A. C. Guthrie, Rev. A. F. Linn and J. C. Pitts left yesterday for an overland trip to Eastern Oregon, going over the Cascades via the McKenzie route.

The gas plant is manufacturing each day between 16,000 and 20,000 feet of fumes for the demand in Eugene. The plant works as well as when first installed.

The ladies of Santa Clara and the Irving band will give an ice cream social Saturday night in the grove of Rufus Robertson. Prices: Ice cream, 10c; coffee and cake, 25c. j30

The Guard acknowledges the receipt of a copy of the report of the 1908 state dairy convention, from Charles Abrams, secretary of the Oregon State Dairy Association. It is an interesting pamphlet.

S. Manerud, the contractor, says that the Hammond dredger, which is excavating the power canal for the city plant near Waltherville, is at work cutting the earth away as fast as five teams can unload.

The work of grading South Willamette street between Seventeenth and Twentieth, or properly speaking Beacon street, was begun this morning. This work was ordered by the council several months ago.

Ryan Blachley had the little finger and the one next to it on the left hand badly mashed in the planer at the Eugene Lumber Company's mill a couple of days ago. He will be incapacitated for work for a week or more.

E. W. Pollock is excavating for the foundation of his residence which he will build some day on the south slope of Skinner's butte. The foundation will be built now, but it is probable that the residence will not be put up until the fall or afterward.

The University Summer school will close August 6. Nearly 100 students have attended the University during its session, and the faculty is greatly encouraged at the prospect for years to come. Heretofore the attendance has been about one-third what it is now.

Much has been said about blind pigs, but if pigs had their say, would they be so blind as to let the water go to waste, or would they apply it to the land and revel in clover and alfalfa? Don't be blind, but attend the big irrigation meeting next Saturday at the Eugene theatre.

A small boy with a toy express wagon was run into by a team hitched to a buggy near the Bailey livery stable on Willamette street this forenoon. The boy was knocked down and it was thought he was quite badly hurt, but upon examination of his injuries it was found that he sustained only minor bruises.

E. E. Earhardt, manager of the Brownsville Woolen Mill store, will resign his position August 1, and take a good long vacation. After that he will again engage in some business yet to be chosen. "It will be in Eugene, though," the genial manager said. "I like this town and intend to stay here."

Farmers in some parts of the county have already begun to cut their grain. The spring wheat, however, is still green, and owing to July rain will probably be in very late. Reports from Portland indicate that the heads have been well filled in most sections, when the sheaves have been examined, and such a state is likely to exist in Lane county.

The scholarship at the University of Oregon, offered annually by the Oregon branch of the Association of College Alumnae to the young women of the state, has been awarded for 1909-1910 to Rachel E. Applegate. Miss Applegate has done her preparatory work at the Klamath county high school. This is the fourth year the scholarship has been given.

The work of building the Moss avenue extension of the street railway line is progressing reasonably fast. The rails have been laid for a distance of over two blocks and the grading has been completed further. Here's one on Albany, from the Democrat: A little boy just from Kansas City, after looking around First street (the main street) asked: "Where's the town?"

Oregon granite does not gather moss, takes a beautiful polish, and is especially appropriate for monuments on account of its hardness and durability. It is guaranteed by the factory, and highly recommended by those who have used it, among whom are many prominent people of the state. No agents. Order now for fall shipment and save money. Office 209-10 I. O. O. F. building. Phone Main 183. V. C. Brown, manager. tf

Many have asked why there is such a delay in receiving the fountain for the depot park. Mrs. McMurry, president of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Commercial Club, who was at the head of the movement to secure the fountain, said today that the Portland firm which has the contract to furnish the fountain is unnecessarily slow in sending it, and if there is much more of a delay it is probable that an order will be placed with some other firm.

Roseburg Review: A recent rumor in regard to train schedules is that the Ashland local is to be extended on through to Portland, passing through Roseburg about 12:30 each day. The Cottage Grove local is to be restored to its former morning schedule and the Roseburg morning local discontinued, its place being taken by the 12:30 train from Ashland. There is no official announcement of these reported changes and they may not be made.

Dr. Lowe, the optician, will be at the Hoffman tomorrow and next day. Take your eyes to him.
