TOOTHACHE

Now my weary heart is breaking, for my left hand tooth is aching, with a harsh, persistent rumble that is keeping folks awake; followed out by long erosion, it, with spasm and explosion, seems resolved to show the public how a dog-gone tooth can ache. Now it's quivering or quaking, now it's not; fancy aching, then it shoots some Roman candles which go whizzing through my brain; now it does some lofty tumbling, then again it's merely grumbling, and anon it's showing samples of spring novelties in pain. All the time my woe increases; I have kicked a chair to pieces, but it did not seem to soothe me or to bring my soul relief; I have stormed around the shanty till my wife and maiden auntie said they'd pull their freight and leave me full enjoyment of my grief. I have made myself so pleasant that I'm quarantined at present, and the neighbors say they'll shoot me if I venture from my door; now a voice cries: "If thou wendest in the first place to a dentist"—it is strange that inspiration never came to me before.

THE OBERAMMERGAU PLAY

Some time in the coming summer—or the present summer, if you are critical about March sunshine—thousands of people from all over the world will go to Oberammergau, in Bavaria, and witness the Passion Play.

Just now most of the newspapers and magazines devote space to that event, and everything related to it in history and purpose is recited. With one exception.

It is stated that the play originated in the seventeenth century, "when the peasants, in order to avert a recurring blight on their flax crop, made a vow to heaven that they would portray, every ten years, the sufferings of Christ."

They have kept their vow. They went on for about two hundred years with no more spectators than cared to drift in from the surrounding villages; and then the fame of it went abroad, and people from every land under the sun now plan ten years ahead to go to Oberammergau and see the passion play. The thing has been caught with cameras, and on many stages the story of the play and scenes related to it are presented by lecturers.

But we don't find anywhere whether or not that blight to the flax crop was averted.

Every city in the country is striving to own and control its water, light and power utilities, and many of them have succeeded in working out the problem. Others, like Eugene, are engaged in a long and trying struggle against the hold which private corporations have secured, with the issue still in the balance. In the end nearly every one of these struggles end in a victory for the people if they only hold together long enough, but too often dissensions grow out of personal differences, augmented by the active, organized work of corporation agents, and the efforts are all in vain. Eugene is passing through this stage at the present time, and every advantage gained in the past four years will be lost to the people if they allow personal prejudices and quibbles over lesser matters to influence them in voting for candidates friendly to the corporation interests. During the past year the campaign of obstruction in the courts has delayed construction work on the city power plant many months, and has cost the city thousands of dollars, the purpose being to exhaust the money on hand before the work is completed, and to discourage the people by the many delays and added expense. The main thing for the people to do now is to view the question from the right standpoint and place the responsibility for these things where they belong. Once this is done there will be no question as to the outcome of the pending election.

Councilman W. S. Moon, who has made an excellent record in office, is naturally not anxious to continue in the service of the city, which is in many respects a thankless task. The other candidate in the Second ward, Mr. Koppe, who is a well-known businessman, superintendent of the Eugene Woolen Mills, having announced that he stands squarely for the policy of municipal ownership in all that the issue signifies, Mr. Moon voluntarily withdraws from the contest. That there should be no contest for the city offices on purely personal grounds is desirable from the standpoint of the common welfare.

The lecture bureau that is booking Commander Peary's engagements has cancelled all his Southern dates, because it refuses to allow the north-pole to be "subjected to gratuitous insult such as was given in Atlanta by Governor Brown, of Georgia." Brown called Peary a faker, and refused to introduce him to the audience, which was small. Up to the time of going to press, however, the bureau hasn't cancelled Mr. Peary's date for April, 1909, when he claims to have been frisking around at the extreme top of the earth.

The coal strike inaugurated last night will result in higher prices to the already over-taxed consumer, and the loss of a vast sum in wages to the miners. As for the employing operators, they will sell their stocks on hand at a much higher price, and when these are exhausted will put the men back to work on some kind of a compromise agreement, having thus actually made money because of the strike. There is a well-founded suspicion that these annually recurring strikes are systematically encouraged by the operators.

Here is an item of interest to the health advocates and the temperance folk: Mr. Roosevelt said to one of the correspondents at Khartoum: "My health has been marvelous; I have had no attack of fever for six months, and this I attribute to the great care in I took regard to water and diet. I drank no alcohol on the march." Before he left Washington his enemies industriously circulated the tale that he had contracted the liquor habit.

THINGS WE THINK and WHAT OTHERS THINK

is the germ of La Grippe, that, breathed in, brings suffering to thousands. Its after effects are weakness, nervousness, lack of appetite, energy and ambition, with disordered liver and kidneys. The great need then is Electric Bitters, the splendid tonic, blood purifier and regulator of stomach, liver and kidneys. Thousands have proved that they wonderfully strengthen the nerves, build up the system and restore health and good spirits after an attack of Grippe. If suffering, try them. Only 50c. Perfect satisfaction guaranteed by W. A. Kuykendall.

A slight accident prevented what would probably have been a successful flight of John C. Burkhardt's biplane at Albany yesterday. The machine jumped the starting rack after running several yards and the jar broke a wire which caught the propeller and tore out a part of the end of the propeller wheel. It will be necessary to secure a new propeller.

The ladies of the Greater Medford Club, a civic improvement organization that has done much for Medford's progress, gave an entertainment last night for the benefit of the library, at which $150 was cleared.

A LIBERAL OFFER

W. A. Kuykendall's Drug Store Guarantees a Relief for Dyspepsia. If the Remedy Fails It Costs Nothing

To unquestionably prove to the people that Indigestion and Dyspepsia can be permanently relieved and that Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets will bring about this result, will furnish the medicine absolutely free if it fails to give satisfaction to any one using it.

The remarkable success of Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets is due to the high degree of scientific skill used in devising their formula, as well as to the care exercised in their manufacture, whereby the well-known properties of Bismuth-Subnitrate and Pepsin have been combined with arminatives and other agents.

Bismuth-Subnitrate and Pepsin are constantly employed and recognized by the entire medical profession as invaluable in the treatment of indigestion and dyspepsia.

The Pepsin used in Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets is prepared by a process which develops its greatest efficiency. Pepsin supplies to the digestive apparatus one of the most important elements of the digestive fluid, and without it the digestion and assimilation of food are impossible.

The carminatives possess properties which aid in relieving the disturbances and pain caused by undigested food. This perfect combination of these ingredients makes a remedy invaluable for the complete relief of indigestion and dyspepsia.

I am so certain of this that I urge you to try Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets on my own personal guarantee. Three sizes, 25 cents, 50 cents and $1.00. Remember you can obtain Rexall Remedies in Eugene only at our store—The Rexall store, W. A. Kuykendall.

CHILD UPSETS LAMP, BURNED TO DEATH

Medford, Or., March 31.—News was received here today of the death of the 2-year-old child of Mr. and Mrs. Weeks, of Trail, Or., Sunday night. The father and mother left the four children in a room and the youngest child upset a lamp. In an instant its clothes caught fire and before the parents could come to its rescue it was so severely burned that it failed to recover.

WORSE THAN BULLETS

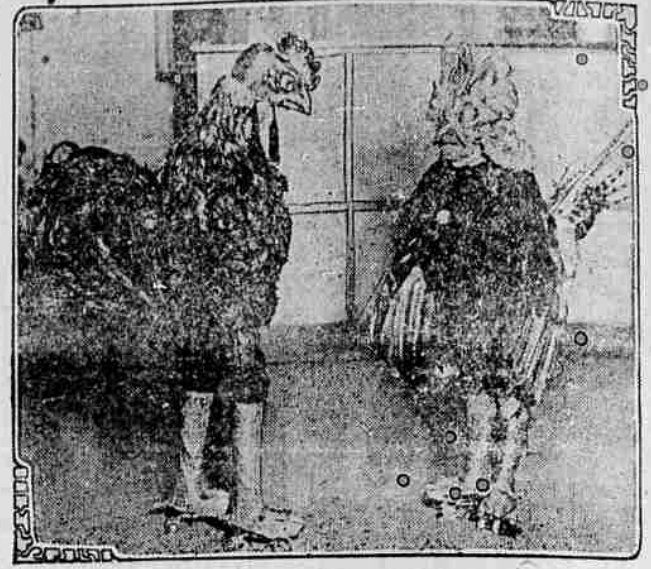

Bullets have often caused less suffering to soldiers than the eczema. L. W. Hartman, Burlington, Me., got in the army, and suffered with forty years. "But Bucklen's Arnica Salve cured me when all else failed," he writes. Greatest healer for Sores, Ulcers, Bolls, Burns, Cuts, Wounds, Bruises and Piles. 25c at W. A. Kuykendall.

"Chantecler" Craze Puts Rooster And Hen Pheasant on Rollers

One of the developments of the "Chantecler" craze in Europe has been the adaptation of the rooster costume to various uses. In a recent masked ball in a London rink, at which all the guests wore roller skates, the prizes were carried off by a man dressed like Rostand's Chantecler and a woman who was clad to imitate the hen pheasant, the heroine of the French play.

FATHER OF 22 CLAIMS

THE CHAMPIONSHIP

New York, March 31.—Daniel J. Bulger, of No. 286 Prince street, Flushing, put in a claim for the championship among the largest family raisers. This honor was formerly accorded Oscar Darling, father of 28 children, but the father has two wives and Bulger, who has been married only once, has 22 children. Of the 22 children, 10 are boys and 12 are girls.

"It kept me poor to raise such a family," said Mr. Bulger, "but I have no regrets. I believe in large families. Children are indeed an expensive luxury, but they are worth all they cost."

CRESWELL NEWS.

Glenn, the seven-year-old son of B. S. McKay, fell from a tree on Saturday and broke his left arm near the wrist. The fracture was reduced by Dr. George. This is the second time the little fellow has suffered a broken arm in his short life.

Thomas Ballantyne of Chicago, was here Friday looking over this section. He left Saturday for the north, but may return and locate here, as he was well pleased with Creswell. Mr. Ballantyne is a neighbor of relatives if Mrs. Henry Olson of this place, and had a pleasant visit with that family while here.—Chronicle.

We guarantee Sutherland's Eye Salve to cure common sore eyes in 24 to 36 hours. This seems strange, but it is backed by our guarantee. You run no risk and it only costs 25c. Sold by Dillon Drug Co.

A GIANT PEAR TREE

NEAR COTTAGE GROVE

S. B. Morris, the nurseryman, top worked a pear tree planted in pioneer times on the Phillips place, two miles northwest of the city last week. "This tree had a trunk a little over six feet in circumference two feet above the ground, and was 45 feet in height. Mr. Morris went up to a height of 32 feet and cut the branches off and put in 135 Bartlett pear scions, the tree's fruit being worthless. It is probably the largest pear tree in this part of the country.—Leader.

SAVED FROM THE GRAVE.

"I had about given up hope, after nearly four years of suffering from severe lung trouble," writes Mrs. M. L. Dix, of Clarksville, Tenn.
