Portland, Aug. 24.—Superintendent Dow Walker, of the Multnomah Athletic Club, announced that plans are already being made for the opening of the amateur boxing and wrestling season in Portland. A meeting will be held shortly with Superintendent Ingila, of the Seattle Club, and Manager Blomberg, of the Spokane Athletic Club, when the usual dual meet and the annual triangular meet will be arranged. Mr. Walker announced that he is now corresponding with persons in California relative to engaging a competent boxing instructor. He said that the three men under consideration for this position are all such as to assure the club a competent man to bring out the talent.
 Eddie O'Connell will again have charge of the wrestling at the club. O'Connell has demonstrated his ability and has good material with which to start the season. Edgar Frank, chairman of the committee on wrestling, has charge of the matter of employing a new wrestling instructor.

 DeNeffe Will Try His Team Once More Against Colts

Next Sunday the local fans will again have a chance to see Fred DeNeffe and his all-stars from Portland hook up with the Colts on the local diamond. Two weeks ago on the largest crowd that has attended a ball game in Eugene this season saw the Colts take the All-Stars into camp by a 4-to-1 score. Baker, the local twirler, outpitching the doughty DeNeffe. This week the All-Stars are coming with blood in their eyes and are determined to wipe out the sting of defeat. They will be strengthened by "Stump" Stott catching and Joe Campbell playing first. The locals will play their same line-up with Baker and Lemley constituting the battery. The game will begin at 2:30. Excellent car service.

HOW SIGNALS ARE STOLEN
 Old Philadelphia Club Resorted to Many Tricks

"The lengths to which clubs will go to secure the signals of the opposing teams is astonishing to those not familiar with the game," says Hugh S. Fullerton in the American Magazine. He continues:
 "To catch a signal legitimately, by observation, by quick thinking, is a part of the sport. Marshall, of Brooklyn, Kane, of Chicago, Doolin, of Philadelphia, are past masters in the art of seeing what the opposing batsmen are trying to do before the effort is made. Efforts have been made in the past to steal signals by the means of brazen trickery and unscrupulous methods.
 "Perhaps the worst case of this sort ever revealed was that of an old Philadelphia club of the National League. Here was the greatest aggregation of batters ever assembled on one team, but not satisfied with their natural ability, they wanted to know in advance what kind of a ball the pitcher was going to serve so as to increase their hitting. One of the cleverest men at interpreting signals who ever played in a baseball game formulated the plan. Stationing a confederate in the clubhouse in rear of the field, he had him armed with a powerful pair of field glasses with which to watch the hands of the catchers. At first the confederates signalled the batters by raising one arm for a fast ball, the other for a curve, then when the opponents grew suspicious, he worked from behind a blind and gave the signal by raising or lowering an awning. If the awning was raised a few inches and held in that position a fast ball was coming, and if it was raised and then dropped a curve was coming.
 "The awning worked well until it was discovered, and then the catcher and his associates invented something new in baseball. They put electric wires underground connecting the clubhouse with the catcher's box and buried a small wooden box under the ground. A certain noisy, obstreperous player was stationed at third with one foot on the box containing the buzzer, and as the signal was sounded the player stationed under the buzzer could feel the tapping under his foot, and by calling in a secret word code he warned the batter what the pitcher was going to pitch.
 "Not a regular player on the Philadelphia team batted under 300 per cent while the buzzer was in operation, and several of their pitchers and catchers were among the leading batters of the National League.
 "Not satisfied with having that much advantage on the home ground, the man who had planned the thing followed his teams around the country, renting windows around and looking the grounds in each city, and wiring-wagging signals to the batters. He was caught at Brooklyn by some of the Brooklyn players and trounced and after that the method of spying gradually was abandoned."

CHURCH BASEBALL LEAGUE
 Will Be Formed at a Meeting to Be Held This Evening

At a meeting to be held this evening at 8 o'clock at the Red Cross Drug Store, the baseball nines of the various churches of the city will be organized under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. into a league to control the series of inter-church games.
 Some good games have already been played, and the large number of enthusiastic ball-throwers out practicing on Kincaid field last night is evidence that the best is yet to come. Tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock nines representing the Presbyterian and Christian churches will cross bats at Kincaid field, and 4 p. m. Friday is the time set for a rousing, old-time game between the Baptists and the Christians. Most people enjoy a game full of uncertainty and excitement better than an errorless game with only two runs in nine innings. If you want to see real fun with something doing every minute, don't miss the opportunity of seeing some of the well-known business and professional men of the city renew their youth and show people how baseball used to be played ten or fifteen years ago. The first of the two games to be played this week will not cost you a cent, but for the second you may not get off quite so easy, since it is whispered that a small admission will be charged and the proceeds donated to the Y. M. C. A.
