush the building to completion as fast as the weather will permit. They expressed a wish that the present good building weather will continue for some time yet, although they realize that Oregon's winter climate is variable and that there will be many delays on account of rain before the winter ends.

The building will be a handsome two-story pressed brick structure, trimmed with granite and other stone.

ORPHEUM THEATRE IS BOUGHT BY THE LYRIC COMPANY

Little Play House Will Be Conducted as First-Class Moving Picture Theatre

The Orpheum theatre has again changed hands and the name will also be changed to the Lyric. The Lyric Theatre Company, of Portland, will have control of the place and before reopening it to the public the interior will be remodeled and renovated. The new owners will make a first-class moving picture theatre out of it, and give a show lasting an hour and fifteen minutes. One of the best singers in the Northwest has been engaged to sing the illustrated songs and the picture films will be the best to be obtained anywhere. The house will be on one of the best circuits on the coast.
