PORTLAND MARKET REPORT.

Portland, Oct., 21.—It was an off day in the wheat market. Eastern and foreign news was bearish and the lacal traders were inclined to take a gloomy view of the situation. The cargo report came through dull with buyers reserved and Walla Walla for shipment quoted 3d lower at 39s. Options at Liverpool and Chicago declined. Bluestem, in the local market, was quoted firm up to $1.02 but other varities were off a cent.

Farmers continue to hold oats firmly, but there was an easier feeling in the local market with no bids made over $28. Barley was quite and steady.

The hay market shows a very firm front, particularly on alfalfa. The country is well sold up on hay and the demand is exceedingly good, both here and in the interior. The have been buying heavily.

Waiting Hop Market

The hop market was very dull yesterday, but conditions are such now that a quiet spell has no effect on its strength. In other years a pause in the trading would bring out liberal offering, but this year holders see no cause for uneasiness in a subsidence of the demand. No new sales were reported yesterday but the Seavy Hop Company took in several small lots at Aurora, aggregating over 100 bales.

A wire from Chico Cal., states that the Valentine Brewing Company, of Newark, N. J., has purchased the entire product of the American Hop & Barley Co.'s hopfields at Nord, near Chico. Immediate shipment of the product was asked. The price was not made public. The brewing company caters largely to New York City trade.

London cables yesterday reported a quite but firm market. A cable from Gosslin-Gay, of Stamburges, to Issac Pincus & Sons, read: "County almost sold out. Remaining growers hold for higher prices. Think market will go higher."

The official figures of the Bavarian crop are at hand and shows a yield of 89,245 cwt. on 18,634 electares compared with 284,510 cwt. on 22,592 lectares in 1908 and 271,564 cwt. on 24,561 lectares in 1907.

Clean Up Woodburn Hops

So liberal have been the sales of hops in the Woodburn district that few lots remain unsold in the hands of growers at this time. So says Ed Herren, the buyer at that place. "Picking is pretty scarce in the Woodburn district at this time," says Mr. Herren to the Journal. "The few lots remaining there are being sold for higher prices."

Hop market in general is rather quiet locality, although several sales have recently been made here to the east on the basis of 26c to growers of choice goods.

Rogue River Apples Coming

Apple receipts for the day included a shipment of Rogue River Kings and Twenty-ounce Pippins, which were put on the market at $1.75 a box. But for the fact that they were a little short on color they would have brought a better price, according to dealers. There were also fair receipts from other quarters, Hood River included, the best generally being quoted at $1.50 to $1.75, but trade on the while was rather slow.

Pears were plentiful, several varieties from Southern Oregon and other parts of the state being in evidence, the best hold at $1.25 to $1.50. Only strictly fancy fruit moved at the latter figure. Common pears were to be had at $1 a box.

The market was fairly well supplied with grapes from the South, but there was not the excess of a week or two ago. Best Tokay Malagas and Madscats held at $1.10 to $1.25 and clusters at $1. Local Concords were less plentiful on account of the rain and moderately firm at 12½ cents a basket.

Turkeys in Better Demand

Poulty dealers today reported turkeys a trifle more active than a week ago, with quotations 1 to 2 cents above Saturdays's range. Geese were slow while ducks moved in a fairly satisfactorily way at the last prices. So far as hens and chickens were concerned there were no developments, and the course of the market the next few days will depend upon the movement from the country.

Fresh local eggs were in strong demand, and most dealers quoted 33 to 34 cents, as high as 35 cents being asked in some quarters for the best. The supply was meager. Eastern eggs are a large factor in the local trade now selling generality at 29 to 32 cents. One Front-street dealer reported a car of Easterns in today.

Coarse Veal is Rather Slow.

While prime veal moved rapidly in the Front-street market at 1 to 10c cents a pound, the demand for stock that could not grade up to standard was anything but strong, and dealers say that too much of this sort of stuff is coming for the good of the livemarket.

Dressed pork was fairly active, the best going at 9 to 9½ cents, and the demand was efficent to take the bulk of the stuff brought in.

Boston Wool Market.

Boston, Oct. 20.—Transfers in the local wool market continue of fair size, although the demand is said to be almost entirely for small mills. Shipments, however, are very heavy, as manufacturers report steadily increasing demand for goods. There has been no material change in prices, the undertone remaining very firm. Further sales of Montana clips in original bags have been made at 27½ to 28 cents. Fine territorial staple is quoted at 80 cents and fine clothing at 70 to 72 cents.

PORTLAND LIVESTOCK MARKET.

Portland, Or., Oct. 20.—Higher prices are shown in the hog market at Stockdale. Killers are paying 15c more for supplies than last week, even though they are claiming that supplies are worth less money because of the recent decline in the East. The truth of the matter is that local killers have not been encouraging Northwest hog raisers as they should, and instead of paying liberal values here have been sending east for the bulk of their goods. Supplies were wanting until they began to come, and there was no demand at all. It was but a repetition of what had been done in former years by the big people whose interests was to help the hog industry by paying up-to-date values, but instead killed the industry by forcing values under those which they were forced to pay for Eastern shipments.

Eight dollars was paid for heavy hogs in the yards during the last 24 hours, even though the run was quite fair. Total supply of swine of the day was 388 head, compared with 231 Monday, 86 Saturday, none Friday, 94 Thursday and 673 last Wednesday. A week ago swine receipts were 257 head.

Good Cattle Bring More.

While those who brought in a number of loads of good cattle were unwilling to allow the general public to know that the market was higher, it leaked out that $4.75 was paid for 44 steers averaging 1410 pounds during the past 24 hours. The parties who brought in these "toppers" were likewise interested in the commission trade, but did not believe it was the business of the livestock growers to know what price was in effect. However the majority of the commission trade gives the true price to shippers through The Journal at all times, and when one small dealer balks at publicity it does not hurt general conditions here.

There was quite a liberal run of cattle in the yards during the past 24 hours, a total supply of 490 head being received. This compares with 617 head Monday, 79 Saturday, 155 Friday, 200 Thursday and 349 last Wednesday. A week ago today cattle arrivals at Stockdale were 242 head.

The following is the general range of livestock values in the yards:

Cattle—Best steers, weighing 1200 pounds, $4.50@$4.75; medium steers, $4.25; best cows, $3.50; medium cows, $3.25@$3.35; best heifers, $3.50; bulls, $1.75@$2.25.
