THE MEAT BOYCOTT

O butcher, spare that steer! Touch not a single horn! We've sworn for half a year to live on beans and corn; to live on oatmeal cake, and prunes and succotash; no more for us the steak, no more the corned beef hash! O butcher, if you've tears, prepare to shed them now. We look upon your steers, we contemplate your cow; for stews and roasts we yearn, the grub of yesterday, and then in anguish turn, and eat a bale of hay. This life seems gray and drear, as some December dawn; the cabbage wagon's here, and we must all climb on. O butcher, spare that mule—thy weapon be accurst! We're making it a rule to eat no wienersurst; no food our lips shall pass, that's gained by shedding blood; by day we live on grass, by night we chew the cud. We dietary wrecks eat grass, upon our knees, while taller rubbernecks bite branches from the trees. So, butcher, spare that crow that fell into your snare; spring chicken does not go upon our bill of fare. We long for good lean meat, but longing will not wash; for us the gaudy beet, for us the pallid squash.

Lane county reports 10,489 children of school age, the net gain over last year being 696, which is only exceeded by Multnomah, with a gain of 896. Marion increased 497, and Linn 487, while Wasco, Wheeler, Crook, Douglas, Gilliam, Grant, Josephine, Morrow and Sherman counties showed a decrease. These figures indicate that Lane county is the fastest-growing section of all Oregon.

Mrs. Roosevelt and her daughter, Ethel, have sailed for Egypt. No pyramids or mummies for them; they're going to get the colonel. And we imagine there'll be some gobs of good old homely joy when the long-separated family is reunited.

The Dakotas, Minnesota and Montana are having another blizzard. The blizzard crop is reported to be the best in several years up in that neck of the woods, and there is no reason in the world for anybody who likes snowballs starving to death.

JOHN HOLGER IN

JUSTICE COURT

John Holger was arrested Wednesday and taken before Justice Severy on a charge of shooting at Paul Barnhardt, Earl Leppert and Raymond Mitchell with intent to kill. Holger pleaded not guilty.

The testimony of Paul Barnhardt, Earl Leppert and Raymond Mitchell was taken, and the defendant testified in his own behalf. He admitted firing two shots, but said he was not shooting at any one.

After hearing the evidence the justice said that he did not find anything leading him to think Holger intended to shoot anybody, and he ordered the prisoner discharged.—Florence West.

THREE GOOD SERMONS SUNDAY BY DR. OLIVER

The Shadow Life, the Whiskey Devil and the Nature of Hell His Subjects

There were three large meetings at the tabernacle yesterday. In the morning Dr. Oliver talked on "The Shadow Life." In the afternoon he delivered his address to men on "The Whiskey Devil," and in the evening his subject was "The Nature of Hell." In all of these addresses Dr. Oliver was at his best, and at the conclusion of each service many declared themselves for Christ.

This evening the subject will be "Noah's Ark," which Dr. Oliver says is one of his strongest sermons.

In the course of his sermon yesterday morning on "The Shadow Life," Dr. Oliver spoke in substance as follows: "Everything combining solid substance casts a shadow when its relation to the sun is right. At a glimpse you can determine the substance by the shadow. You instantly recognize a horse, a house, a man, a tree, by the shadow cast. This is a physical truth. In the moral sense and in the spiritual sense there is such a thing as the shadow life, and a man is known—yes, his value to society is determined, by the shadow life. I mean, in simple language, his influence. Write your name on a card and drop it on any street in your town, and the man who picks it up, if he knows you, knows what that name stands for. I am in this address urging upon you the importance of concentrating all the faculties of your ransomed powers into strong, stalwart manhood and womanhood, which can stand for God and the right with the stability of Gibraltar, defying every wave or tempest.

"Some years ago, when I was in France, in one of the great palaces, I saw the table upon which Napoleon Bonaparte signed his abdication, compelled by the powers to release the reigns of government, and the proud and haughty emperor, in a storm of rage, drove an instrument into the surface of the table. It was not much more than a scratch, but somebody came along and put his finger on that scratch and went back to his home and said: 'I put my finger on the spot made by Napoleon when he signed his abdication.' Then ten thousand others followed and put their fingers on the same spot, and then hundreds of thousands of others followed the same inquisitive procession and put their fingers upon that spot. Today the table is placed back beyond the reach of the curious throng and the sign reads: 'Do not touch the table.' The spot originally made by Napoleon has been enlarged by the finger-touch until I could bury the end of my index finger in that hole. I am illustrating a great fact: there are any amount of people in the world who would be glad to help you perpetuate your mark. If you make a bad move, a bad mark, a bad record, the world will know it, generations following you will know it. If you make a mark for God and righteousness the people likewise will know it.

"If I should engage in a lengthy presentation of shadowgraphs of the great men of the world, I think you would be inspired to emulate their noble examples. The patience and prayerfulness of Abraham Lincoln; the purity and unselfishness of Frances E. Willard; the fidelity and zeal of D. L. Moody; the loyalty of Abraham the father of the faithful.

"Some years ago, in London, a great building was the scene of an important event. Members of the aristocracy crowded to the side of a coffin which contained the body of one of God's noblest women. Finally the great doors were opened and the multitudes crowded in by thousands. Among the number there came a poor woman carrying her babe and leading a larger child. She finally reached the coffin and, bending over, she put the little child on the floor and told the larger one to take care of it. When she bent over the coffin to look upon the cold face, the little shadow fell back around her shoulders and the tears fell upon the glass which was above the face. A guard, noticing that she was stopping the multitude, sprang forward, touched her on the shoulder and told her to move on. 'Please, sir, don't make me move on; she saved my two boys from a drunkard's hell, and I have a right to look and to weep.' The guard stepped back and held the multitude while the woman wept.

"I would rather have some one step by my coffin-side and say: 'He led me to Jesus,' or 'he led my husband or my child to Jesus, and pay honest tribute to my faithfulness as a Christian man, than to have a monument of gold studded with diamonds that would pierce the sky.'

THE DOCTOR'S QUESTION.

Some Advice Against the Use of Harsh Purgatives and Physic.

A doctor's first question when consulted by a patient is, "Are your bowels regular?" He knows that 95 per cent of illness is attended with inactive bowels and torpid liver. This condition poisons the system with waste matter and causes an accumulation of gases which must be removed through the bowels before health can be restored.

Salts, ordinary pills and cathartics may be truly likened to dynamite. Through their harsh, irritating action they force a passage through the bowels, causing pain and damage to the delicate intestinal structure which weakens the whole system, and at best only produces temporary relief. The repeated use of such treatments causes chronic irritation of the stomach and bowels, dries and hardens their tissues, deadens their nerves, stiffens their muscles and generally brings about an injurious habit which sometimes has almost, if not fatal results.

I have a pleasant and safe remedy for constipation and bowel disorders in general. We are so certain of its great curative value that we promise to return the purchaser's money in every case where it fails to produce entire satisfaction. This remedy is called Rexall Orderlies. We urge you to try them at our entire risk.

Rexall Orderlies are eaten like candy, they act quietly and have a soothing, strengthening influence on the entire intestinal tract. They do not purge, gripe, cause nausea, flatulence, excessive looseness, diarrhoea or other annoying effects, and they may be taken at any time without inconvenience.
