We who go a-wondering
 Up and down the year,
 Come to trace the path of spring
 By her blossoms near
 Hush to clear
 Far and clear
 How the winds her challenge bring.

Ye who dwell with certainty
 Dull and hard and gray
 Asking naught of sky or sea
 Take your chosen way
 While we stray
 Who can say
 "Soul and spirit fare you free."
 —Adella Dunbar.

The farmers of the country are getting considerable fun out of the country life commission, and the city jays who come to tell them how to get the most and best there is in life. If there is anybody in the world who is getting along any better than the American farmer, and getting more out of life, we are yet to hear from him. And now he is having all kinds of sport at the expense of the government commission, which makes his life particularly attractive at this time.

The movement to discuss the better protection and propagation of fish and game, and to promote legislation in this direction is altogether timely and important. Therefore the meeting which is called in today's Guard for January 12th should be well attended, in order that a definite line of action may be decided upon.

When it seems a little like winter here we always know that it is a whole lot colder all around us. There were eight inches of snow yesterday at Salem and Albany, and the street cars were blocked in Portland. In Idaho, Montana and other Rocky Mountain states a howling blizzard prevailed. All over the Middle West the worst storm of three years past is raging today.

Andy Carnegie's theory of profit-sharing, carried to its logical conclusion, would make labor the owner of the successful plants it works, but does not provide for the present owners or the labor at plants that make no profits to share.

A New Jersey Solomon on the bench has decided that every mother-in-law who can work shall do so, and not hang around the house bossing things. But he neglected to say how the decision could be made effective.

Governor Campbell announces that he will rid Texas of every trust within a year. Good boy; now go ahead and make good—the object lesson is needed in other states.

It's only when advice is bought that most of us consider it worth listening to, and that ought to be a tip to its free dispensers.

Jim-dandy treatment must be given the prisoners in the Texas state prison, as one of them, serving a life sentence, declines to quit, though he has been pardoned. Must think he's an office-holder.

All the philosophy of the ages was crowded into six words when an English poet wrote: "Never ask of Life too much," but it's mighty hard to live up to, and that's no joke.

It's the one best bet that the poor devil given eight years in the pen by a California judge for stealing 8 cents didn't meet with any delays on his road to punishment.

This talk from Washington of the senate committee's secret service investigation being continued until after the fourth of March, in order to call Theodore Roosevelt, private citizen, as a witness, makes a noise like trying to even up with somebody.

Building permits in Eugene show remarkable activity for the mid-winter season.

MRS. NATHAN HILL WANTS DIVORCE AFTER SHORT MARRIAGE PERIOD

Alleges That Wealthy Spouse Refused to Perform Duties Required of Husband

Late yesterday afternoon Mrs. Mary E. Hill, through her attorneys, Thompson & Hardy, filed in the circuit court a suit for divorce from her husband, Nathan Hill, a wealthy resident of this city, formerly residing for years at Springfield.

Mrs. Hill, in her complaint, states that they were married in Lane county on October 12, 1908. She alleges that immediately after their marriage her husband began a course of cruel and inhuman treatment, in that he persistently refused to cohabit with her and live with her as a husband should, that he abused her, used profane and vulgar language toward her, refused to give her money, has told her that he does not love her and never did and has urged her to go back to her former occupation, that of a school teacher.

Mrs. Hill asks the court to restore to her her maiden name, Mary E. Doane, also for a decree granting her $25 per month for support pending the suit, $250 for suit money and attorney's fees and for a one-third interest in all her husband's property, which probably is worth $40,000 to $50,000. She also asks for an injunction restraining her husband from disposing of or encumbering his property during the pendency of the suit.

JOSEPH WANAS WAS MURDERED

Screams of agony, heard by Mrs. J. Chapman and Mrs. P. L. Lawrence of 1076 Milwaukee street, seven or eight minutes before the body of Joseph Wanas was struck by a Sellwood car near Almsley avenue, New Year's eve; the discovery that the dead man and another whose name has not yet been ascertained were rivals for the hand of a girl; the admission that the wound on Wanas' head was received before he ever left the Bohemia Club quarters near the crematory, and evidence that the body was dragged some distance before it was placed on the railroad track, in addition to the facts of a suspicious nature already developing, make it plain that the man was assassinated.

Evidence of an incontrovertible nature that a foul crime was committed is piling up so rapidly that, despite their apparent disinclination to add to their work, the police may be forced to take up the investigation of the death of Wanas. The murder of this man—for the facts which have already come to light as the result of independent detective work make it plain that he was done to

COLD SPELL HAS BEEN BROKEN AND RAIN IS FALLING

Freezing Weather Was Inconvenient — Very Little Damage Reported

The cold snap in the upper Willamette Valley has been broken after a very short duration, and the good old Oregon rain now prevails. Very little snow fell in the vicinity of Eugene, although at Albany, only forty miles away, there was a fall of eight inches yesterday morning, and at points further down the valley the snow was equally deep in places. Portland had only three inches, but the street car traffic was suspended and considerable damage was done. Very little damage was done in Eugene by the freeze. Some water pipes were frozen last night, but nearly everything has been thawed out and it is expected that by tomorrow normal conditions will prevail.

The pavements were covered with an icy coating all of yesterday and part of today, rendering it extremely difficult and dangerous for teams to travel on it. Traffic was suspended a greater part of the time, but the temperature is now much higher and

S.S.S. BEST TREATMENT FOR CATARRH

S. S. S. is the best treatment for Catarrh because it is a perfect purifier. It is the only medicine that is able to get down into the cavity and entirely remove the catarrhal matter and impurities which produce the trouble. As long as the mucous membranes and tissues are kept in this impure and infected condition of the blood Catarrh remains. Its disagreeable and dangerous symptoms, of ringing noises, ears, mucus dropping back into the throat, headaches, watery eyes, sneezing, and even stomach disorders and weakened health, cannot be relieved until the blood is purified. Nothing equals S. S. S. in its purifying power. It goes down to the very root of the trouble, and removes the particle of the catarrhal matter from the blood and enriches this vital fluid that all the mucous surfaces are supplied with nutritive, healthful quality instead of being constantly irritated and inflamed by impurities in the blood. Then the symptoms begin to pass away and when S. S. S. has purified the blood, Catarrh is permanently cured and the general health greatly built up. Book on Catarrh and any medical advice desired, to all who write.

dray teams and others are at work again. Several horses fell on the pavement and it was with difficulty that they were placed on their feet again. It was no unusual sight yesterday afternoon and this forenoon to see teams on the streets with their feet wrapped in sacks so they would not slip, still their progress on the pavement was slow.

The unusual spectacle of a cutter on the streets greeted the eyes of pedestrians this morning. The horse drawing the vehicle had been sharp
