ARCHBISHOP WM. O'CONNEL MAY BECOME CARDINAL

Boston, Mass., Jan. 2.—Archbishop William O'Connell will leave Boston next week for Japan, to engage in his second service as a diplomat to the court of the Mikado. Once before he performed the service, and this time the negotiations he is to carry on between the Japanese ruler and the Vatican are equally important, and equally likely to be rewarded with promotion and recognition by the Pope.

Archbishop O'Connell will return home by way of Europe and it is rumored that if his mission to Japan is crowned with success it is extremely likely that when he leaves Rome next summer it will be as an American cardinal. There are a number of circumstances that tend to strengthen this prophecy.

Reliable advices from Rome during the past year have borne the assurance that America is to be given another cardinal in the near future. The question of a better and larger representation of the non-Italian element in the direction of the Catholic Church, especially with regard to America, has become more pressing and urgent each year until now the step can no longer be delayed. The only question is understood to be in regard to the choice of the American prelate who is to be honored with the red hat. Since the death of Archbishop Corrigan of New York, those whose names have been most prominently mentioned in connection with the candidates are Archbishop Ireland of St. Paul and Archbishop Ryan of Philadelphia. More recently Archbishop Farley of New York has been mentioned in the same connection.

Archbishop O'Connell of Boston possesses one distinct advantage over all of the prelates named. He has never been prominently involved in the factional differences which for years have divided the American hierarchy into two more or less hostile camps, one of which has liberal tendencies while the other leans towards ultra-optimism. The fact that the prelates named have been leaders of one or the other of the factions has always been understood to have militated against their elevation to the Sacred College.

No member of the American hierarchy stands higher in the personal esteem and friendship of the Pope than does Archbishop O'Connell. Only last week the Boston prelate was the recipient of a magnificent gold watch sent to him by the Pope as a Christmas gift. The Archbishop also enjoys the personal friendship of Cardinal Satolli and other prelates influential at the Vatican, whose acquaintance he made during his long residence in Rome, first as a student and later as president of the American College.

As another argument to strengthen the reports concerning Archbishop O'Connell's promotion, it is pointed out that few American dioceses can boast the importance of Boston, the Catholic population, of which is more than half that of Rome, while the character, standard and zeal of its clergy are noted and appreciated at the Vatican, to such an extent that Pius X. several times spoke of it to Archbishop O'Connell when the latter visited Rome on his way home from his first mission to Japan.

Archbishop O'Connell is in his fiftieth year. He is a man of exceptional ability, his great energy of body and mind, and has shown power in every direction in which his duties have led. He was born in Lowell, Mass., and was educated in the schools there. Later he was graduated from Boston College, and entered the North American College at Rome in 1881. Four years later he was ordained a priest and remained in Italy. In 1885 he was made rector of the American College. Two years afterward he was named domestic prelate. He held this office until April 22, 1901, when he was appointed Bishop of Portland Me. and returned to America. A few years later came his appointment to the coadjutor archbishopric of Boston to assist the late Archbishop Williams and upon the death of the latter in August, 1907, Archbishop O'Connell succeeded him.

GENERAL NEWS FORECAST FOR THE COMING WEEK

Washington, D. C., Jan. 2.—The reassembling of Congress after the holiday recess and the meeting of legislature in a number of states, in some of which sharp contests are on for seats in the United States senate, promise to furnish much live news of public interest during the ensuing seven days.

When Congress reconvenes Monday the President's reply to the resolution of protest and rebuke for his secret service message will come in and will be commented upon without doubt. The senate will take up the omnibus claims bill Wednesday. Saturday has been set aside in the senate for eulogies on the late Senator Proctor of Vermont.

Public interest in the meeting of the State legislature will be divided chiefly between Ohio, Missouri and Connecticut, in each of which States a contest is on for United States senator.

Interest has aroused in the senatorial situation in Missouri by the reports from that State that an effort may be made to defeat the reelection of Senator Stone. The Democrats have a narrow majority on joint ballot and it is reported that the Republicans may contest half a dozen seats in an attempt to wrest control from the opposing party. Those well informed as to the situation, however, believe that if such an attempt is made it will be fruitless of results.

In Indiana a Democrat, probably John W. Kern, will be chosen to succeed Senator James E. Hemenway, Republican. In Connecticut an interesting contest is on for the seat of Senator Brandegee. In Pennsylvania where the Republican political machine is always well oiled, the Kinks in the contest for the toga now worn by Senator Knox will probably be well smoothed out before the balloting begins.

The legislature to assemble in Illinois will re-elect Senator Hopkins. In South Dakota, Governor Geo. I. Crawford will be chosen to succeed Senator Kittredge.

Other states in which the legislatures will meet during the week include Idaho, North Dakota, Minnesota, Massachusetts, North Carolina, California, Delaware, Maine, Michigan, Nebraska, New Hampshire, Rhode Island and Tennessee.

Governors elected in November will be installed in numerous states during the early part of the coming week.

Important cases on the docket of the United States Supreme Court, which will reconvene Monday after the usual holiday recess. Foremost on the list are the commodities clause cases, which involve the constitutionality of the clause of the Hepburn rate law prohibiting railroad companies from carrying commodities of their own production.

COTTAGE GROVE, TOO, HAD A MASQUERADE

Given in Armory Christmas Night—Others News of Southern Lane

The Christmas Masquerade Ball given at the Armory Hall on Christmas night was well attended, and a large number of masquerades were in evidence. A most enjoyable evening ensued. Almost every nationality was represented. Sixteen prizes were given as follows: Prize waltz, Frank McFarland and Miss Bessie Griffin; prize two-step, Mrs. Hamlo and Wm. Brund; prize three-step, Miss Eunice Vandenberg and Mr. Jackson. Prize schottische, Mr. and Mrs. James Potts. Most comical characters, Miss Sarah Bartels as fat woman and Tom Parker as elephant. Most original character, Mrs. Eugene Matlock and Miss Abigail Johnson as Gold Dust Twins and Martin Clark as Uncle Sam. Richest costumes, Miss Mattie Bartels as Columbia and Fate Long as Jap sailor.

FRANK B. KELLOGG.

It has been reported several times that Frank B. Kellogg, known unofficially as the "trust buster" of the present administration, will become attorney general in Mr. Taft's cabinet. Mr. Kellogg is a native of New York state and a resident of St. Paul, Minn. He is fifty-two years old.

Best sustained character, Miss Mamie Kime as Gypsy and Joe Arnold as Uncle Josh. The judges were, Earl Hill, Arch Conley and Frank LaCure. John Smro died last Saturday night or Sunday morning at the home of his son-in-law, E. F. Schwartz of Lorane. Mr. Smro had been in Cottage Grove during the day doing some shopping and was apparently well when last seen here. He was found the next morning lying at the barn yard gate where he had fallen. Heart trouble is attributed to the cause. His folks live in Washington at a town called Wilson Creek. They have been notified of his death and are expected here today. The funeral has not yet been arranged. It is possible that the body will be taken to his old home for burial.

Miss Mona Van Sholek and Fred Kelly, both well known young people of Eugene, were married at the home of the bride last Thursday morning at eleven o'clock. Rev. Barnhardt officiating. The bride is well known in this city where she has a large circle of friends and the groom is foreman of the Rocky Point Lumber Company. Their many friends wish them every happiness for their future.

Bart Westbrook of Salem has been in the city the fore part of the week. He is an old hotel man and it is reported he is looking for a location. There has been three men looking for similar locations in the town the past week. Cottage Grove looks good to them.—Western Oregon.

railroads are scheduled to be resumed in New York Tuesday.

The term of the criminal court which meets in Nashville Monday will take up for trial the cases of Col. D. R. Cooper and John D. Sharpe, charged with the murder of former Senator E. W. Carmack.

Rear Admiral Robley D. Evans will make his debut as a public lecturer in Carnegie hall, New York, Friday evening. Arrangements are being made to give the distinguished naval officer an enthusiastic reception.

"Jackson Day," the anniversary of the battle of New Orleans, will be made the occasion for a number of Democratic banquets throughout the country Friday night. Probably the most notable will be that of the Irons Club of Chicago, which will have as guests the Democratic governors of several Western states.

Rear Admiral Casper Goodrich, one of the best known officers of the United States navy, will reach the retiring age Thursday. For the time being he will remain on duty as commandant of the New York navy yards.

CHIEF OF PERSIAN REVOLUTIONISTS.

This is the warlike Salar Khan, the revolutionary chief who has caused so much trouble in Persia. In the region of Tabriz he is feared by the royalists to such an extent that frequent rewards have been offered for his capture. His followers carry the most modern rifles, are well supplied with fighting equipment and have harassed the government troops on many occasions. The recent war scare in the Balkans and the revolt in Turkey gave much encouragement to the revolutionary party in Persia.
