

Determined Candidates Enter On Final Week

SUBSCRIPTION BALLOTS WILL GINCH THE VICTORY FOR YOU— IF YOUR FRIENDS HAVE PROMISED A SUBSCRIPTION, SEE THEM AT ONCE; SOMETIMES THEY FORGET AND YOU LOSE THE VOTES.

SAME VOTES FOR OLD SUBSCRIBERS AS NEW THIS WEEK

Contest Will Close Saturday Evening, at 11 p. m. Sharp—Inter- est Intense Both in Eugene and Surrounding Territory— Who Will Win the Ford?

But one more week remains in the Daily Guard voting contest. Next Saturday night the winners will be decided. Be one of them. As the last coupon has been printed in the paper all candidates must depend entirely upon subscription ballots for the remaining week of the contest.

The wise ones are well fortified with special subscription ballots or the subscriptions with which to obtain them. There is but little work connected with getting subscriptions to The Daily Guard, and what is accomplished this week will win or lose the grand prizes. Many a race is won by a "neck," and it is not well for any candidate to feel that she should relax her efforts till the very close of the contest. The last special ballot sent in may be the "winning card." The last standing of the candidates will be published in Tuesday afternoon's paper. Positively no questions will be answered relative to the standing of the contestants.

Tonight at 8 o'clock the votes of the different contestants will be counted for the last time until the final count, which will take place after the contest closes. This is done so no one will have any idea how much reserve the different contestants have, and also because the contest department must devote all their time to waiting on candidates and others desiring to secure votes.

Candidates who are holding back subscriptions should bring them in now without fail. Subscriptions will never count for more.

During the next few days it will depend largely upon the efforts of each candidate as to who will win and who will not win. Don't let this chance slip by you. Your competitors will not, you may rest assured. Unless you secure every available subscription during the remaining days of the contest you may be defeated by a very small margin.

Special Notice
On account of the uncertainty of mail reaching contestants in time to be returned for the final count, the contest department will acknowledge by letter all remittances received from contestants after Wednesday but the votes will be deposited in the ballot box for the final count instead of returning them, as we have done thus far. This only applies to subscriptions sent in by mail.

Read the advertisement which appears on this page for full announcement of the affair. The scale upon which the votes will be issued on all subscriptions is outlined in the advertisement. Read it over carefully.

The Last Offer
This is positively the last offer or change in the voting schedule that will be made during the contest. The voting schedule as it appears in the paper today is just as it will be for the rest of the contest. Subscriptions will never be worth more than they are today. Bring in your ballots to which you are entitled, and avoid the hurry and rush of the closing days.

Bargain Period of Contest
This will truly be the last week of the great Guard contest. By a little extra effort enough votes may be secured to build up an impregnable reserve. Many candidates have given us the assurance that they are going to work the next five days and work hard. Do not let your competitor get the subscriptions in your locality peddled before you awake to the proposition.

More votes will be issued this week undoubtedly than in all the previous weeks put together. And why not? This is the last chance, which is always the best inducement, and those who do not take advantage of it can readily see that they will lose the opportunity of the race.

This is your last chance, and candidates should take advantage of this the last week. Votes issued on old subscriptions will be the same as new this, the final week. This is your last chance to catch the leaders.

One Week Left
Bear in mind that the contest has not closed, nor will it close until the hour and the minute and the second boomed over a sleeping world your chance of making up a lack of votes will be brought to a termination, but till that time every young lady has an equal opportunity.

The computation as to what would happen is interesting from any viewpoint. First, it shows that practically very little has been done by some of the candidates and none of them has a sufficient number of votes so that they can rest upon their laurels with perfect confidence. A little co-operation, a little effort, a few hours spent in actual canvassing for votes, will suffice to change the whole aspect of the contest. For example, had the contest closed one of the grand prizes, a $400 Kimball piano, would have gone to the leading candidate in either district for less than $60 in payments on subscriptions, and it is preposterous for any candidate to fondly hope that such a bounty will fall to the lot of even the most lucky individual in the whole broad land, for some one will be laying a plan of action, and the first thing such candidates know their lead will be overcome, their friends marshalled into another camp and they will be stranded.

This is the time for action, for thought and for endeavor of many kinds. The popular voting contest of the Daily Guard is not a "lucky" contest, nor one in which any candidate can win without votes. The most popular contestant in the whole contest would be defeated if no attention were given to the matter of securing votes.

There is an inherent tendency in every man and woman to make a strong finish. No matter what is started, every one desires to make a good ending and the more flourish that can be lent to any contest, be it a race, a campaign for public office or a quest for a splendid prize like those offered to the young ladies of this territory by The Daily Guard voting contest, it makes no difference—all who are taking part want to finish strong.

An analysis of the voting and the positions of the candidates as shown by the published list standing below, shows that some half-raising finishes may be expected. Time and time again have those who were seemingly distanced forged to the front and in not a few cases have taken a decided lead.

Town Pitted Against Town
While the contest is so arranged that each district will win five prizes, one district does not work against another, with the exception of the capital prize, the town in each district that turns in the largest number of votes for its favorite will have the satisfaction of seeing a higher-priced prize shipped within its borders as a testimonial for its resourcefulness and industry.

In the city districts there is a pretty race for first place, and this is more than true in the other district. In all districts the prizes are not clinched by any particular candidates. First one will be in the lead, then another. Others are satisfied to remain further down in the list, and keep their votes in reserve, but they are determined upon winning one of the grand prizes. A great many who did not show any particular strength at the beginning of the contest have made great gains the past few weeks, and an onlooker may well conclude that the race lies to the one who can show the greatest strength at the finish.

News from the towns that have made the cause of their candidates their own indicates that this is regarded as something more than a mere gift enterprise. The value of the prizes—some of them being worth a year's salary in an important political office which a man might spend months of time to obtain, has been a prime factor in stimulating public interest. But it is in the personality of the candidates that the interest has centered.

What Figures Show
In the city the voting figures show that the efforts of those who are interested deeply enough to pitch into the matter of securing votes bring bountiful results. In both districts there are those who are in the contest heart and soul, and there should be a considerable element of pride in demonstrating that no mistake was made when your name was suggested for an energetic and popular candidate.

What one has done others can easily do. In the territory outside of the city a few have reaped a splendid harvest of votes, but in many communities nothing at all has been done.

Large Vote Cast
The changes shown in the standing of candidates approach such a beautiful level of great advance that it looks as though the contestants had held a mass meeting and concluded by resolution that the thing to do is to vote everything they have. And they certainly have been voting some during the last few days.

Future Subscriptions
Contestants may find in some cases friends who wish to help them in the contest by subscribing to The Daily Guard, but are already taking a local paper, which is paid in advance, and not desiring to receive more than one local daily in their home at the same time, the contest department has arranged to accept and issue votes on all such subscriptions, the paper to start at any future date that the subscriber may designate.

Things to Remember
Do not forget to put your name on every special subscription ballot. Quite a number have been thrown out in this office for the reason that the name of the contestant was not written on the ballot.

Do not wait for others to get the votes, but start today and make up for any time you may have lost in waiting for others to vote for you. These beautiful prizes are surely worth a strenuous effort on your part.

Small Payments
Candidates that have taken subscriptions for one, two or three months at the beginning of the contest should get these subscribers to pay the rest of the year as they are still considered new.

For example, a person who subscribes for the paper and paid 50 cents, received 1400 votes by getting them to pay $4.50 more you will be given 25,000 votes, less the 1400 votes you have already received on the 50 cent payment or 24,600 votes on $4.50 payment. This ruling also applies to any second payment you may secure. The price by mail is $3 year or 50 cents month. Second payments made at this rate count the same number of votes, but in all cases six months or more must be added to entitle you to the second payment. When in turning in such payments, kindly mark your stub "second payment."

Open Evenings.
For the benefit of those who are not able to get to this office during business hours, the contest department will be open every evening.

WALTHAM WATCHES

The Authentic American Watch

"—When an authentic watch is shown Each man winds up and rectifies his own."

There is nothing that gives so much value for the money as a good watch. You pay Fifty Dollars for a suit of clothes or a bicycle and it is gone in a year or two—no value remains. The same amount of money invested in a Waltham Watch adjusted to temperature and position is a safe and paying investment for your life and to be handed down to your heirs. Its value is constant and its usefulness increases.
