GLEE CLUB MAY BE SHUT OUT OF HEILIG CIRCUIT

Concert Will Be Given in Villard Hall and Independent Circuit Secured for Southern Trip

The trouble between Manager Smith of the Eugene theatre and the U. of O. students have developed into a live controversy and the Oregon Emerald, the organ of the U. of O. student body, gives the following version of it:

"Trust methods of doing business, such as threats of blackmail, boycott, and retaliation, have brought on a serious clash between the Eugene Theatre and the University of Oregon Glee Club. If Manager Smith of the theatre is able to make good his threat, the local concert will be given in Villard Hall, the Shubert house will be used in Portland, and various auditoriums, high schools and armories will be called into requisition on the trip through Southern Oregon.

"Though much ill feeling has always resulted from the poor support Manager Smith gives to the University activities, no serious clash appeared until this year when he raised what were already considered outrageous prices for the annual concert. Last year he made almost $200 clear profit and a similar amount on the senior play. When it is considered that he gives no advertising to the student publications, and that his largest patronage is from University students, such profits seem out of reason, and Arthur Geary, manager of the Glee Club, has absolutely refused to consider any further advance. He made a definite offer of $100 which Smith refused to accept.

"Because of a poor financial outlook for the club this year, Geary had been planning all the time to give the local concert in Villard hall. Accordingly he made no arrangement with the theatre. Hearing of his intentions, however, Smith went to him and threatened to close every house in the valley to him if he did not take the Eugene Theatre at his price. Geary refused and the war is on.

"The two managers defiantly closed all negotiations this morning. Smith showed Geary a letter he had already written to John Cort, manager of the Northwest Theatrical Circuit, which practically shuts the club out of all their houses. Geary replied that he would use the Chautauqua building in Astoria, the high school auditorium in Medford and the armory in Roseburg.

"Mr. Smith," said he, rising to leave, "I have not resorted to the low methods of blackmail and boycott you have used, but I believe if I appeal to the students, your theatre will have few full houses hereafter." The student body is backing the Glee club and an effort will be made to get all friends of the University to withdraw their patronage from the shows this year."
