SENATOR ALDRICH'S NEW YORK SPEECH AWAITED WITH INTEREST

Guard Special Service.
New York, Nov. 13.—United States Senator Nelson W. Aldrich, of Rhode Island, who has been lately engaged in attempting to convince the westerners of the merits of his panacea for financial ills, will see the heckling of his life when he appears before the New York chamber of commerce next Thursday night. Not that the commercial interests of the metropolis have any great dislike for the distinguished Senator from "Little Rhody." Far from it. They love him as a man and a brother, but they have some pet ideas of their own which they desire to bring to the attention of the chairman of the National Monetary Commission.

When Mr. Aldrich arises to address the members of the Chamber of Commerce, he will almost certainly be asked to explain what he and his commission think of the Chamber's "plan," submitted by its special emergency committee three years ago and approved by it. That plan proposed, first, the creation of a central bank of issue—something like the old Bank of the United States—based on the system of the Bank of Germany or the Bank of France; such bank to deal exclusively with banks; its stocks to be owned in part by banking institutions and in part by the government; but in its management representatives of the government to be supreme; this central bank to issue currency, redemptible for other banks, hold public money and act as agent of the government in redeeming its paper money and making its disbursements.

As an alternative to this the chamber's plan proposed that additional powers of note issue be granted to national banks whose bond-secured circulation amounts to at least 50 per cent of their total capital; these credit notes to pay a graduated tax ranging from 2 per cent to 6 per cent; the proceeds of this graduated tax to constitute a guaranty fund, in the custody of the government, for the redemption of the notes of failed banks; redemption agencies to be established in order to insure the prompt retirement of these credit notes when no longer needed; all the notes to be alike in form; the law restricting the retirement of national bank notes to $3,000,000 per month by the deposit of lawful money to be repealed; future issues of United States not to be made available as a basis for the issue of national bank notes; the laws regulating the operations of the United States Treasury to be amended in such a manner that they shall not, as now, interfere with the money market; and a law to be enacted requiring that all money in the general fund of the treasury above a reasonable working balance be deposited in national banks.

Some of the features of this alternative plan—in modified form—have since been incorporated in the present "emergency-currency" law, an enactment that has not set the national banks to tumbling over each other in order to get a line for taking advantage of its "emergency" provisions.

McClellan and Gaynor.
Judge Gaynor, Mayor-elect of New York, is not to have the honor of presiding at the laying of the cornerstone of the new municipal building. Not if Mayor George B. McClellan can prevent it—and he thinks he can. The present executive of the city has an ambition to have his own corner-stone read by future generations of the enduring cornerstone of the handsome edifice.

Throughout the last McClellan administration the project of erecting a building at the Manhattan terminal of the Brooklyn Bridge, where most of the city offices may be installed and the city saved a vast sum in rents, woefully lagged. For almost two years the public has been made to suffer because of the dilatory manner in which this great improvement has been managed.

For this reason an enormous amount of work must still be done if the laying of the corner stone by Mayor McClellan will not appear ludicrously premature. The extra expense of rushing the jobs so that he may spread the official mortar will in itself amount to a considerable figure. Furthermore, as the Mayor also is said to desire an imposing ceremony, the cost of this eleventh hour spectacle is likely to reach a total of $50,000.

The Astor Scandal.
No scandal in high life ever attracted so much attention in New York as that in which John Jacob Astor and his beautiful wife are in-involved. The public airing of the domestic differences of the Astors came as a complete surprise, except to the intimate with the estranged couple, who had long expected the final break in their relations.

The greatest sympathy is expressed in social circles for the children of the warring couple, William Vincent Astor, the son, who will be eighteen years of age day after tomorrow and has just entered Harvard, is said to feel keenly the strain which has attached to the family name. The daughter, Ava Alke Muriel, is only seven, and is too young to be deeply affected by family troubles, the injury of a favorite doll being far greater moment in her infantile mind.

Mrs. John Jacob Astor was the daughter of Edward Shippen Willing of a moderately well-to-do but very old and proud Quaker family. The wedding was not ostentatious; the only expensive feature being a special train carrying a few invited guests from New York. Otherwise the ceremony was as modest and inexpensive as a thousand others among people of very ordinary station in life. There would have been a good excuse for magnificent or lavish display because it united the head of one of the richest families in America with one of the proudest and most beautiful women in this country. It is said that even on the day of days, when for once in her life no matter what her station, a woman is queen of the whole world and should be the happiest, the bride betrayed little joy. It was whispered then not that she loved anyone else but that she was simply rather indifferent to the man to whom she was being married.

A clergyman writes: "Preventives, those little Candy Cold Cure tablets, are working wonders in my parish." Preventives surely will check a cold, or the grippe, in a few hours. And preventives are so safe and harmless. No quinine, nothing harsh nor sickening. Fine for feverish restless children. Box of 48 at 25c. Sold by all druggists.

Mrs. L. E. Abbott, 845 Pearl St., Eugene, Ore., says: "Last winter I was taken down with a bad spell of kidney complaint and my back became so weak and lame that I could hardly move. I took various remedies but did not derive any benefits. Finally Doan's Kidney Pills were recommended to me by a friend and my husband procured a box at De Lano's drug store. They proved to be all and more than is claimed for them. I used them, the pains and weakness left me and my kidneys were strengthened. I consider Doan's Kidney Pills the best remedy of its kind on the market."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

The steamboat Pomona, of the Oregon City Transportation Company, made its first trip of the season Saturday, going as far as Corvallis. The recent rains have raised the river so that navigation is an easy matter over the sandbars between Salem and Albany.

George Nestling, marker for Company H, Oregon National Guard, of Dallas, was shot in the leg Saturday afternoon by Private Tom Magers. The accident occurred at the rifle range near town. Nestling was rushed at once to the Dallas Hospital, where it was found that his wound, while serious, was not fatal.

The bid of A. Welch for lighting at Forest Grove has been accepted. It is 5 cents per kilowatt for the first year, 4 1/2 the second, 4 the third and 3 cents the remaining seven years. E. W. Haines' bid of 3 cents for ten years was rejected. There were four other bidders. Haines had been lighting the city, but it is declared he had not been giving satisfaction.

Earl Kilpatrick, principal of the Union High school at Pleasant Hill, was an arrival on the afternoon train today.

ASK FUNDS FOR OREGON RIVERS

Washington, Nov. 12.—General Marshall, Chief of Engineers, in his annual report made public today, recommends that the following appropriations be made next session for river and harbor work in the Northwest:

Continuing the construction of the jetty at the mouth of the Columbia river, $1,560,000.
Cello Canal, $1,000,000 and $1,000,000 annually until completed.
Willamette and Columbia rivers, Portland, $60,000.
Columbia river from Cello to the mouth of Snake river, $90,000.
Canal at Cascades, $105,000.
Columbia river between Vancouver and Willamette river, $15,000.
Snake river, $15,000.
Tillamook bay, $10,000.
Coos River, $3000.
Cowlitz and Lewis rivers, $7500.
Grays River, $3,000.

CHARLES P. GRANDFIELD.
The important and responsible position of first assistant postmaster general is held by Dr. Charles P. Grandfield, who has charge of the appointment of postmasters, the establishment, discontinuance and change of name of postoffices, etc., salaries and allowances and city delivery. Dr. Grandfield studied medicine while working in the department at Washington. He has risen to his present position from a clerkship.

Grays river, Washington, $500.
Columbia river, from Wenatchee to Bridgeport, $25,000.

WHEN HER BACK ACHES.
A Woman Finds All Her Energy and Ambition Slipping Away.

Eugene women know how the aches and pains that come when the kidneys fail make life a burden. Backache, hip pains, headaches, dizzy spells, distressing urinary troubles—all tell of sick kidneys and warn you of the stealthy approach of diabetes, dropsy and Bright's disease. Doan's Kidney Pills permanently cure all of these disorders. Here's proof of it in a Eugene woman's words:

Mrs. L. E. Abbott, 845 Pearl St., Eugene, Ore., says: "Last winter I was taken down with a bad spell of kidney complaint and my back became so weak and lame that I could hardly move. ## OPTICAL TALK NO. 4

The eye is a delicate organ, closely connected with the brain—some of the muscles which control this delicate organ may be weak or overworked. This causes nervous trouble and will, if not corrected, break down the entire system.

One may have good vision, but it may be obtained by a strain on the nervous system. A good optometrist, with suitable apparatus, can measure the strain on the nerves and show you if you can obtain relief.

We have the latest and best instruments for examination of the eye and measuring errors of refraction. If you come to us we will give you careful examination, and if glasses will not aid you we will frankly tell you so. CONSULTATION FREE.
