WHILE WORK CALLS
THE "WILLIES" DOZE
 Twenty-five Lay on the River
 Bank and Thought Not of the Morrow

A. Welch wants 200 men to work at Martin's Rapids. Several times that many are wanted on the Deschutes by contractors, and the farmers of the Middle West would like scores of thousands to harvest their crops. Yesterday twenty-five lone-some "Willies" were in Eugene without work, not wanting work, and not taking work.
 That many tramps, nearly all typical continental travelers and non-producers, lay under the willows and alders and nap below the wooden mill near the rapids and river. Strange though it may seem, all appeared to be under thirty years, many little more than boys.
 Evidently none had felt the fear of old age. Most of them appeared to belong to the types that are filled with the wanderlust, and so lose the desire for useful labor and honest lives.

HOW EUGENE LOOKS
FROM A BALLOON

How would Eugene look from a flying machine? is a question that will soon be answered the public by C. L. Honeyman, of San Francisco. For several weeks this operator has been taking pictures of Eugene from a kite, and stated today that he had complete views of every place but the University.
 The kite he uses to take his camera into the air is about 15x5. It is built on the box pattern, and while of considerable power is easily managed. The camera is snapped with a fuse.

PORTER BROTHERS
OUTWIT HARRIMAN
 Have Purchased Land Which Will Block His Progress

Grass Valley, Or., July 27.—Porter Brothers opened a war of strategy on Harriman's railroad construction forces yesterday, by cutting off the base of supplies for Twoby Brothers' camps at Horse Shoe Bend, in the canyon of the Deschutes. This was accomplished by Porter Brothers by the acquisition of the homestead of Fred Gurtz, across which runs the only road that leads to the brink of the canyon anywhere near the vicinity of the Horse Shoe camp.
 It is said that Porter Brothers paid $30,000 for the land by which they have shut off the entrance to the canyon by Twoby Brothers.
 At Horse Shoe Bend Twoby Brothers have begun to establish the biggest camp along the construction route, but to get there with the train-load of supplies now here the Harriman contractors will have to cross Porter Brothers' land, and Porter Brothers have put up signs warning trespassers to keep off their property. The Gurtz homestead is enclosed by a barbed wire fence and a wire gate is across the road at one boundary line and a wooden gate at the other.
 Both gates were padlocked today by Porter Brothers, who stationed a man at the wire gate, which is the one nearest town. This sentry is not openly armed, but the side pockets of his coat bulge suspiciously.
