W. C. T. U. TAKES EXCEPTIONS TO HOBBS' REMARKS

Compliments of the Eugene W. C. T. U. to J. W. Hobbs, Dep. Inter. Rev. Collector

(To the Editor)—The above-named person seems to us a thorough the Medford Tribune, and published in the Daily Guard and Morning Register, of Eugene, that "in spite of the statement made that business has improved in Eugene since local option went into effect, I can state that such is not the case." Well, suppose you do "state" it? Is that any sign that you state the truth? There are various kinds of statements; among them some are so very false that common people will call them plain lies. That's good English, too. And the one who deliberately circulates them generally gets classed with liars. That's just, too. Now if this man had said "booze business" he would have told the truth. But he did not mean that. He meant honest, legitimate business. Now, the business properly speaks for itself in no uncertain language. But "many drunken women" and "dozens of boot-leggers!" Say—speak low, be careful. Is it not the fact that those many women who gather together every afternoon for "booze parties"—with you as guest of honor, else you would not know of them—are they not, I say, just the poor, dragged, frail aftermath of the regime of the open saloon? Any creature who for a few paltry dollars would thus draw aside the private curtain of his own shameful life and expose its leprosy and try to tarnish the good name of the Eugene women, who are among the purest, best and grandest types of womanhood, is ten thousand times worse than the venomous viper that stings the bosom that warns it. And those "dozens of boot-leggers" you let get away. Honest, now, are they, too, not the legitimate offspring of the licensed, open saloon? Schooled in deceit and vice, too lazy to work and too cowardly to steal, taught and drilled by white-aproned saloon dispensers to despise the law, what else could you expect? They are your kind—look after them. It is rightly your business. "Many drunken women" and "dozens of boot-leggers!" Say, aren't you seeing visions? Perhaps after all you only have delirium tremens. JOSEPHINE HULL, Press Supt. W. C. T. U.

TIMMONS IS FOUND GUILTY IN FIRST DEGREE

Jury Makes Short Work of the Wife Murderer's Case at Salem

Special to The Guard. Salem, Or., Jan. 18.—C. Y. Timmons, charged with the murder of his wife, formerly Miss Stella Bogart, of Lane county, was today found guilty of murder in the first degree. The jury was out twenty minutes. By the appearance of John and Eva Sekavee as important witnesses for the state was dealt a damaging blow to the defense. They repeated the stories they told to the newspapers prior to the trial about hearing Timmons walking about the room, or at least some one with heavy shoes on, was walking around, and they told of hearing a body fall to the floor and of the sound of a blunt instrument as though an axe were striking. They were closely cross-examined but adhered to their stories, even to the part concerning Mrs. Hayball's going to the door of the room after Mrs. Hayball had stated on the stand that she knew nothing of the murder until morning when Timmons, blood-stained, came to the door of the living room. A dramatic incident arrived when Timmons was confronted with the axe which was found under his mattress. The deputy district attorney held up the weapon, which had a blood-stained handle, and it was then Timmons nearly broke down and admitted that he may have struck his wife with the heavy instrument. For the defense Timmons himself was practically the only witness. He said that he (Timmons) was lying in bed next to the wall and that he and his wife had been drinking during the evening. He said that he was awakened about 12:30 o'clock and found that his throat had been cut. He stated that his wife was in bed on her knees, and that as there was a lamp burning in the room he saw her holding a razor in her right hand. He then said he got upon his knees in bed and took hold of her right wrist with his left hand and they commenced to scuffle. With his right hand, he states, he finally wrenched the razor away from her. They then began to wrestle again, according to his testimony, and she got upon her feet, while still in bed, and started to get away from him. He then took hold of her left arm, and, he states, drew the razor across her neck. She took a step and then fell to the floor. He reached out of bed, he says, and took hold of the ax, which he held in his right hand. He said he didn't remember whether he struck her with the ax or not, but on cross-examination by Deputy District Attorney McNary admitted he probably did.

Dyspeptics

ing yesterday afternoon and elected the following board of directors: Fred Flak, F. J. Berger, Alton Hampton, M. F. Griggs, L. H. Motter, S. S. Spencer, and F. N. McAllister. Have you paid your electric light and gas bill yet for December, 1908? The lessees of the Park hotel desire it stated that the reason the house was closed up was on account of the leaky condition of the roof. They say they could not keep their guests on that account and were forced to quit business. The Eagles are rehearsing every night for their minstrel show to be given the latter part of this month. Some excellent talent among the membership of the lodge has been discovered by Director Holmes. Twenty-one new members were taken in to the lodge last night. A committee from the city council will go to the Hayden bridge power site on the McKenzie tomorrow to examine it and determine its feasibility as a suitable location for the municipal power plant. F. L. Chambers offered to sell the site to the city at yesterday's council meeting. Architect Hunziker is drawing plans for a two-story frame building to be erected at the corner of West Eighth and Washington street in the spring by Melvin Hansen. There will be two store rooms below and living rooms above. The building will be 30x90 feet in dimensions and will cost in the neighborhood of $8,000. The special meeting to be held by the Commercial Club Friday night will consider the important subjects of the proposed division of the county and also of holding a county fair next fall. A full attendance is desired, and Springfield, Junction City and other towns, as well as the farmers of the county, are invited and urged to be present. Attorney I. N. Harbaugh is setting a good example in feeding the birds and is daily putting out twelve loaves of bread and quantities of apples. The birds flock about his place by hundreds, especially in the early morning. Our people generally should remember that the birds are powerless to help themselves now and do what they can to relieve their condition. Harvey M. Stackpole, a well-known University student, has withdrawn from college in order to take charge of fruit interests in Southern Oregon. He and Phillip Marlon, a Harvard man, have bought a farm in the Rogue River valley and within a couple of weeks intend to take active management of the place, devoting all of their time to the raising of high class fruit for the Eastern markets. The annual meeting of the First National bank was held yesterday afternoon and the old board of directors was re-elected. It consists of the following: T. G. Hendricks, S. B. Eakin, P. E. Snodgrass, G. R. Chrisman, F. L. Chambers, Darwin Bristow, and Luke Goodrich. The directors elected officers as follows, all being re-elected: President, T. H. Hendricks; vice-president, S. B. Eakin; cashier, P. E. Snodgrass; assistant cashier, Luke L. Goodrich; assistant cashier, Darwin Bristow. Mrs. Moaglin, who resides in the Dunn building at 73 West Eighth street, is in needy circumstances. Her case has been investigated by Chief of Police Farrington and he has found that she is worthy and deserves assistance. She has two children, the oldest of which is three years, and she is unable to do any hard work to support herself and her husband has left her and is said to be in Portland. Anyone wishing to give her assistance may call on Chief of Police Farrington. The birds are having a hard time finding anything to eat since the snow covered the ground. Berries are gone and seeds are scarce. Give the birds those broken biscuits, some crusts of bread—those little leftovers that seem so insignificant for other uses. The birds will appreciate them. The suffering and inconveniences of the people may not be preventable, but there are, and it is only ordinary kindness to see that the little creatures have both food and water while this inclement weather lasts. Destruction of all the China pheasants in the Willamette valley is threatened if the weather does not moderate soon. Alarming reports of the condition of the birds have been brought to Eugene by farmers. Not only are the birds almost starving, but in many instances that have been observed the long plumage of the male birds is so covered with ice that they can scarcely fly. China pheasants are hardy, but cannot withstand the unprecedented cold weather, coupled with inability to get food because of the deep snow. Charles E. Lockwood, an attorney who was sentenced to jail for contempt of court by County Judge Webster at Portland, was vindicated by Presiding Judge Gantenbein in the circuit court yesterday afternoon. The Journal Lockwood is said to have held a check for $200 belonging to the estate of Jerry Lynch against the order of the court. Judge Gantenbein held that the court records do not show Lockwood to be guilty of contempt and that an attorney is entitled to a lien on the property of his client as a fee. MEETING TO DISCUSS GAME PROTECTION

Eugene and Lane County Sportsmen Convene—Recommend Better Protection

A meeting of a number of Eugene and Lane county sportsmen was held last night at the Commercial Club rooms for the purpose of discussing the protection of game and fish. The meeting was presided over by B. L. Bogart and C. A. Hardy acted as secretary. After stating the object of the meeting Mr. Bogart introduced Forest Supervisor C. R. Setz, who explained the purpose of the government to create a game preserve out of the Cascade national forest. Mr. Setz explained that there was a mistaken idea about the matter. He said that it was not the purpose of the government to set aside the entire reserve, but only a portion of it for a game refuge. He stated that he had been directed by his superiors to investigate the matter and to make such recommendations as he thought best. Addresses were made by E. H. Cox, A. C. Dixon, Dr. L. L. Whitson.

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Never Suspect It.

How to Find Out. Fill a bottle or common glass with your water and let it stand twenty-four hours; a brick dust sediment, or settling, stringy or milky appearance often indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys; too frequent desire to pass it or pain in the back are also symptoms that tell you the kidneys and bladder are out of order and need attention.
