NIGHT'S ILLUSIONS

At night you seek your downy bed, and ere you sink to sleep and dreams, that strange machine you call your head is full of weird and wondrous schemes; they seem too grand and great to all; they'll fill your treasury with dough; but morning shows them all at naught and staid—I often wonder why 'tis so. At eve you are a handsome soul, your future is the one good bet; you gaily quaff the flowing bowl, or dance the stately minuet; your joy's obtrusive and intense, but morning finds you full of woe; you'd sell yourself for twenty cents—I often wonder why 'tis so. At night you walk beneath the stars, and high ambitions fill your soul; you'll batter down opposing bars, and fight your way, and win the goal; but morning passes you the ice, your visions fade, your spirits low; you seek the long day shaking dice—I often wonder why 'tis so. At night you think of things sublime, and inspiration fills your heart; but morning finds you looking sick; you feel you haven't a show; you dig some bait and seek the creek—I often wonder why 'tis so.

NO GOOD ARGUMENT AGAINST IT

Did you ever hear a single good reason why the Eugene-Sierrita railroad should not be built? It will open up and develop a territory, rich in timber, fruit and dairy resources—means increased wealth and population for Lane county, dividends for the stockholders in the road. Could anything be asked? That we are able to build this railroad and own and operate it ourselves must be accepted without argument. It is not a hard matter to raise $150,000, and that sum will equip the first section of the road across the valley to timber district. This railroad will pay dividends and will be the sale of bonds for the completion of the road on to coast. It will make Eugene a jobbing and manufacturing because of its splendid transportation facilities and low rates, and we will have here, within a few years, an industry, second to none in the Northwest.

The district fair of the Second Southern Oregon District Agricultural Society promises to be an event which will attract a deal of attention. A year ago grounds were bought by the citizens, and work has been going on there continuously at now Eugene has a place for Lane county's fairs as good as any city in the valley. The new grounds will be first used for and exhibit purposes next month, the district fair taking place there from September 7th to 11th inclusive, five days in. The committee in charge of the advertising has just put up a series of handsome lithographs and the fair association is working in earnest to make the fair a grand success.

Serving notice on Cuba, not to do or to do, is getting to be a thing with our Department of State, which willy nilly has to act as nurse to the infant republic, and will probably sooner or later have to do a spanking stunt.

When it comes to the number of times rewritten, that correction tax is likely to have the bulge on any old law on the statute book, and at that the corporations are betting money on a flaw in it.

Most people had the idea that Bryan was not at the outside of the 5 feet 10, but Congressman Robinson insists that he stands head and shoulders above any other man in private life.

Let's hope the five Kentucky sisters who have just married their brothers will always be happy, and forget the convenience of family scraps offered by the unique combination.

This preacher man who talks of putting the Chicago University out of business by fighting it has another guess. It thrives on being fought, as well as keeps on the first page.

In some Eastern cities they are organizing "Damaknocker" clubs. This is mentioned merely as evidence that all good things do originate in this great and glorious West.

Former Governor Warfield, of Maryland, has the idea that officials should not control political machines. But, government how else could they hold on to their jobs?

This new coal oil butter may be quite as palatable as claim—but we have heard of no hotel advertising its use to attract patronage.

JIM FINCH MUST HANG SAYS COURT

Salem, Or., Aug. 11.—Having carefully examined every contention of counsel and every authority cited, the Supreme Court this morning overruled every point raised by counsel for the defendant, affirmed the decree of the trial court and sentenced the death knell of James A. Finch, convicted of the murder of Attorney Ralph B. Fisher and sentenced to suffer the death penalty. The opinion is written by Justice T. A. McBride and so thoroughly is every point covered that it would seem no ground for an appeal to the United States Supreme Court could possibly exist. The opinion is also unusual in that the Supreme Court says it could find no possible reason why a new trial should be granted.

TRY TO BURN OUT PREACHER-UNDERTAKER

Woodburn, Or., Aug. 10.—The undertaking establishment of Rev. J. C. Gregory caught fire yesterday morning and but for the vigorous efforts of the fire department would have been destroyed. The $2500 building was ruined and the stock of coffins and other merchandise badly damaged. The rear portion of the building was destroyed by fire and the front part was damaged to some extent by fire and water. In the middle room where the caskets were, a pile of kindlings was found burning. This was extinguished and a fuse strapped to a block was discovered. Close by was a bag containing a quarter of a pound of powder. In other parts of the building several feet of common blasting fuse, that had been used, were found. The rear of the building where the hearse was, evidently caught fire first.

The Rev. J. C. Gregory, who supplied the pulpit of the M. E. church here Sunday in place of the regular pastor, left yesterday morning to join his wife, who is visiting at Newburg, Or. He was communicated with by phone and returned this morning. He cannot explain the incendiary origin of the fire. There was a thousand dollars insurance on the building and another thousand on the hearse.

COUNCIL DRAWS WARRANT FOR THE MILLICAN LAND

The council this morning ordered the judgment for the right-of-way across the Millican land paid, and drew a warrant for $3500 on the general fund. The defense has until Saturday to file pleadings for a new trial. But the city, according to the understanding of the council, will be able to take possession of the Millican land immediately.

The verdict of the jury was returned a few minutes before 11 o'clock last night, after almost four hours of consideration. The jury is said to have allowed $1200 for the actual land, $1300 for fencing and bridges, and the remainder for damages. As Millican and his attorneys are dissatisfied with the result his attorneys asked time last night to file pleadings for a new trial, when the jury had reported on its verdict.

The general opinion also prevails that Millican will carry the case higher, for the attorneys in the conduct of the case definitely planned to make ground for the appeal yesterday.

The city council and its attorneys do not anticipate that an appeal will effect the progress of the canal. At the council meeting this morning the desire was expressed to take possession of the Millican land this week and begin excavation. Once the city gets possession of the right-of-way and digs its canal the city attorneys say that it will be almost impossible to oust the city.

WHAT CAN DE NEFFE DO?
Will Clever Man Be Able to Beat the Eugene Team Next Sunday?

If the Colts succeed in defeating the all-star bunch of Portland next Sunday, with Fred DeNeffe in the box, they can no doubt be classed as one of the fastest semi-professional ball teams on the coast. But, can they defeat that fast, clever bunch? Such men as Cass Campbell, Don McClellan and Dick Hathaway, who have played before the Eugene fans time after time, are in a class by themselves when it comes to infield ball playing. Stump Stott, the catcher, was Stanford's pioneer backstop for four years, and has played the last two seasons with the Multnomah Club, having caught DeNeffe in every game he has thrown in that time. Every one in Eugene knows of Fred DeNeffe's pitching ability. He will surely get a hearty welcome from the Eugene fans next Sunday.

The locals will pitch either Wager or Baker, with Lemley or C. Wager behind the bat. Paine will play first, Driver second, Hobbs third, Jewett shortstop and Smith, Coleman and Meade in the outfield.

BERG AND OLSON MATCHED

Will Go At Seattle for Light Heavyweight Championship

John Berg and Charley Olson have been matched to wrestle for the light heavyweight championship of the United States at the arena in Seattle on Friday night, according to a Seattle dispatch. In speaking of the coming match the Seattle press says:

"A real championship wrestling match is on at the Arena next Friday night. Charles Olson, the undisputed champion of the light heavyweight division, and John Berg, will contest for the title. The match is at the real light heavyweight limit, 165 pounds, give or take three pounds.
