

Women's Secrets

There is one man in the United States who has perhaps heard more women's secrets than any other man or woman in the country. These secrets are not secrets of guilt or shame, but the secrets of suffering, and they have been confided to Dr. R. V. Pierce in the hope and expectation of advice and help. That few of these women have been disappointed in their expectations is proved by the fact that ninety-eight per cent. of all women treated by Dr. Pierce have been absolutely and altogether cured. Such a record would be remarkable if the cases treated were numbered by hundreds only. But when that record applies to the treatment of more than half-a-million women, in a practice of over 40 years, it is phenomenal, and entitles Dr. Pierce to the gratitude accorded him by women, as the first of specialists in the treatment of women's diseases.

Every sick woman may consult Dr. Pierce by letter, absolutely without charge. All replies are mailed, sealed in perfectly plain envelopes, without any printing or advertising whatever, upon them. Write without fear as usual, to World's Dispensary Medical Association, Dr. R. V. Pierce, Prost., Buffalo, N. Y.

VALLEY WILL HAVE TO USE IRRIGATION

Only Means Now to Raise Crops Up Willamette, Says A. McPherson

"The time has arrived when the people of the Willamette valley must look to irrigation as the only means to a proper cultivation of their land." This may sound like an attempt at joking to those who are familiar with the fact that an average of 44 inches of rain falls in the Willamette valley every year, yet it is a statement made in all seriousness by Alex McPherson, "the man who made Twin Falls," and concurred in by A. P. Stover, in charge of the irrigation work in Oregon for the government.

Mr. McPherson, who is in charge of the experiment stations for the Twin Falls Land & Water Company, and connected with irrigation enterprises in the Owyhee, Lost River and other semi-arid districts, yesterday concluded an investigation of conditions in the Willamette valley, made at the request of the government reclamation service in this state.

"When I received the invitation to come to the Willamette valley and investigate the needs for irrigation the proposition seemed so ridiculous to me that I laughed. I think, for nearly an hour," said Mr. McPherson yesterday.

"But since seeing the valley and studying the conditions there, I am convinced the matter is one of vast importance to the valley, to Portland, and to Oregon at large."

"For years wheat has been the standard crop in the valley. Wheat is a cereal that matures early in the season, and until the qualities of the soil necessary for profitable wheat growing become exhausted, there was no great need for irrigation. But the time has come when the attention of the farmers of the valley must be turned to diversified farming. An investigation of the character of the soil, the frost periods and other factors convinces me that the Willamette valley is capable of producing almost any kind of a crop. But when diversified crops are attempted, there must be water during the growing period for their successful production."

"It is a fact not generally known, and one I have just learned myself, that the rainfall in the Willamette valley during the growing period, or summer months, is less than that in the Twin Falls, Owyhee or Lost River countries, which are considered arid."

"I was surprised by the condition of the crops in the Willamette valley. They have a dried-out, burned-up appearance that speaks for half a crop. The farms of the far-famed Willamette valley today are not to be compared with the irrigated farms of Twin Falls. There every inch is under cultivation, and the green crops are running riot. Yet the Willamette valley has the soil, and all it needs is water during the crop-growing period."

"When one considers that irrigation in the Willamette valley will increase the productive power of the land from two to four times, increase the value of the land from two to four times, and make possible an increase in population from four to ten times the present population, then he will become convinced that irrigation is an urgent matter."

"In irrigating in this valley I would not be harsh on the men who have lived on and cultivated their farms for 40 years or more. They have done their work and done it well, but they should be induced to divide their 1000-acre holdings and dispose of them in small tracts to the younger generations, who will educate themselves in the necessities for irrigation and the growing of diversified crops. Thus will Western Oregon continue to grow and become more populous and more prosperous to the benefit of the whole state."

SISTERS SAWMILL AND YARDS BURN

Prineville, Or., July 22—A bad fire happened about 40 miles west of this place at Sisters, Or., on Saturday, when the sawmill and plant of Wilson Brothers, together with almost the entire stock of lumber in the yard, went up in smoke. The employees had just left the mill at noon to go to the bunkhouse, a short distance away, and in less than five minutes after the noon whistle had blown the alarm was given. The entire mill and yard were in flames almost before they could be reached by the workmen, and because of a strong wind that was blowing toward the lumber yard the men were able to save only a few thousand feet of lumber.

It is thought the fire started from the engine in some manner. There was no insurance on the plant and the loss will approximate $9000. The mill will be rebuilt at once on the company's holdings, and this time waterpower will be substituted for steam, lessening the fire risk.
