EUGENE OREGON, THURSDAY EVENING, JANUARY 7, 1909.

NO. 6.

IN PACIFIC NORTHWEST FROSTED IN MANY SECTIONS

The greater part of the Pacific Northwest is to be visited by a cold spell of present cold spell.

above west of the mountains. Along the coast, it is about 10 degrees warmer.

Bellingham, Jan. 7.—With the mercury hovering around zero, Bellingham and Northwestern Washington are shivering in the worst cold wave experienced since 1893, when 14 below was recorded. At Sumas ten below was recorded last night. At Anacortes the schools have been dismissed and the rumper mills closed down.

John Davis was found frozen to death in his cabin at Noon, eight miles north of here, last night.

Bellingham is without fire protection, as thousands of water taps have been allowed to run to prevent freezing and the pressure on the fire mains has been reduced to nothing. The water inspectors have found it impossible to enforce the regulations or shut the water off. The wind is blowing a gale, but there is very little snow. Shipping is hampered.

DEADLOCK IN ILLINOIS LEGISLATURE

New State Officers May Not Be Inaugurated Next
Monday

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 7.—The legislature is in deadlock on the canvass of the vote for state officers and there will be no inauguration on Monday next, as of the vote for state officers and the new state officers are usually inducted into office. The senate is in readiness to go ahead with the inauguration of Governor Deneen and other state officers, but it has served notice on the Shurtliff organization in the house that it will not participate in a joint session to canvass the vote until fully advised as to the plan of procedure relative to the recount which the Democrats demand on the governorship.

On the other hand the house is in readiness to hold a session for canvassing and to this end sent its joint resolution to the senate today. Because of their inability to get an understanding from the Shurtliff organization the senate referred the resolution to the committee and adjourned until tomorrow.

MRS. FLORENCE ERB AND SISTER ACQUITTED BY JURY OF CHARGE OF MURDER

Media, Jan. 7.—Mrs. Florence Erb and Mrs. Catherine Beisel, her sister, charged with the sensational murder of Mrs. Erb's husband, J. Clayton Erb, on October 6, 1908, were today acquitted by the jury and discharged from custody.

The jury was out nearly eighteen hours, and almost up to the moment when the jury announced it had agreed the prospects for a unanimous decision of the twelve men was not very bright. During the morning the jury filed into court and asked for further instructions on the question of self-defense, and while the spectators were still standing in the court room discussing the instructions given the jury word came that the men had agreed. The defendants were sent for at once.

During this heartbreaking interval the defendants were so nervous they could not remain still. Jumping from their seats, striding up and down, sitting down again, their hands clasped behind their backs, they were more restless than any jungle animals in a cage of the city zoo.

When the verdict was read the sisters fell in each other's arms and the women in the audience wept as they looked at the pathetic scene. In an instant the defendants were surrounded by friends and their relatives and overwhelmed with congratulations. This scene lasted several minutes, then, after the jury had been polled and discharged, Mrs. Erb hurried to the foreman and wrung his hand. Mrs. Beisel did likewise, and they went down the entire line of twelve men. Tears stood in the eyes of most of them as the thanks of the women were sobbed out in broken syllables.

Mrs. Erb said after the jury had gone that she was confident she would be acquitted, but had not so much faith as regards her sister's fate. Mrs. Beisel stated she was not at all confident of acquittal, "for you never know what twelve men will do." She also was confident of her sister's freedom.

O. EDWARD'S GREAT CRIME AT PORTLAND

Story of Killing of Hotel Man by Lane County Youth—Had Been Drinking

Portland, Jan. 6.—Angry at being refused a room in the Richmond hotel, 33 1-2 North Sixth street, and craving for liquor, Oshorn Edwards of Creswell, Or., 24 years of age, shot Thomas McGalliard, the proprietor of the lodging house last night, killing him almost instantly.

The shooting was done on the second floor of the hotel near the landing of the stairway, about 10:20 o'clock, and was witnessed only by the wife of the murdered man.

Mr. and Mrs. McGalliard had spent the evening in their room, playing cribbage with a friend, O. E. Pardee, of Chicago. Shortly after 10 o'clock McGalliard left the card table to answer it. He found two men who asked for a room. After getting the keys from his wife, McGalliard showed the men to the third floor and was unlocking the door to room 22 when one of the men, both of whom had been drinking, asked if there were any women in the house. The proprietor told the men that he was not keeping "that kind of a house." A dispute followed, the drunken men insisting that they had been told that the hotel was the home of numerous fallen women.

Refused to Leave Hotel.
McGalliard grew angry and ordered the men out of the house. They refused to go, whereupon McGalliard, who is a large man weighing 247 pounds and muscular, took both men by the collar and started to lead them down to the street. Hot words were exchanged and the three men came down stairs and Mrs. McGalliard stepped into the hallway to ascertain the trouble.

From this point she witnessed the tragedy. She saw her husband attempt to pull the men out and saw them refuse to go, saw Edwards draw a revolver and then closed her eyes as he fired four shots.

Three bullets entered McGalliard's body, and one lodged in the arm of Edwards' companion, who attempted to prevent the tragedy. McGalliard sank to the floor dying with one bullet in his heart and two in his left shoulder, but clung to the man who had shot him until the arrival of the police. The man, C. M. Gold, a companion of the Southern Pacific Steamship company, came Gold fought all the way down the stairs with the murderer, finally overpowering him and holding him for the police.

Edwards' companion, J. Caudill, who is his cousin and three years younger, was caught in the street by Sergeant Goltz, a few blocks from the scene. At the police station Edwards admitted having fired the fatal shots and attempted to excuse himself by saying he had been drinking. At the same time the police say he half bragged over the deed he had done. Caudill, Edwards' partner, was removed to St. Vincent's hospital, where the wound in his arm was dressed. He will be held as a witness after he is released from the hospital.

A charge of murder was placed against Edwards, who was taken before the grand jury today.

District Attorney Cameron lost no time this morning in presenting the case of Edwards to the grand jury. Following the policy of the courts to get all murder cases to trial with the least possible delay, the grand jury is already in possession of the facts on which to bring an indictment against the slayer.

The witness examined this morning were Mrs. Thomas F. McGalliard, widow of the murdered man; Eva Edwards, her niece; O. E. Pardee, an attorney from Illinois who checked to witness the shooting; C. M. Gold, who captured Edwards; and Police Sergeant Goltz.

Edwards' Confesses to Shooting.
Deputy District Attorney Fitzgerald obtained from Edwards this morning a confession that he shot McGalliard. The young man declared, however, that he was being roughly handled by the rooming house keeper when he fired. He denied being intoxicated, although he admitted having had a few drinks. C. Caudill, the cousin of Edwards, had discarded both his coat and vest when the officers found him at the foot of the stairway leading to the Richmond. He was plainly under the influence of liquor, the officers say; Caudill declared he had been accidentally shot while trying to prevent his cousin from shooting McGalliard.

According to Mrs. McGalliard's statement this morning, both men came from Creswell, Or., recently, where they worked in logging camps. Caudill is still in St. Vincent's hospital, but his wound in the arm, it is reported, is not serious.

The Great Stock Reducing Sale Still Continues nothing left of this great stock to tell the story of its magnitude. The January Sale began. We are unloading everything in fall and winter sweeping reductions. The year just brought to a close was the most successful in our history. We have sold more goods than any year since we began 11 years ago. This month we lose sight of profits, turn our backs to converting our stock into money and preparing for the reception of our spring stock. Prudent buyers will avail themselves of this opportunity to purchase their supplies for 6 months or even one year. Many goods are sold at cost or even less. Come here—this is the place.
